POST-SCRIPTS

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

Let hurried folk a moment muse,
Upon the wonders of the news.
Each day, like every day of yore,
Brings forth things never heard before.

• • • •

The reporters have neglected to mention another world record broken by Lindbergh—he's the only American who ever arrived in Paris with 27 cents in his pocket and got a cordial welcome from the French.

• • • •

It looks as though the President had decided to lead "The Strenuous Life" in the Black Hills preparatory to trying to do a Teddy in 1928.

• • • •

The whole world rejoices that De Pinedo comes safely to land, if it is at the end of a tow-line.

"Larger vessels venture more;
Little boats must keep near shore."

• • • •

Lindbergh gets his first kiss that counts.

• • • •

The sagacity of the American policy in having no traffic with Russian bolshevism, which aims at the annihilation of the world, is demonstrated as Britain prepares to sever diplomatic relations with the Moscow terrorists, a step essential to her safety, but which brings Europe once more within the shadow of war. Dearly has England paid for her folly in ignoring Kipling's warning of Adam-zad—

"'When he shows as seeking quarter, with paws like hands in prayer,
That is the time of peril—the time of the Truce of the Bear.'"

• • • •

But can the President worry along on his vacation in a 40-room shack in South Dakota after having once known the luxurious hardships of life at Camp Citronella, and after the Dupont circle mansion will a reservation of only 125,000 acres be sufficient? We fear he will be cramped for space. As Cowper exclaimed:

• • • •

The body of a New York baker is found swinging from a tree on the old New Market battlefield, down in Virginia, and may have been hung there to conceal the crime of murder.

Now climb who dare where he swings in air,
And pluck me five locks of the dead man's hair!"

• • • •

Europe sizes up the Flying Swede's exploit somewhat more classically, but less graphically, than they do out in Minnesota—"Yiminy, what a yump!"

• • • •

De Pinedo took the advice given to Mr. Oleson—"Yump, Ole, you can do it in two yumps"—and then he didn't.

• • • •

It won't hurt France's feelings any that the Italian failed where the American succeeded.

• • • •

We incline to the view that a few more days of association with Mr. Lindbergh will make a finished diplomat out of Ambassador Herrick.

• • • •

You'd never suspect from the floods of vituperation let loose on the Middle West by the Sinclair Lewises that they were producing Lindberghs out there instead of Babbitts and Elmer Gantrys, which seems to card-index the scandalmongers satisfactorily.

• • • •

Foreign countries from every corner of the map pour their congratulations upon the transatlantic flight into the State Department. The idea is spreading that the trip was made by C. A. L.

• • • •

The President will be able to enjoy the utmost privacy in the Black Hills—he may encounter a few mountain lions but no office seekers.

• • • •

The Paris reporters interviewing Lindbergh couldn't have asked any more inane questions if they had been attending a White House conference.

• • • •

Eastern North Carolina's prayers for rain are answered and now the fundamentalists down there are sorry they didn't also ask for an umbrella.

• • • •

Five survivors of the original founders of the Antisaloon League hold a reunion, and surveying the present by looking back 34 years can say to themselves, "wet, wetter, wettest!"

• • • •

American women in the presence of royalty at Buckingham Palace prove how democratic we are, but are we downhearted? In the immortal language of Hamlet,

"No; let the candied tongue lick absurd pomp,

• • • •

Wife of a celebrated big-game hunter never lost sight of the fact in the African jungles that there is no big game like a woman's own husband. Like Cromwell, she trusted in God—and kept the powder on her nose dry.

MAN KILLS FIANCEE AND SELF IN AUTO AS CROWDS WATCH

BOTH VICTIMS DEAD ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

Francis Osterman Had Driven Verna M. Poe to Store for Shopping.

Before the startled eyes of several hundred shoppers yesterday afternoon, Francis Osterman, 37 years old, 1339 Maple View avenue southeast, shot and killed his fiancee, Miss Verna M. Poe, 25 years old, 1101 Massachusetts avenue northwest, and then committed suicide in his automobile at Eighth and D streets northwest.

Four shots were fired from a .32-caliber pistol by Osterman. Two of them struck Miss Poe in the left temple, one pierced Osterman's forehead and the other went through the top of the automobile. Both Miss Poe and Osterman were pronounced dead by Dr. A. E. Preece when they arrived at Emergency Hospital.

The tragedy, which occurred at 4:30 o'clock, followed a brief but violent argument, according to witnesses. Osterman parked his automobile in front of a store shortly after 4 o'clock and Miss Poe alighted and went into the store to purchase some cosmetics.

Policeman R. E. Davis, of the First Precinct who saw the couple drive up to the store, said that they appeared to be in good spirits and that while Miss Poe was shopping Osterman waited patiently and did not seem to be angry.

Shots Terminate Argument.

When Miss Poe returned to the automobile after completing her shopping she sat in the front seat of the car beside Osterman and they began talking. After a few moments, according to passers by, the pair became involved in an argument and both seemed to grow angry.

Eighth street by this time was thronged with shoppers and crowds on their way home. Witnesses said that Osterman drew the pistol from his pocket, placed it against Miss Poe's temple and pulled the trigger three times. One of the cartridges failed to explode. Miss Poe slumped in her seat without making an outcry.

Before any one in the startled crowd realized what had happened or made a move toward the car Osterman placed the pistol against his forehead and fired twice. The first bullet struck him and the second shot, which went wild, was fired as he slumped across the steering wheel.

Policeman Davis, who, when the shooting occurred, was at Eighth street and Market space, ran toward the car and was one of the first persons to reach it. He placed the unconscious forms of Osterman and Miss Poe in an automobile driven by I. H. Ward, jr., attached to the House of Detention, who was waiting for Mrs. Mina Van Winkle. The couple died in the automobile en route to the hospital.

Osterman left his home shortly after noon after telling his mother he was going downtown to pay their telephone bill. He met Miss Poe at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and they drove to the store she wished to visit.

Couple Friends Five Years.

The couple met at the bureau five years ago. Osterman was employed there as a plate printer. They saw

English Peer Interior Decorator in America

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, May 24.—A peer of the United Kingdom is quietly carrying on in his office here, pending the arrival of instructions from his legal advisers in London which will result in his returning to his native country for the long ceremony of investiture. He is Gordon Howard, Earl of Effingham, and during the five years in which he has lived here, he has been a member of the interior decorating firm of Bordier & Howard. He succeeded to the earldom on the death of his first cousin on May 6.

A cousin of Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador to the United States, the new Lord Effingham has in his veins the blood of all the Howards.

Newton, N. J., May 24 (By A. P.).—Hudson Maxim, inventor and explosives expert, who died on May 6, bequeathed his estate to his widow with the exception of $100 left to his son, Hudson Day Maxim, of Riverton.

The will, admitted to probate yesterday, was dated November 2, 1925. The estate of the inventor was small. Several years ago he deeded all his property to his wife and transacted all his business in her name. Her will provided for the reversion of the property to him if she pre-deceased him. In that case Mr. Maxim provided that $100,000 should be used to publish and disseminate his book, "The Science of Poetry and the Philosophy of Language."

VICTIMS OF DOUBLE SLAYING

FRANCIS J. OSTERMAN AND MISS VERNA M. POE.

DAYTIME ROBBER LOOTS PIGGLY WIGGLY OF $180

UNMASKED, BUT ARMED

A lone robber late yesterday afternoon "stuck up" the Piggly Wiggly store at 1622 H street northwest, robbed the cash register of approximately $180, forced a clerk to lie prostrate on the floor after carefully locking him in and calmly made his escape, unmindful of several scores of persons waiting for street cars only a few feet away.

The hold up, which occurred a few minutes after 6 o'clock, was perpetrated after the store had closed and while Oscar Downs, 23-year-old clerk, was counting the day's receipts.

Despite the fact that several men and women were standing just a few feet away from the large plate glass window in front of the store, the robber, who entered by a rear door, advanced, gun in hand, toward Downs, who was counting the money at the cash register near the front of the store, and commanded him, "Put up your hands!"

The robber, who was unmasked and who is believed by police to be the same "lone wolf" who has held up several other stores in the same manner recently, became angered at Downs when the clerk was slow in obeying his commands and threatenly jabbed the large pistol he was carrying into Downs' ribs.

After locking the rear door, the robber took a set of keys away from Downs and tried to unlock the front door. The "lone wolf," with his pistol in one hand, fumbled with the keys for several minutes in an effort to get one that fitted the front door. Becoming impatient, he commanded Downs to get up off the floor and find the right key.

A street car stopped at this time and more than a dozen persons alighted but the robber, with his pistol still handy, and without a show of nervousness, stepped outside, ordered Downs to lie still on the floor, closed the door and locked the clerk in.

J. A. Birch, a news vender with a stand near by, who watched the robber fumbling around with the keys, became suspicious and started for the store.

Brother Kills Sister And Older Brother

Knoxville, Tenn., May 24 (By A. P.). Believed to have become suddenly demented, Sam Phillips, a textile worker, early today slew his brother and sister with an ax and then committed suicide by hurling himself in front of a freight train. Papers found in his decapitated body led investigators to his home, where the bodies of his brother and sister were found.

Floyd Phillips, about 25 years old, apparently was the first victim of his younger brother's frenzy. There was evidence of a terrific struggle.

U. S. Sets 41 Yaqui Indians at Liberty

Tucson, Ariz., May 24 (By A. P.).—Forty-one Yaqui Indians of Mexico, who wandered across the international line several weeks ago and were taken in tow by United States military authorities were released from custody here today.

Immigration authorities into whose jurisdiction the Indians were delivered by the military, would assign no reason for the release.

Robert A. Scott, immigration inspector, said he did not care to discuss the matter.

Sir Esme Howard, Ill In Canada, Improving

Vancouver, B. C., May 24 (By A. P.). The condition of Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, who was taken suddenly ill during an address to the Canadian Club here yesterday, was much improved today.

Sir Esme passed a comfortable night and rested today in preparation for resuming his trip.

FIVE ARE FOUND GUILTY IN FILM ACTOR'S DEATH

Manslaughter Verdict Based on Grounds That Party Was Itself Unlawful.

MRS. KERRICK UNMOVED

Los Angeles, Calif., May 24 (By A. P.). Mrs. Sarah Kerrick and four others were found guilty of manslaughter here late today for the killing of Tom Kerrick, motion picture actor, at a drinking party at Hollywood.

Judge Carlos Hardy told the jury in his instructions that if they found that the defendants had unlawfully gathered at the Kerrick flat for the party, during which the actor was shot, they should return a verdict of manslaughter.

Those convicted besides the widow of the slain cowboy-actor were Anita Davis, Iris Burns and Henry Isabell, motion picture extras, and Joe Hunt, Arizona cowboy, all of whom were members of the "moonshine" party at the Kerrick home which the police characterized as one of the wildest ever to come to their attention.

Mrs. Kerrick, whose testimony in her own defense was marked by hysterical fits of weeping, evinced little emotion when the verdict was announced. Sentence will be pronounced Friday.

The trial of the quintet, each member of which attempted to throw the blame for the shooting on another, was unusual in that defense attorneys, through cross-examination, conducted almost wholly the prosecution's case.

Kerrick was shot to death early on the morning of April 9 in his Hollywood flat. Miss Davis declared on the witness stand that the widow of the film "two-gun" Western player had killed her husband in a jealous rage when he accepted a drink of liquor from the hand of Miss Burns rather than the cup of coffee proffered by his wife.

Miss Burns denied that she was at the flat at the time of the shooting and Shot Your Sweetheart, Wife Wires Governor

Mexico City, May 24 (By A. P.).—In a jealous rage Senora Magdalena de Ramirez, wife of the governor of the state of Jalisco, today shot and perhaps mortally wounded Senorita Emma Bogarin and also shot her mother; then telegraphed to her husband at Guadalajara that she had shot his sweetheart.

The police said that Senora Ramirez told them she had long besought her husband to forget his infatuation for the girl. Then his wife came to Mexico City and waited in front of the Bogarin house with a pistol and shot her rival when she appeared.

ENGLAND TO BREAK OFF ALL RELATIONS WITH THE SOVIETS

CITES DATA SEIZED IN RAID UPON ARCOS

Documents, He Says, Show Red Activity in U. S. as Well as Britain.

London, May 24 (By A. P.).—Premier Baldwin made in the House of Commons today perhaps the gravest announcement Parliament has had to listen to since the war—that the British government had decided to sever all relations with Russia.

By a curious coincidence it was Empire Day, when the whole nation celebrates its loyalty and unity. Also by the chance of travel Ramsey MacDonald, former labor premier, whose government it was which recognized the Soviet government, arrived just too late to hear the prime minister make his momentous statement, which was listened to in a tense silence by a crowded house and a large diplomatic gathering, including the German and Japanese Ambassadors.

Is Stern in Indictment.

It was a formidable indictment which the head of the government, replacing for the occasion Sir William Joynson-Hicks, home secretary, and Sir Austin Chamberlain, foreign secretary, who previously had charge of these matters, had to bring against the Soviet authorities as justification for the government's decision.

Premier Baldwin's comparatively short speech, delivered in a low and serious tone, appeared to carry full conviction, at least to all the members of the Conservative party, and even to some of the Liberals, where before some doubts had been entertained on the advisability or justification of going to the lengths the government had gone.

The house for the past few days had been expecting the home secretary to reveal the secrets of the Arcos raid. This the premier did to some extent, but not in general detail. Apparently this had been reserved for publication later in official papers.

Calls Rights Absurd.

What he outlined, quoting from various of the seized documents for the purpose, was proof of subversive activities by Soviet agents, and that there was no differentiation to be made between these activities and the activities of the trade delegation. It was a deliberate and systematic abuse of their diplomatic privileges by the Soviet authorities, which, the premier contended, justified the government in

Plane Defect Forces Wilkins to Return

The reason for return was that the plane had failed to rise more than 3,500 feet above the ground.

Armed Crowd Seeks Assailant of Woman

Little Rock, Ark., May 24 (By A. P.). City and county officers and an armed crowd of more than 100 men early tonight were searching for a negro who assaulted a white woman as she was picking flowers in her back yard in Park Hill, one of the most fashionable sections of the city.

A negro had been arrested tonight but had not been identified.

Black Hills Camp Favored For Summer White House

By NORMAN W. BAXTER.

The Black Hills of South Dakota appear to have won presidential favor as a summer vacation spot. A final investigation of the facilities at Camp Custer, Black Hills Reservation, is being made now, it was announced yesterday at the White House, pending final decision by President Coolidge himself.

If the summer White House is moved into the 125,000-acre game reservation in the western part of South Dakota it will mean that the Chief Executive is going to pass a rustic summer, absolutely detached from any of the distractions of the outside world. By rail, Camp Custer is 44 hours' train ride from Washington. The departure from the Capital probably will not be until after the middle of June.

It was intimated that the only thing that stands between tentative and final selection is a more accurate survey of the facilities at the State lodge to make sure that the President, his retinue and the correspondents who must make the trip can be adequately taken care of for the three months' period.

At Camp Custer the President will be the guest of the State of South Dakota, for all but a small portion of the preserve, which is Federal territory, is owned by that Commonwealth. The summer home itself was constructed by the State as a hotel and contains about 40 rooms with accompanying cottages. It stands on the main improved highway through the reservation at an altitude of more than 3,000 feet, but only a few miles away the hills, part of the slope of the Rocky Mountains, rise to a height of 6,000 feet. Harney Peak, the highest point in that territory, is more than 7,200 feet high.

Despite the highway President Coolidge will be thoroughly isolated. The nearest settlement to Camp Custer is Hermosa, 8 miles away, where the telegraph office that serves the camp is

FRENCH ARMY'S AVIATORS PAY HONOR TO LINDBERGH; AMERICAN CLUB IS HOST

Busy Day for Famous Flier

Is beset by tradesmen with wearing apparel made for him on "hurry up" orders.

Has breakfast of bacon and eggs with Ambassador Herrick.

Meets reception committee of the American National Aeronautic Association and the International League of Aviators.

Gives interviews to press and yields to clamor of throngs outside the embassy that he appear on the balcony.

Drives with Ambassador Herrick to the Hotel Ambassador, where he is the guest at luncheon of the American Club, and makes his second speech. Clamor of throngs outside again forces him to balcony.

Calls on the Minister of Marine to thank him for the latter's congratulations.

Drives to Le Bourget to see his plane and be received by 400 French fliers, who drink to him the Thirty-fourth Regiment's famous "wine of honor." Lindbergh gets two thrills in quick succession—tasting champagne (but not drinking it) and being kissed by a petite French brunette.

Dines at the embassy as the guest of Mrs. Parmely Herrick and a few friends, whom she refuses to name, "because I have other friends in Paris."

AFFAIR IS ATTENDED BY 400 FLYING MEN

Crowds Demand to See Young Missourian, Who Made Sea Flight Alone.

MUST WORK ON PLANE, DECLARES LINDBERGH

Paris, May 24 (By A. P.).—Capt. Charles Lindbergh passed from triumph to triumph in Paris today. He was hailed everywhere as the greatest aviator in the world and as true and fine an American as ever came across the ocean.

For the first time since his arrival a woman succeeded in kissing him.

His first public appearance of the day was among his own countrymen—400 fortunate folk who had seats for which ten times as many applied at a luncheon at the American club. Then he called on the minister of marine to thank him for his congratulations.

Later he went once more to the great flying field at Le Bourget, where on Saturday night he droppcd down out of the sky in his immortal flight from America. At Le Bourget 400 flying officers of the French army and several platoons of soldiers assembled to do him honor. Overhead, army and civilian airplanes roared and went through every possible evoltuion.

In the vast hangar, converted into a banqueting hall, the uniformed fliers of France surrounded Lindbergh as they drank to him as "one of us." The glasses were raised again to "one of the greatest, finest and most heroic of Americans," this toast being given by Col. Marchetti, commanding the Thirty-fourth Regiment of Aviation.

American Is Kissed.

Slightly a-tremble, the lanky young American took the glass handed to him, and, lifting it, said: "I drink to France, most heroic of nations and home of the greatest airmen."

But he did not drink. He allowed the champagne to touch his lips, but he swallowed none of it. A moment later the same lips were kissed by a petite Frenchwoman, the first to achieve an ambition that thousands, perhaps millions, have expressed since Lindbergh arrived over here. The lucky lady was Mrs. James Morrison, the French wife of an American who lives in Paris. When she was introduced to the young aviator, she looked up into his blue eyes and pleadingly asked: "May I kiss you?"

Though he blushed, the youth did not appear displeased. He may not have said "yes," but he did not say "no." And so the little lady's heels left the floor, and standing on tiptoe, she threw her arms around the aviator's neck and embraced him warmly.

Others Are Jealous.

The wives of many of the French aviators standing in the background immediately began to whisper, to say, even to shout, "We'd like to kiss him too." But none of them had the opportunity, for the blushing boy was escorted outside to inspect a row of military planes lined up for him to review.

With these experiences at an end, he was driven back to Paris and his home at the embassy, escorted all the way by police and cheered all along the route by French men, women and children, who had waited long just for a passing sight of him.

Tonight, sheltered from the public that does not seem to interest itself in any one else, he dined at the embassy as the guest of Mrs. Parmley Herrick, who had invited only a few intimate friends to be with her and Capt. Lindbergh at the table—their names she declined to make public, for she has other friends she would like to keep.

Lindbergh is a little weary, but far from exhausted by the incessant activities that have had no letup since his landing.

Time Is Well-Filled.

He knows nothing of the night life of Paris, and he is not likely to have an opportunity to learn much about it, even if he cared to, for his day time hours are filled for the remainder of his stay here with such a succession of functions and receptions that he will undoubtedly be happy to put his head upon his pillow long before the jazz bands get into their noctural strides.

Last night the aviator had a long sleep before facing his third day of arduous adulation. The clock in his bedroom had struck nine before he awoke, still in the ambassador's pajamas, for he had none of his own. Before he could get to breakfast, tradesmen began to arrive with articles of wearing apparel, ordered for him yesterday. He no longer now has to rely

M'NIDER PLANE CRASHES; HE QUICKLY FLIES AGAIN

SHIP LANDS ON ITS NOSE

Emerging unhurt from an airplane accident at Bolling Field at 4:25 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Acting Secretary of War MacNider entered another plane, and with Capt. Ira C. Eaker, Army Pan-American pilot, his companion in the wreck, continued his flying.

Acting Secretary MacNider, who makes frequent flights at the field, had entered a PT-1 training biplane for a short flight over the field, Capt. Eaker being the pilot, and the Acting Secretary of War was also at the controls.

While taxi-ing down the field for a good place to take off, at a point near the engineer's hangar, the tire of the left wheel blew out, causing the plane to run from its course into rough ground and turn upright on its front end.

The plane rose slowly, the shock being so slight, according to eye-witnesses, that Acting Secretary MacNider and Capt. Eaker were not thrown from their seats. A rescue squad, arriving at the scene, found them climbing out of the plane unhurt.

Another plane was brought out and Acting Secretary MacNider and Capt. Eaker resumed their flight. The blown tire and a mashed propeller was the extent of damage to the plane.

SPENCER RESTRAINED FROM SUING HIS WIFE

New York Supreme Court Rules That Both Are State Residents.

New York, May 24 ((By A. P.).—A motion to restrain Harold S. Spencer, former English Army captain, from prosecuting a divorce action, started in Appleton, Wis., against his wife, Mrs. Isabelle Beattie Spencer, daughter of Sir James and Lady Beattie, of St. Andrews, Scotland, was granted today in the Supreme Court.

The restraining order was granted by Justice Mitchell Erlanger on grounds that the two are residents of New York State. The divorce action was filed by Spencer in Wisconsin in April, and charges misconduct with William MacQueen, of Valparlso, Chile, former British Army lieutenant.

Capt. Spencer and Miss Beattie were married in London in 1918.

Newspapers devoted columns fifteen years ago to Capt. Spencer as the "boy bridegroom" of the previously thrice married Mrs. Amanda Ballentine, widow of George Ballentine, famous sportsman. The former Mrs. Ballentine died a few years after the marriage.

Wife and Her Admirer Face Murder Charge

Fall River, Mass., May 24 (By A. P.). Mrs. Gertrude Gibbons, young wife of Theodore R. Gibbons, mill worker whose body was found Sunday in a well in East Swansea, and Antone Da Silvia, of Pawtucket, R. I., were arrested today on charges of murder.

Mrs. Gibbons, who is the mother of a 4-year-old son, had not lived with her husband for some time. Gibbons recently had won an award of $1,000 in a suit of alienation of affections against Da Silvia, but it is understood that he accepted $100 in settlement. Soon afterward, police were told, the husband was the subject of threats "to get him."

Night Club in Miami Padlocked for Year

Jacksonville, Fla., May 24 (By A. P.). A permanent injunction padlocking Rainbow Garden, Miami night club, for one year, was granted today by Federal Judge William I. Grubb here.

The Government claimed that continuous violations of the prohibition laws warranted the order.

The closing order is the first of a series which the Government will endeavor to obtain against similar resorts in Florida, it was announced.

MACHINE NOT DAMAGED

Lisbon, May 24 (By A. P.).—Commander de Pinedo has been towed into Fayal.

An earlier radio message, received directly from Commander Francesco de Pinedo here today, stated that he was being towed to the Azores and that he needed no further assistance. The commander suffered no injury in the descent of his plane to the sea.

Buenos Aires, May 24 (By A. P.).—Wireless advices from Lisbon to La Nacion said that Commander Francesco de Pinedo landed 150 miles from the Azores because of fog and that his machine was being towed to Horta.

New York, May 24 (By A. P.).—The first definite word that Francesco de Pinedo, four-continent aviator, was apparently safe was reported this afternoon by the Radio Corporation of America to the Associated Press in a radiogram picked up by the Radio Corporation's coastal station at Chatham, Mass., reporting "all well" with his plane, Santa Maria.

The Radio Corporation said the message, originating with the steamer Cabo Torres, was relayed through the Leviathan, and read:

"Sailing vessel Infanta Vesagres, bound southeast, towing Italian hydroairplane Santa Maria Savoia 10016. All well."

The Cabo Torres was at latitude 41.25 north and longitude 32.28 west when the sailing vessel towing the Italian's plane was sighted at 12:50 G. M. T., or 8:50 Eastern daylight time.

The location of the sailing vessel was about 200 miles northwest of the main body of the Azores, but only 100 miles or so northwest of Flores, the most westerly island of the group. Flores, a mountainous spot, has two towns on it, Santa Cruz and Lagens.

Poppies Will Be Cast On Sea for War Dead

New York, May 24 (By A. P.).—A wreath of poppies and palm leaves to be cast upon the ocean on Memorial Day in honor of Americans who lost their lives at sea in the World War, was presented today to Capt. Van Beek, of the liner President Harding by the Grand Lodge of Masons.

Representatives of the three branches of the service, accompanied by a firing squad and a band, marched down Broadway and then proceeded to Hoboken, where the liner is docked. The steamer will sail tomorrow.

John Coolidge Plans Summer at School

Burlington, Vt., May 24 (By A. P.).—John Coolidge, son of President Coolidge, again will attend the summer school of the University of Vermont this summer, according to information given out at the university today.

FLOOD WATERS RACE TO FORM VAST LAKE 50 MILES IN WIDTH

PARTS OF 5 PARISHES WILL BE INUNDATED

Residents Warned to Evacuate Area; Six Large Towns Are Menaced.

New Orleans, May 24 (By A. P.).—The last dry land between levees of the Mississippi and rolling highlands beyond the west banks of the Atchafalaya was vanishing tonight as water streamed through a rent in the dikes at McCrea, on the east bank of the Atchafalaya, to form a solid sheet of water almost 50 miles wide.

Before the flood waters have vanished into the Gulf of Mexico they will have cut a path 50 miles wide and 200 miles long from the Arkansas border to the Gulf.

Five additional parishes, with an area of 1,100,000 acres, and the homes of 80,000 people were thrown open to invasion by the inland sea when the river tore aside the protecton barriers at McCrea and spread over the lowlands of Pointe Coupee Parish.

Large portions of thirteen parishes in northeastern Louisiana still were under water as the flood moved down upon the south central Louisiana "sugar bowl," through a torn levee line along Bayou des Glaises and at Melville, on the west banks of the Atchafalaya and striking into new territory in the Atchafalaya Basin through the McCrea crevasse.

Five Parishes Evacuated.

The evacuation of five parishes added to the flood's conquest began several days ago when John M. Parker, flood relief dictator, warned residents of Pointe Coupee Parish, in which the break occurred, that such was the volume of water in the Tensas Basin that the levee line could not be held intact. He urged that women and children be sent out of the parishes.

A desperate fight had been kept up by more than 2,000 men as the river tore at the embankments.

A new sandbag dike had been built behind the crumbling old levee line. Throughout the night the current battered the banks with swift blows as the water raced southward to stream through the Melville crevasse. Early today there were indications that the line might fall. Workmen assembled on the levees. There was but a feeble splash, barely audible above the roar of the river, as the first sand bags dropped into the water near the center of the new line and the stream trickled through. Then other sections of the embankment crumbled and with a roar the river broke into the lowlands.

Workmen Are Rescued.

Boats already had been assembled in anticipation of the break and workmen were taken off promptly. Other boats were assigned to the vicinity from the Old River sector and relief work started immediately.

Late today the water had torn a breach more than 1,000 feet wide through the levee line. Weather Bureau bulletins said that the greater portions of Pointe Coupee, West Baton Rouge, Iberville and Assumption parishes would be flooded, the eastern extremity of the lake extending to Bayou La Fourche and covering a portion of La Fourche parish.

Residents of the threatened territory were warned by Mr. Parker today to abandon their homes. A half dozen large towns and a score of smaller ones are in the path of the flood and telegraphic warnings were broadcast through the area. New Roads, Donaldsonville, Plaquemines, Thibodaux, White Castle, Napoleonville and Houma are among the towns in the district.

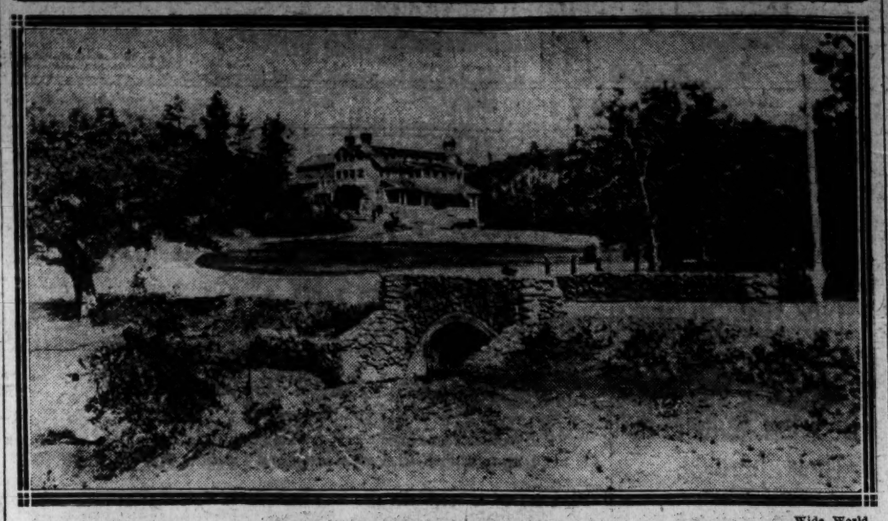

The water was not expected to reach New Roads before tomorrow.

Boy Finds Mother Unconscious in Bed

Mrs. Hattie S. Dinges, 32 years old, of 235 South Capitol street, was found unconscious in bed at her home early last night by her son, Vance, jr., 12 years old. She was taken to Emergency Hospital suffering from severe wounds on the face and head and from shock. She was still unconscious at a late hour.

Vance, jr., told police he came home from school for lunch yesterday afternoon and found his mother in bed. She mumbled to him to get his own luncheon. Returning home again about 5 o'clock, the boy said he called for his mother and receiving no response, investigated, finding her in bed unconscious with the covers over her face. Police believe the woman may have fallen down the cellar stairs and struck her head on a half gallon jar which was found broken and bloodstained near a bundle of clothing at the foot of the stairs.

WOMEN'S CLUBS CONVENE IN MONTGOMERY COUNTY

Addresses by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington; Oliver Owen Kuhn, president of the Montgomery County Civic Federation, and Mrs. John L. Alcock, of Baltimore, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, featured the twenty-second annual meeting of the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs, held in the amusement park at Glen Echo yesterday, with the Clara Barton Club, of Glen Echo, hostess. More than 400 members of the 31 constituent organizations attended.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. O. C. Merrill, of Chevy Chase, due to illness, the vice president, Miss Estelle T. Moore, of Sandy Spring, presided. The opening exercises were marked by the recital of the collect for Women's Clubs and the Lord's Prayer and singing by the children of the Glen Echo public school. The address of welcome, which was by Mrs. Blanche A. Odell, of Glen Echo, was followed by greetings to the club members and guests by the presiding officer.

The principal business of the day consisted of submission of reports by the officers and committees on education, fine arts, American home, social service, credentials, press and publicity, club extension, legislation, library extension, conservation, county fair, international relations and resolutions. The singing of "Our Pledge," the song of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, led by the composer, Mrs. Chester B. Graham, and of "Maryland, My Maryland," opened the afternoon session.

Between the sessions the members of the executive board of the County Federation and a few others were entertained at luncheon by the Clara Barton Club, of which Mrs. William J. Ransdell is president. The arrangements for the meeting were in charge of a committee, of which Mrs. H. W. Houghton was chairman.

United Presbyterians Open Session Tonight

The sixty-ninth annual assembly of the United Presbyterian Church will open tonight at 8 o'clock in Wallace United Presbyterian Church, Randolph street and New Hampshire avenue. Approximately 350 commissioners from all parts of the country, are expected to attend.

The conference on evangelistic work of the church opened last night and will continue through today. The Rev. A. E. Kernaham, of Boston, and the Rev. George C. Pigeon, of Toronto, spoke last night. The Rev. R. A. Hutchison, of Pittsburgh, retiring moderator, will preach the opening sermon of the general assembly tonight. A new moderator will be elected to perside at tonight's meeting.

Police Notebook Stops Knife Thrust

A small notebook, carried in his breast pocket, yesterday stopped a knife thrust at Policeman Charles D. Poole, of the Second Precinct. The policeman's assailant, Eugene Turner, 29, of 1907 Eleventh street northwest, was treated at Emergency Hospital for injuries he received in the fight.

Policemen John P. Hoffman and Poole sought to place Turner under arrest when Turner is alleged to have seized Hoffman's baton and struck Poole across the head. The knife thrust was directed at Poole's heart, but stopped at the notebook. Turner was charged with assault and disorderly conduct.

located. The next neighbors will be at Custer, a settlement of 1,500 persons 14 miles distant, and the railhead and shopping center is at Rapid City, which is 32 miles from Camp Custer.

The site was offered some weeks ago by the people of South Dakota through Senator Peter Norbeck and the promise was made at that time that any changes or improvements that the President might care to suggest would be made.

The entire reservation abounds in game. Senator Norbeck said yesterday that elk, deer and buffalo were all native to the section and that some of the best trout fishing in the United States is obtainable only a short distance from Camp Custer. The President became an enthusiastic fisherman while at White Pines last summer.

"South Dakota has something that overtops them all," says a description of the Black Hills Reservation written since it first became known that it was one of the spots offered to the President.

"In the Black Hills region will be found everything that others offer and a peculiar charm that none of them possess. To begin with the Black Hills area is the oldest bit of dry land on the American continent. So far as geology shows, Harneys Peak has never been resubmerged since first it thrust it score of granite and porphyry up through the accumulated layers of rock, as once was described by a notetd scientist, much as one would stick his thumb through a layer cake.

"The President can find in the canyon walls the fossil remains of giant beasts and reptiles that flourished there when the earth was younger by anywhere from 3,000,000 to 10,000,000 years. He can also see the pit from which was yielded the tooth that denotes the presence of man among those animals.

"No other region in the world presents such a variety of flowers as flourish in the Black Hills. June is the month of roses everywhere, but in the Black Hills is found something that exists nowhere else. June is accompanied by such a display of wild roses as bewilders the visitor on first encountering the beauty of this peculiar attribute of the region. Not patches, but acres, and miles of them, growing close to the ground, lovely to behold, fragile and evanescent to handle, but perfuming the air with a fragrance that is never forgotten.

"Mr. Coolidge found zest in fishing last summer in the Adirondacks. In the streams of the Black Hills he will find zest and reward as well. Under the looming cliff, or below the clump of ash, aspen, or willow, he will find many a quiet pool in which lurk the finest of trout, with now and then bass. If it is fishing he wants, the Black Hills afford it. He may see, but not molest, deer and antelope, bison, and, if he watches closely, a bear or, maybe, a mountain lion."

Playground Children Stage May Festival

Approximately 500 persons witnessed the seventh annual May festival of the Virginia Avenue Playground, Tenth street and Virginia avenue southeast, yesterday afternoon. The festival was under the direction of Miss Thelma E. Smith.

Fifty boys and girls participated, Elizabeth Leek, student at Brent School, was May Queen. Her attendant was Ellen Elliott. The climax of the festival came with the Maypole dance. The pole and ribbons were the colors of the rainbow and the ten children who danced about it were arrayed in old-fashioned costumes. Edward Sonne and Dorothy Serrell sang "School Days," and were joined in the chorus by the other children. Those who assisted Miss Smith in arranging the festival were George F. Conner and Miss Frances Rozell.

ThievesRaidPharmacy For Fine Liquor Stock

After breaking open a basement door of a drug store at 2528 Wisconsin avenue northwest early yesterday, burglars selected six cases of choice rye whisky, fourteen pints of rum, two cases of choice wines and five gallons of alcohol.

Before leaving, they went upstairs to the first floor, stole a quantity of cigarettes and then ransacked the cash register of 150 pennies, according to Paul Pearson, proprietor of the drug store.

Sons and Daughters Of Liberty Convene

The thirtieth annual session of the State council of the Virginia Sons and Daughters of Liberty was convened yesterday morning at the Raleigh Hotel. In the afternoon the delegates went to Great Falls as the guests of the Council of Washington.

At the morning session Mrs. Gola Duval, of this city, was nominated State councillor, and Mrs. Ida Bradley, of Newport News, Va., was nominated State associate councillor. Three places were suggested for the next session, Norfolk, Bristol and Richmond.

MAN KILLS SELF IN ZOO; AUTOIST DRIVES TO DOOM

SUICIDE IN POOR HEALTH

One man lost his life when the automobile he was driving sped over the sea wal lat Hain's Point into 20 feet of water, and another died after shooting himself through the heart near the Harvard street entrance of the zoo early yesterday afternoon.

Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt, who issued certificate of suicide in the case of John Rudolph Anderson, 25 years old, of 1631 R street northwest, who shot himself, ordered an inquest to be held this morning at the District Morgue to inquire into the death of J. F. Woods, 41 years old, of 213 C street northwest, who drowned before rescuers could bring him from the river.

Wood's body, which was under water 45 minutes, was recovered by sailors from the naval air station. Members of the Fire Department rescue squad worked over Wood's body more than half an hour in an effort to revive him.

Five men and a woman saw Woods' automobile go over the sea wall. Witnesses told police Woods' drove his automobile around the Speedway twice and then, when nearing Hains Point, put on a sudden burst of speed and drove into the water.

Anderson was seen by persons living in the vicinity of the Zoo running toward the park shortly before he killed himself. Park Policeman Richard Sebastian, who heard the report of the pistol, rushed to the spot near the duck pond, saw Anderson stagger about 10 feet and fall.

Anderson, who came to this city about two years ago after leaving the Army, had been in ill health recently, according to N. Solinski, his roommate. Anderson's mother lives in Salt Lake City.

CROWDS SEE MAN KILL HIS FIANCEE AND SELF

each other frequently and early this year friends of the couple learned that they were negaged.

They seemed devoted to each other, according to their friends, and so far as known never had a serious quarrel until Sunday night when Osterman visited Miss Poe at her apartment. According to neighbors, they sat in Osterman's automobile in front of her apartment and apparantly quarreled. Miss Poe after a short time stepped from the automobile and ran into her apartment. She appeared frightened, neighbors said. Osterman drove away.

Miss Poe did not see Osterman again until yesterday. She lived with her two sisters, Ruby and Myrtle Poe. Her parents live at Laurel, Md. Miss Poe's sisters fainted at Emergency Hospital when they learned of her death.

Osterman lived with his parents and two brothers. He had been employed at the bureau for seven years. During the World War he served in France and, according to his mother, had not been in good health since his return to this country.

Frequently he complained of pains in his head, his relatives said. Since his return to this country he has had two operations performed on his head and has been under treatment at both Mt. Alto and Walter Reed Hospitals. Several months ago, his mother said, he fainted while driving his automobile and told her at that time that he was afraid he was losing his mind. Yesterday he complained to his brother that he was worried about his health.

Saturday he said he was feeling ill and stayed away from work and yesterday told his mother that he was going to stay home and rest. He did not seem to be worried she said. The shooting was witnessed by Charles A. Gaho, 3842 Blair road; the Rev. Fortune, 2118 Second street northwest; Thomas A. Gromme, an employe in the general accounting office, and Charles Ruby, of York, Pa.

Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt, after an investigation last night, issued a certificate of homicide in the death of Miss Poe and suicide in the death of Osterman. Following the issuance of the certificates the bodies were claimed by relatives.

CADET UNITS MARCH UNDER BLAZING SUN TO WIN DISTINCTION

SERGT. GARNETT, WESTERN TAKES LEAD IN RANK

Brigade Rifle Team to Be Presented With Bronze Decorations.

With a cruel sun blazing down on them, eleven companies of high school cadets marched and maneuvered around the Griffith stadium yesterday. Today the other thirteen companies in the cadet corps will take the field.

This afternoon at 5 o'clock, one of the companies will be called forth from the massed formation on the field and, to the strains of martial music, will march out to receive the judges' prize and the crowd's acclaim.

Thus will end the fortieth annual competitive drill of the Washington High schools, the most colorful and most thrilling event in local high school life. Virtually all high school students will be present, together with hundreds of parents and alumni.

Instead of a scorching sun, the cadets who take the field today may have to contend with thundershowers. Such weather, with a lowering of temperature, was forecast last night.

Drill Begins in Morning.

The competitive drill of 1927 began yesterday morning at 8:30 o'clock, when Company B of Eastern High School marched on the field and set out to convince the judges of its superiority. Ten other companies followed, the day's program lasting until 4 o'clock.

Stretcher bearers, a first-aid tent and aromatic spirits of ammonia awaited any who "passed out" from the heat, but not a single casualty was recorded.

The judges, Maj. Robert E. O'Brien, Maj. Thompson Lawrence and Capt. Jaret Wood, told Lieut. Col. Wallace M. Craigie, professor of military science and tactics in the schools, that the boys conducted themselves like "true veterans" and were deserving of the highest praise.

Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the United States Army, will award the $3,000 Allison Naylor medal to the prize-winning company this afternoon. He also will present the captain of the winning company with a replica of that medal.

To First Sergt. Weaver Garnett, of Compan. M, Third Regiment, Western High School, Gen. Summerall will give the prize annually awarded to the "most distinguished" noncommissioned officer. Sergt. Garnett was selected by the judges yesterday from among the six best sergeants in the cadet corps.

The brigade rifle team of the Washington high schools has won the first prize in the junior class of the national intercollegiate rifle match, according to word received yesterday by Superintendent Ballou and Col. Craigie.

The fifteen members of the team will be awarded bronze medals by Gen. Summerall this afternoon. These medals were turned over to Col. Craigie yesterday by the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice.

Thirteen companies will parade before the judges today. The eight that will take the field during the forenoon belong to the First Regiment. They will march out in the following order:

Company B, 8:15 o'clock; Company H, 8:45; Company C, 9:15; Company A, 9:45; Company F, 10:15; Company K, 10:45; Company E, 11:15; Company D, 11:45.

In the forenoon the judges will look over the following companies: Company E, Second Regiment, 1:45 o'clock; Company C, Third Regiment, 2:15; Company G, First Regiment, 2:45; Company H, Second Regiment, 3:15; Company K, Third Regiment, 3:45.

Cadets of St. John's In Annual Drill Today

The cadets of St. John's College will hold their annual competitive drill at 10 o'clock this morning on the Ellipse. The winners will not be announced until the commencement exercises, June 14.

The battalion will be in command of Col. Hollis C. Clark and Lieut. Marion Stone, military instructors at the college; Cadet Major Paul Smith and Cadet Captains Craig, Forney, Ryan, Bobinger and Tutweiler. The judges will be Capt. Francis A. Byrne, Capt. Frank E. Linnell and Capt. Raymond M. Peak. The band will play under direction of Lieut. McCallum.

Y. M. H. A. to Select Orators for Contest

An oratorical contest will be held by the Young Men's Hebrew Association on the roof of the Jewish Community Center tonight to select Washington repersentatives in the middle Atlantic States Federation oratorical contest, in Norfolk, in September.

Louis E. Spiegler, former president of the Y. M. H. A., will preside. Judges will be Judge Milton Strasburger, Joseph A. Wilner and Mrs. A. L. Denbitz. The preliminaries are open to the public, and in event of rain will be held in the center auditorium. The oratorical contest in September will be held in connection with the annual convention of the Hebrew Federation.

Wilmington's Prayer For Rain Is Answered

Wilmington, N. C., May 24 (By A. P.). Wilmington's prayers for rain were answered today. Forty-eight hours, almost to the minute, since the ministerial association of the city asked that all religious organizations pray for rain for the Cape Fear section and less than 24 hours after such prayers had been said in the city, rain began falling here.

Starting at noon, it continued for hours and the territory immediately around Wilmington appeared to be in for a good soaking. This was the fifty-third day since rain last fell.

Falls Dead in Street Carrying Medicine

Returning from a nearby drug store with a package of medicine under her arm, Mrs. Gretchen Brahler, 63 years old, 1129 Fifth street northwest, fell dead at Fifth and K streets northwest last night at 10:30 o'clock. Dr. A. E. Preece, who was summoned from Emergency Hospital, pronounced her dead.

Her body was removed to the District Morgue and was identified late last night by John Kroll, 3011 Sixteenth street northwest. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt will view the body today. Her death, Dr. Preece believes, resulted from natural causes.

PLAN IS DISCLOSED WHEREBY ICE-BOXES GET FULL MEASURE

HOUSEWIVES PLACATED, OHIO OFFICIAL ASSERTS

Problem of Equitable Cutting of Dress Goods Also Tackled by Conferees.

The perennial strife between the housewife and the ice man was the subject of discussion yesterday at the national conference on weights and measures at the Bureau of Standards.

G. A. Votaw, sealer of weights and measures for Cleveland, Ohio, told the gathering that a housewife-ice man millennium has come out in his town through the use of an ice-scoring machine.

Generally speaking, the ice manufacturer never did go in for cheating the housewife, he said, but the trouble lay mostly with the inexpertness of the driver in the matter of cutting the ice. On the basis of 25-pound lumps, he said, the driver would cut 27 pounds for Mrs. Jones and 23 pounds for the lady next door. Naturally this was a system that did not give the lady next door any dispositional appetite. It was inequitable.

No doubt the ice man, after weighing up 23 pounds for the lady next door, would be willing to plaster another 2-pound piece onto the main lump if there were any process for doing so, he said. But in the absence of any such process she was allowed to be 2 pounds shy and thereupon developed a grievance against the world in general and the ice man in particular.

How the Machine Works.

But by the use of the scoring machine every housekeeper kets her 25-pound lump, maybe 26 pounds to 27 pounds. And she knews when she is getting it. The scoring machine marks off 25-pound lumps in the 300-pound block. That is what it does. And as long as the housewife's 25-pound portion follows these markings she knows she is getting her money's worth.

Use of the scoring machines in Cleveland is not mandatory. But one dealer, arising to a full appreciation of the housewife's feeling about the ice man, installed them and all the rest of the ice dealers had to follow suit.

It was developed that the scoring machines are in fairly general use in at least four States. They are not in use here.

The weights' conference is an annual gathering of State and city inspectors and the like. One of the things they must determine before they quite conferring Friday is whether the taximeter of a taxicab can be shifted from the front wheel to the rear wheel without loss to the passenger. Like all questions of this nature, there is much to be said on both sides.

The pains to which merchandise dealers are going to prevent the housewife from getting 1 inch less than the amount of crepe de chine or gingham or any other dress material than she pays for, and at the same time to keep her from getting more than she pays for, were related by Miss Margaretta Barnes, of a dry goods store of Baltimore. Her business is to train the clerks in accurate scissoring of material.

The necessity for accuracy is so impressed on the clerks, in fact, she said, that whenever they cut an inch too much they are required to figure out just how much this inch cost the employer and then multiply that by a large number of sales and contemplate the aggregate loss.

This inaccuracy of an inch is really the dealer's concern mostly, she explained, for the housewife doesn't care about an inch one way or the other. She can tuck an extra inch under. But it is surprising how much this means to the storekeeper in dollars and cents.

L. R. Boyer, of Fairbanks, Morse & Co., and M. J. J. Harrison, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, explained a new principle used in the manufacture of scales, and Dr. L. J. Judson, of the Bureau of Standards, discussed the testing standards of length.

UNCLE SHOOTS GIRL SHIELDING MOTHER

Man, Menacing His Sister, Fires On Niece; Takes Her to Hospital.

Baltimore, May 24.—Jerome Goodhues, 31 years old, was held without bail when arraigned in the Northwestern Police Court today on a charge of shooting his 22-year-old niece four times as she shielded her mother from the bullets early today.

The girl, Rose Sperzel, is in Bon Secours Hospital. She was shot once in the right thigh and three times in the left.

The shooting occurred this morning at the Sperzel home, according to Joseph Sperzel, the girl's father. He was awakened he said by a sound of breaking glass. He sprang from the bed and confronted Goodhues pistol in hand.

Attracted by the sounds, Rose came from her bedroom, sprang between her mother and the pistol. Almost immediately, Magistrate Johannsen was told, the revolver was discharged and four shots entered her body.

Goodhues then lifted her in his arms, rushed to the street, hailed a taxicab and took the girl to the hospital, Sperzel said.

Will Involving Estate Of $4,000,000 Upheld

Albemarle, N. C., May 24 (By A. P.).—A jury in superior court here today upheld the will of the late John S. Efird, multimillionaire cotton mill magnate who died several months ago.

The will disposing of an estate estimated at approximately $4,000,000, was attacked by W. T. Efird, a son, whose share was left in trust during his life to be distributed to his children. Efforts were made to prove that Mr. Efird was of unsound mind during his last days. The jury was out fifteen minutes.

"Trusty" Flees Prison At Pardon's Approach

Moundsville, W. Va., May 24 (By A. P.).—A few hours before the arrival of a pardon from Gov. Howard M. Gore, Dewey Bradford, 33, of Mingo county, escaped from the State prison farm here.

Bradford, a trusty, was serving a ten-year sentence for second degree murder.

$3,000,000 COLLEGE LUTHERAN PROPOSAL

Maryland Synod Reveals Its Plans for Vast School Near Kensington.

Tentative plans for a woman's college, to be located on a 189-acre tract near Kensington, Md., and to cost $3,000,000 were outlined at the 108th annual convention of the Lutheran Synod of Maryland, which opened yesterday in the Church of the Reformation here.

The college would consist of three units, each unit costing about $1,000,000. Those behind the project, it was said, hope to have the first unit completed within two and a half years.

Plans also were discussed for combining St. Paul's Lutheran Church and Epiphany Lutheran Church and building a new edifice for them at Connecticut avenue and Ellicott street northwest. According to the plans, the church is to be of Gothic design and will cost about $750,000. It has been proposed that a statue of Gen. John Peter Muhlenberg, the Lutheran minister who left the pulpit to fight for American independence, be placed in front of the church.

Warrenton to Honor Dead Next Saturday

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., May 24.—Confederate Memorial Day exercises will be held here under the auspices of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the Sons of Confederate Veterans next Saturday when the speaker will be State Senator Thomas J. Downing.

Warrenton, the home of such leaders as Ashby, Mosby, Payne, Hunton and others, has always made Confederate Memorial Day a holiday in reverence to the memory of the men in gray. Six hundred unknown Confederate dead lie buried under a large monument in the Warrenton Cemetery.

Given Life Sentence In 6-Year-Old Slaying

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., May 24.—A life sentence at hard labor in the Moundsville penitentiary was imposed yesterday by Judge Fisher in circuit court at Webster springs on James Davis, self-confessed slayer of George ("Hooligan") Bennett, who was shot to death in an abandoned coal mine there six years ago.

Bennett's skeleton was found in the mine last summer and six men were later arrested and tried for murdering him, William Hall and Sherman McAllister receiving life terms for complicity. Howard Wyre, Arden Cogar and Hanse Hamrick, recently tried, were acquitted.

Admiral Mark Bristol Is on His Way Here

Constantinople, Turkey, May 24 (By A. P.).—Rear Admiral Mark Bristol, newly appointed commander of American Naval forces in Chinese waters, left the Turkish capital today for Paris on board the Orient Express en route to Washington.

In a farewell message, the admiral said since he arrived in 1919, as the American high commissioner, Turkey has become a robust nation with a most promising future.

Milliet, the official newspaper, in a valedictory editorial, paid high tribute to Admiral Bristol as "the only pearl in a chain of thorns."

"I Cut Her Up," Trunk Murder Suspect Says

London, May 24 (By A. P.).—John Robinson, 46-year-old clerk, appeared in Westminster police court today charged with the murder of Mrs. Minnie Bonnati, wife of an Italian waiter, whose dismembered body was found in a trunk at Charing Cross Station, in the heart of London, two weeks ago.

The only evidence was given by the detective inspector who made the arrest. He testified that in the course of a statement to the police, Robinson said: "I met the woman at Victoria Station and took her up to my offices. I cut her up." Robinson was remanded.

MESSAGES WRITTEN BY DOOMED MINERS

Scribbling on Dinner Pail by Trapped Men Found in Everettville Pit.

Fairmont, W. Va., May 23 (By A. P.). A message from the dead came from the explosion-ripped Everettville mine today, showing that at least three of the 97 entombed miners lived for a time after the blast shattered the workings April 30.

When rescuers reached the last three bodies in the far recesses of the mine, they found that the victims had scribbled their farewell messages on a dinner pail. Henry Russell, whose body was brought to the surface today, wrote "at peace with God." He asked his wife to "tell father I was saved."

The other victims, William Erskine and his son, Cecil, addressed their surviving relatives, saying "also the Erskines are saved. We do not feel any pain. Try and stay in the U. S. A. Love to the kids."

Gas or after-damp was believed to have caused their death.

TRADE GROUP WANTS NEW KLINGLE BRIDGE

$500,000 Span Is Suggested by Committee From Board of Trade.

Construction of a new $500,000 bridge to replace the old Klingle Valley Bridge on Connecticut avenue and advocated in a resolution adopted yesterday by the committee on bridges of the Washington Board of Trade.

The committee also adopted a resolution asking the District Commissioners to order an examination of the Chain Bridge over the Potomac River and to order it closed to traffic if it is found unsafe. The bridge now is 50 years old and District officials have admitted that they don't know whether it is safe or not because of its peculiar hollow-steel construction. To examine it thoroughly it will be necessary to bore holes in the steel to determine whether there is rust inside.

The committee, headed by F. L. Averill, announced that it would hold a special meeting soon to discuss and take action on the Calvert Street Bridge.

John Poole Honored By Advertising Men

Greensboro, N. C., May 24 (By A. P.). Allen T. Preyer, of this city, was elected chairman of the Third district, International Advertisers Association, at the final business session of the district convention here today. He will succeed B. Y. Kinsey, of Richmond, Va. Other officers elected were John Poole, of Washington, D. C., vice chairman, and A. S. Myers, Greensboro, secretary-treasurer.

The 1928 annual convention will be held in Greensboro next spring, this city being chosen unanimously for the second consecutive year. Reports from various advertising clubs in the Southeastern district and discussion of the International Advertisers Association to be held in Denver, Colo., at an early date featured the closing session of the convention.

Arabs Ask League Aid Against Zion Policy

Jerusalem, May 24 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The Palestine Arab executive has addressed a memorandum to the permanent mandates commission of the League of Nations, protesting against the Zionist policy in Palestine.

The memorandum complains that the British government has not fulfilled the decisions taken by the permanent mandates commission, that the Arab language is being ignored, that there are too many British officials in Palestine, that the Arab population has not been consulted concerning the Palestine government's £4,500,000 loan and that there are no popular executive bodies functioning in the country.

Standardizing Drugs Laid to Pure Food Act

Asheville, N. C., May 24 (By A. P.). Standardization of drugs and their improvement is the principal business of the convention here this week of the American Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, according to a statement today by Ralph O. Hitch, of Boston, who was a speaker at the business session of the second day of the convention. There are about 160 of the most prominent drug manufacturers in the United States attending the convention. The election of officers is set for Friday.

Representatives of the United States Bureau of Chemistry gave talks today dealing with the United States pure food and drug act. In his address Mr. Hatch attributed the rapid development of the drug industry in the United States in recent years to the standardization in the manufacture of drugs and chemicals as a result of the Federal pure food and drug act.

MOTHER OF MISSING AIRMAN GETS CABLE OF MRS. LINDBERGH

Mme. Nungesser, Still Hopeful Son Is Alive, Is Touched Deeply.

WARNS AMERICAN NOT TO FLY ABOVE PARIS

Consul First Takes Note of Lindbergh to Family of Capt. Coli.

By HENRY WALES.
(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Paris, May 24.—I carried a message from Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh to old Mme. Nungesser today. Lindbergh's mother, reading the account of the touching meeting between the heart-broken French woman and the boy who did what Charles Nungesser apparently lost his life trying to do, cabled her sympathy. It read:

"Throughout my son's flight my thoughts were increasingly with you. I extend my sympathy as only a mother can feel. I, too, share your hope that he will be found.

"MOTHER LINDBERGH."

I climbed the six flights of musty stairs. Mme. Nungesser came to the door, red-eyed and looking very tired and twenty years older than on a certain Monday two weeks ago when the Paris papers said her Charles had landed at the foot of the Statue of Liberty.

I gave her Mrs. Lindbergh's cable, with a French translation attached. She fumbled for her glasses, set them carefully on her nose, and read.

Pleased by Attention.

"That is very nice, very nice of her, indeed," she said. "This Mme. Lindbergh must be a person with distinguished sentiments. Fancy that, cabling me all that distance. Her son is very nice, too. He is fine and handsome, but I was so surprised, for he is only a petit garcon, a grand petit garcon (only a little boy, but such a big little boy). But he has a great, great heart. When he kissed me I cried as I am doing now, monsieur. My Charles always said: 'I think your heart sheds tears, mama, when your head wills otherwise, for you sometimes seem not to realize that your eyes are weeping.'

"It is like that, monsieur. It has been more like that of late, for as I tell you, I have got such confidence in Charles. I know he is alive somewhere. But I must answer this gentille dame."

I offered to send the message, so Mme. Nungesser composed herself and dictated the following message:

"Mother Lindbergh: I was overjoyed to be able to receive your dear son. I embraced him, thinking all the while of my own Charles, who, I still have good hopes, will be found. I thank you for your sympathy and at the same time all the Americans for what they have done and are doing to help find my son."

Warns of the City.

As I turned to go she clutched my arm and said:

"Monsieur, I am told Le Petit Americain will fly over Paris. Well, then, can not you tell him for me that Charles thinks flying over a city is the most dangerous of all, there is so much to look at."

Consul Wesley Frost at Marseilles tonight carried Lindbergh's respects to Capt. Coli's mother, father and children. The note said:

"If possible, I would like to go to Marseilles and express my heartfelt homage to your intrepid son, whose name is written large in the annals of aviation."

Lindberg's mail contains 3,000 telegrams, among which are 200 signed "Lindbergh."

"I never knew I had so many relatives," he grinned.

Mme. Coli's Reply.

Marseilles, May 24.—Mme. Coli, mother of Capt. Nungesser's companion on the illfated Paris-to-New York attempt, has written to Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh as follows:

"Despite the grief I am prey to as a mother, I congratulate you in all sincerity on your magnificent exploit."

Likewise, she has written to Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh saying, "To the happiest of mothers, congratulations from an unhappy 'mama.'"

Mme. Coli keeps the two little girls her widower son left with her.

on borrowed garments nor the double-breasted blue suit which a valet found for him somewhere in the embassy household Sunday. Several suits for which he was measured yesterday were delivered as soon as he got out of bed this morning.

Shoe boxes in mountainous array were placed at his feet. He had to try on 12 pair of shoes before he found any that would fit. Seemingly there is something different in the contours of the feet cultivated in Paris from those grown in the Middle West.

The first pair that happened to fit were of a hue which is known out in St. Louis as "high yaller," but Lindbergh decided to take them, for there was little time to waste in trying to find a calmer color.

The first of the new Parisian suits he elected to wear was a double-breasted gray one. It didn't fit him perfectly, but it was better looking than the borrowed one, which had been hanging loosely about his slim body the past two days. A white starched collar gave a background to a gray silk tie, one of many brought to the embassy for his selection.

When he had dressed thus becomingly, the young aviator went downstairs to breakfast with his guardian angel, Ambassador Herrick. They sat in a sunlit room that looked upon the embasy's private garden, fragrant with flowers. Not far away the aviator could see Eiffel Tower, tall and gaunt against the cloudless morning sky. He has been asked whether he intended to go up Eiffel Tower, and his reply was: "I suppose so. I have already flown over it."

Banker Offers Aid.

While he ate his bacon and eggs, a great many other men who had partaken only of the French little breakfast of coffee, with hot milk and a bit of bread, began arriving at the embassy. There was Theodore Rousseau, American banker in Paris, come to help "the boy," with amazing mountains of congratulations and "propositions" that have flooded in on him every hour, every moment almost, since that instant when his silvery ship of the air slid down upon the green grass of Le Bourget.

There was "the American reception committee of the National Aeronautical Association of America," a group of Americans resident in Paris who intended to be the first to greet Lindbergh when he landed Saturday night.

Then there was the reception committee from the International League of Aviators, headed by Clifford B. Harmon. They, too, had to wait. Both of these committees had arranged accommodations for Capt. Lindberg in Paris, but the American Ambassador, on the impulse of a thrilling moment, decided that nothing less than the country's embassy was a fitting shelter for the hero of the air.

Breakfast over, Lindbergh went into the room where these committees were waiting and shook everyone's hand, and with seeming timidity thanked them one and all for their kindness. The ambassador did not leave his side for a moment.

"The Kid," as Paris insists on calling him, looked fine after a night's sleep had wiped away the lines that had begun to show beneath his eyes yesterday evening at the end of a difficult day of being honored in high places. The committees disposed of, Lindbergh talked with the newspaper men for a few minutes, but there was nothing new to add to what he told them the night before.

Under the sheltering arm of the ambassador, the slim, smiling youth went back upstairs. He, the ambassador and Mr. Rousseau prepared answers for some of the most important of the thousands of messages of congratulation—for many of them were from kings, presidents and others too important to be ignored, even in such busy times as Lindbergh is undergoing.

Crowd Waits Outside.

Outside the embassy the crowd of patient French folk began to grow into hundreds, thousands, all waiting for a glimpse of the genius who had jumped the Atlantic alone. The midday recess brought many school children and workers, all willing to miss lunch in order to let their eyes look upon the youth whom they had heard and read so much about these last few days.

A little past noon the harrassed, but happy hero, walked out on the balcony for the sixth or seventh time since Sunday, merely to show himself to the crowds collected outside the embassy gates. A few minutes later he got into Mr. Herrick's car to go to the American Club luncheon to be among his own countrymen for at least a little while before the French government once more began to shower honors upon him.

Great crowds were outside the American Club as the car speeded through a lane flanked by Republican Guards resplendent in uniforms and gleaming helmets. Most of the 400 guests were already seated. The corridors were packed with others who had to be content with the hope of a quick close-up view of Lindbergh.

The luncheon had begun when Gen. Gouraud, military governor of Paris, arrived to take his place on the dais next to the aviator. Limping to his place, the general was seen by the flier a few minutes before the two came face to face.

Capt. Lindbergh arose and Gen. Gouraud placed his one arm around the young man's shoulders and kissed him on both cheeks. Previously a tumult had started outside by workmen on a nearby building, who joined those in the street in crying "To the balcony, to the balcony!" There was naught for Lindbergh to do but leave the table and show himself to them. On his way he passed through the kitchen. There he had to stop and shake hands with the cooks, the bottle washers and other employes. Great cheers greeted his appearance on the balcony, where he stood waving for a moment or two before going back to the table.

Lindbergh was lauded anew as soon as the coffee was served. Referring to him as "my boy," Ambassador Herrick suggested that it would be a good idea to let sportsmen, instead of statesmen, settle international problems, and he nominated Capt. Lindbergh to be at their head.

William P. Peixotto, president of the club, another of the speakers, suggested that those present send their respectful hoake to "the mother who is waiting for this boy at home."

Plane in Honor Post.

While Lindbergh was among his countrymen, his monoplane held a place of honor at a luncheon attended by President Doumergue in one of the hangars at Le Bourget. It was a luncheon given for the presidents of French chambers of commerce at which 350 persons were present.

The Spirit of St. Louis stood just behind the seats of honor; it was decorated with the French and American flags. Every speaker mentioned the young American pilot. M. Doumergue, pointing at the plane, said, "There is the future of aviation."

When the luncheon was over President Doumergue inspected the plane, taking a lingering look in the inclosed cabin where the aviator had sat without leaving his little wicker chair for 33½ hours. French aviators told the president what all the instruments were for.

Not far away was a smaller plane of the type of that in which Bleriot first crossed the channel. M. Doumergue had gone back to Paris when Capt. Lindbergh arrived at Le Bourget, shortly before 5 o'clock. A whole regiment of aviators was drawn up at attention as the automobile rolled onto the field; and the bands began to play the classic calls to arms of the French army—"To the Flag" and "To the Fields."

Must "Work on Ship."

Thus were accorded to the American birdman more of the honors usually reserved for chiefs of state, marshalls and high generals.

"I have simply got to do some work on the ship," he said, "before I can take off for Brussels. I have got to work on it without being bothered, and if I go to Le Bourget tomorrow I should like just for this once not to be pursued."

When he was talking to the newspaper men this afternoon, one of them had the bright idea of inquiring: "Are you taking the plane back to America?"

Lindbergh looked him straight in the eye for several seconds, and then with great firmness said:

"Certainly."

Beyond going to Brussels and London, Lindbergh's plans for European flying are not fixed.

"One thing is certain," he said, "when I go home it will be from a French port. France was the first country I came to, and it will be the last one I leave on my way home."

Will Rogers Says U. S. Should Grant Lindbergh Pension

Special to The Washington Post.

Boston, Mass., May 24.—There is a hundred and twenty million people in America alone ready to tell Lindbergh what to do. The first thing we want to get into our heads is that this boy is not our usual type of hero that we are used to dealing with. He is all the others rolled into one and then multiplied by ten, and his case must be treated in a more dignified way.

In the first place, the Government should reward him handsomely with a life pension and a high position in our Government aviation program; and second, instead of us paying money to see him on the stage or screen (where he don't belong), take that admission money and make it into a national testimonial that will provide a fund for he and his mother for life. Let him have his entire time open to assist aviation, then he will be a blessing to us and not a side show. We don't ask our retiring Presidents to go into vaudeville and we would resent it if they did. England don't allow their Prince of Wales to go on paid exhibitions.

Well, this lad is our biggest national asset. He is our prince and our president combined and I will personally play benefits for him the rest of my life to keep him from having to make exhibitions out of himself. We only get one of these in a lifetime.

Yours,

One of the Hundred Million Advisers,

WILL ROGERS.

P. S.—And listen. While waiting to do something to honor Lindbergh make another contribution to the flood. That will please him more than anything you could do. Six hundred thousand are being fed and cared for by the public. Its our worst calamity in our lifetime.

LINDBERGH MAKES APOLOGY FOR LONG ADDRESS AT CLUB

HAD TO ASCEND HIGH TO AVOID THICK FOG

Selection of Plane and of Motor Matter of Much Thought, He Says.

Paris, May 24 (By A. P.).—Telling of his New York to Paris flight in a speech at the luncheon given in his honor today by the American Club of Paris, Capt. Lindbergh said:

"Gentlemen, I am not going to express my appreciation of the reception I have had here from Paris and the French. I would be unable to do so in words. But I will tell you a little about the flight from New York, and I believe you will be more interested in that than anything I can say, because I am not used to public speaking.

"We first considered this project last fall in St. Louis. We had one of the most successful air races there that has ever been made, so we decided to organize a flight, and at that time the Atlantic flight from New York to Paris seemed to be the greatest achievement we could consider—although there are other projects that would be greater—also because a flight from New York to Paris meant a good deal to us.

"There is no other country after America in which we would rather land than France, and I believe the name of the plane itself, Spirit of St. Louis, was meant to convey a certain meaning to the people of France. I hope it has.

Single Motor Chosen.

"There was a good deal of consideration of the type of plane to be used in the flight, but the single-motored was considered the best. And the reason for not carrying an observer was that we could carry more gasoline without one. It was impossible to miss the coastline of Europe, but we might have missed the coast of France by a few hundred miles if we had not carried enough fuel.

"The order for the plane was placed in San Diego. The motor of this plane is, I consider, one of the best types made in America. The record of the Wright motors is greater than that of any other type.

"After visiting San Diego, I awaited favorable weather conditions in the United States to make the flight to New York. It was during that time that the immortal Frenchmen, Nungesser and Coli, left France, and, as I have said before, on a much greater flight from France to America, because they were knowingly going into greater difficulties on account of wind and weather than from America to France.

Tied Up Four Days.

"Unfortunately, they probably met on the western coast with as bad weather conditions as ever existed.

"For four days I was tied up in San Diego awaiting clearer weather to go to New York. Finally we left San Diego one evening, flying over the mountains during the night, and arrived in St. Louis. Then from St. Louis we went to New York.

"In New York we were again delayed by weather conditions, and it was necessary to check the motor and plane, but nothing beyond inspection was done either to the motor or the plane.

"The machine had already done 6,200 miles—over 61 hours. I think this demonstrates the reliability of the commercial motor of today and demonstrates also the reliability of planes of modern construction.

"We finally decided to leave New York, upon receiving fairly good weather reports, and after working on the plane and making ready for the flight, we left New York at 7:52 in the morning (Friday, May 20.) (Lindbergh habitually refers to himself and his plane as "we.")

"Weather conditions were satisfactory over Newfoundland, but after leaving the coast it was necessary to fly over 10,000 feet high because of sleet.

Saw Large Ice Floes.

"Then at night we flew over 8,000 to 10,000 feet, but in the day time we plowed through the fog. We finally picked up a course definitely about three miles north of the point on the west coast of Ireland which we had hoped to reach.

"I want to say that the fact that we came within three miles of that point was an accident. Had it been 25 miles, it might have been navigation.

"During the entire trip, I saw no ship at any time. The first trace of a human being was a small fishing boat, probably 50 miles from Ireland. Several hours after leaving Newfoundland I saw the lights of one boat. There were large ice fields.

"My time is very short now and I believe I will be unable to tell you more of my flight at present. I hope I haven't taken up too much of your time as it is."

German Fliers Invite Lindbergh to Berlin

Berlin, May 24 (By A. P.).—The Lufthansa, or German Aerial League, which operates a continental air service, has invited Capt. Lindbergh to fly from Paris to Stockholm by way of Berlin. The German Aero Club proposes to entertain him here en route.

The Lufthansa offers to place a private plane at his disposal to carry him back from Stockholm to London or any other point he desires.

Wisconsin Assembly Honors Lindbergh

The State Assembly, by a unanimous vote, last night adopted a resolution extolling the magnificent triumph" of Capt. Lindbergh. After the measure passes the Senate a copy will be forwarded to the flier's mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, of Detroit.

Lindbergh Arranged Passage Home in U. S.

Capt. Charles Lindbergh arranged for steamship passage back to New York before he hopped off for France in the Spirit of St. Louis. It became known today that he carried with him on his flight an order on the White Star Line for a return ticket, which was issued to him by Herbert S. Maybam, agent for the line in St. Louis.

Coincident with the news that Lindbergh had arranged for his passage home before leaving came an announcement from the line that P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine Co., had cabled the Paris office of the company offering Lindbergh passage to New York, with his plane, on any White Star liner.

NEW YORK PLANS RECORD RECEPTION FOR AVIATOR

PLANES TO MEET SHIP

New York, May 24 (By A. P.).—The shouting and the tumult which has not died since Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh departed for Paris will reach its full roar when he returns to New York. On his return home a reception here, putting to shame welcomes given kings, queens and heroes of other days, will be given him.

Although "Slim" has not decided when he will come back, preparations are being made in many quarters to let him know that the folk at home were with him in spirit as he and the Spirit of St. Louis winged their way to Paris. Evidences that millions glory with him in the fame he has brought to his country will not be lacking in the reception.

The welcome will be as official as there are officials to make it so, all branches of the Federal, State and municipal branches having a hand. The record-maker will know of the impending events through shadows cast by airplanes circling over the ship bringing him home.

The latest honor to be conferred on the Missouri captain was awarded by Gov. Alfred E. Smith today when he authorized the award of the medal for valor of New York State, "for intrepidity and courage of the highest degree in flying alone and unaided from New York to Paris, in the development of aviation, to the glory of his country and to his own undying fame."

The opening tribute of the local welcome will be paid by a group of New York National Guardsmen to a Missouri National Guardsman. The Twenty-seventh division air service will sound the first welcome when a formation of eleven planes will be led down the bay by Maj. George Vaughn, flight commander at Miller Field, Staten Island.

If all the banquets being planned materialize, the hero of the air will be threatened with incurable indigestion. The Missouri Society of New York is being frequently consulted by prospective hosts.

After New York has said its enthusiastic "well done," the captain will turn his thoughts and steps toward St. Louis, where a welcome, even louder, perhaps, than the New York demonstration will await him. St. Louis, thanks to a record-breaking demonstration during the last world series, will be in a fine voice to hail its own conquering hero.

Lindbergh will need all his courage to survive his welcomes. No wonder he says he is "scared."

Landing Field, Selected By Flier, Named for Him

Springfield, Ill., May 24 (By A. P.).—A cablegram advising Capt. Charles Lindbergh that the air mail landing field here has been renamed Lindbergh Field in his honor, and asking him to participate in the formal christening ceremonies, has been sent to Lindbergh by the Springfield Chamber of Commerce.

Capt. Lindbergh, while an air mail pilot on the St. Louis-Chicago route, selected the Springfield landing field. He carried the first air mail out of this city.

Bad Weather Delays Byrd; Into Air Today

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., May 24 (By A. P.).—Bad weather has delayed preparations for Commander Richard E. Byrd's hop-off for Paris.

A soggy field prevented a load test for the Fokker triple-motored plane today, but Commander Byrd said tonight he would try to make the test tomorrow, weather permitting. He will try to lift a load of 14,500 pounds, the load it is planned to carry when the plane takes off for Paris. Fuel consumption also will be tested on the proposed flight tomorrow.

Three More Nations Congratulate Flier

(By the Associated Press.)

Minister Dearing at Lisbon cabled that the Portuguese foreign office had expressed to him its felicitations, while Otto C. Kiep, the German charge d'affaires, said he had been instructed by his government to present its warmest congratulations. Minister Charles S. Wilson at Sofia advised the department that King Ferdinand had sent his secretary to the legation to express his congratulations and "his delight at the magnificent flight across the Atlantic" by Capt. Lindberg.

DESTROYER OFFERED TO BRING LINDBERGH BACK FROM EUROPE

BIG WELCOME PLANNED FOR OCEAN FLIER HERE

City Heads Want President to Name Board to Aid Demonstration.

(By the Associated Press.)

Navy destroyers were yesterday placed at the disposal of Capt. Charles Lindbergh, New York-to-Paris flier, for his return home and the transportation to this country of his plane, The Spirit of St. Louis. This offer was flashed across the sea after a call at the White House by Assistant Secretary Robinson of the the Navy, as the President and all Washington continued to admire and make plans for honoring the youthful aviator.

Making known that destroyers of the Twenty-fifth Division, now in European waters, were available to Capt. Lindbergh, President Coolidge reflected yesterday that the accomplishment of America's aviator was something which grew on one the more it was contemplated. The more that is learned of his feat, he considers, the greater it seems to have been.

Commander W. W. Galbraith, in charge of the destroyer division, was directed by the Navy to inform Lindberg that he could return to his homeland aboard a destroyer and that his plane would be brought back the same way. The division is sailing for America on June 15.

Plan for Reception.

Meanwhile other means of showing its admiration were under consideration by the administration and the City of Washington. The hopse has been expressed that a form of material decoration can be given to Lindbergh by the Government, and Washington, which has welcomed the heroes of many lands and wars in the past, is preparing to give him one of its best receptions.

Acting for the city, the Commissioners of the District of Columbia decided to seek a conference with President Coolidge, at which plans for an official reception here for Lindbergh will be discussed. When the desires of the Federal officials are determined, a definite program will be worked out. The commissioners hoped the President would name a commission to cooperate in the plan for a demonstration here. Several organizations are planning to bestow medals on Lindbergh when he reached the Capital. In addition, the distinguished Flying Cross and the Congressional Medal of Honor were sought for him.

Paris Embassy Arranges Full Program for Flier

Paris, May 24 (By A. P.).—This is Capt. Lindbergh's program as it has been arranged at the American Embassy:

3:15 p. m.—Reception by M. Buisson, president of the Chamber of Deputies.

Dinner at the embassy, which probably will be private.

Thursday—Lindbergh will fly over Paris in the morning.

Luncheon by M. Briand, foreign minister.

1:30 p. m.—Reception by the City of Paris at the Hotel de Ville.

Friday—Luncheon by M. Painleve, minister of war.

Belgian King to Greet Lindbergh at Palace

Brussels, May 24 (By A. P.).—King Albert of Belgium will receive Capt. Charles Lindbergh at his palace here Saturday afternoon after the American aviator has made a visit to the tomb of the Unknown Belgian Soldier, it was announced today.

Saturday evening Capt. Lindbergh will be the guest of honor at a dinner at the American Club. Crown Prince Leopold will be present, together with all the membes of the cabinet and the diplomatic corps. Burgomaster Max and most of the Belgian flying aces will attend. An official reception at the city hall will be held Sunday noon.

Fire Razes Warehouse and Store.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., May 24.—The warehouse and general store of E. N. Snouffer, Buckeystown, was partly destroyed by fire of unknown origin early this morning. The flames had gained great headway before being discovered and threatened several dwellings and a garage. Firemen and apparatus from this city helped get the blaze under control. The loss is estimated at $8,000.

BODY SHIFTED TO HIDE CRIME, IT IS BELIEVED

Kin of Man Found Hanged on Tree Hold He Was Slain by Swindlers.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., May 24.—That Otto Denker, owner of a Second Avenue bakeshop in New York City, was murdered by men who swindled him out of $325, and that his body was brought to New Market, Va., 20 miles from here, where his body was found strung to a tree yesterday, to conceal the crime, was the belief expressed today by Adolph Merlin, Dunker's brother-in-law, and Frank Rech, of New York, who came to New Market today to claim the body.

An autopsy today indicated death was due to strangulation. Denker's body was founded suspended from a tree on the famous New Market battlefield. So far as is known, he was never seen in New Market alive. Identification was established by a bankbook in his pocket.

According to Merlin, Denker was in the bakeshop last Thursday when three men can in and asked him to advance $300 on some goods they carried. Denker did this and when the men disappeared he followed them. That was the last seen of Denker.

Further investigation will be left to the New York authorities, as Shenandoah County officials feel that if Denker was not a suicide, as is held by the coroner, the crime was committed elsewhere.

Ada Henry, Once Star, Succumbs in Florida

St. Petersburg, Fla., May 24 (By A. P.). Mrs. James Gannon, known for many years on the stage as Ada Henry, is dead here after a brief illness. As Ada Henry she was a star in vaudeville many years ago in the team of Kaye and Henry, her partner being Billy Kaye.

After she left vaudeville, Mrs. Gannon played leading roles on Broadway with Shubert attractions. Her last appearance as a star was with Valeska Surrat in "Kiss Waltz."

Swedish Loan Oversubscribed.

Stockholm, May 24 (By A. P.).—A new Swedish state loan of 50,000,000 kroner (about $13,000,000) was almost immediately oversubscribed today. The rate is 4½ per cent, and the loan was issued on a basis of 98.75 knoner per 100.

BOMB PLANT FOUND IN HOME IN MEXICO

Residence Believed Supplying Rebels With Ammunition; Deported Bishop in U. S.

Mexico City, May 24 (By A. P.).—The discovery of a bomb manufacturing plant, large quantities of dynamite, thousands of rounds of ammunition and other war materials in a private residence in Tacuba, a suburb of Mexico City, was announced today by the police.

The place had been suspected of being a rebel headquarters. Police declared that they found a veritable arsenal which they believe has supplied the bulk of its ammunition.

A Japanese chauffeur, suspected of being an ammunition runner for the rebels between Mexico City and Jalisco was detained and a number of arrests made. The police refused to reveal any of the names or details of the raid, pending further investigation.

Laredo, Tex., May 24 (By A. P.).—Bishop Rafael Guizar Vanencia of Vera Cruz, arrived in Nuevo Laredo this morning accompanied by Jose L. Marin, a Mexican secret service agent. He was deported to the American side shortly before noon and will live here temporarily. Later he will go to San Antonio.

R. C. Dexter to Fill Unitarian Position

Boston, May 24 (By A. P.).—Dr. Robert Cloutman Dexter, professor of social and political science at Skidmore College for the last four years, has resigned to head the new department of social relations of the American Unitarian Association, it was announced at the 102nd annual meeting of the association here today.

DIVORCE ISSUE MAY NOT BE RAISED NOW BY PRESBYTERIANS

Committee Said to Be in Favor of an Educational Campaign First.

PRINCETON SEMINARY CONTROL TO BE VOTED

Report to Assembly Urges That New Board Replace Present Trustees.

San Francisco, May 24 (By A. P.).—The threatening rock of divorce and remarriage was believed today temporarily eliminated from the course of the Presbyterian General Assembly because the committee considering the problem was reported to have voted for postponement of action until after a "campaign of education."

The committee met today. Its report to the general assembly Friday was to form the basis on which the main body might make infidelity the sole ground which the church recognized for divorce. This would eliminate willful desertion as the other reason sanctioned.

Instead of drawing up its report, the committee was said to have adopted a plan by Dr. William Chalmers Covert, general secretary, urging that a "campaign of education" be conducted before the question is put to the assembly. Inasmuch as the committee met in executive session the report could not be verified.

No Serious Clashes.

The committee recommending the change was said to be headed by Dr. Clarence Macartney, of Philadelphia.

Clergy and laymen here to attend the general assembly, opening Thursday, said they anticipated no dangerous arguments during the gathering. They expressed belief that, though there would undoubtedly be tiffs over certain issues, these would be nothing serious, or affecting church creeds.

One of the points on which there was expected to be dissension concerned the Princeton Seminary report, made by a special committee which investigated conditions at the school. It had been reported that two factions in the seminary were bitterly opposed on certain matters of control.

The committee's report recommends a single board of control in place of the existing board of trustees and a board of directors; further, that the appointment of Prof. J. Gresham Machen to the chair of apologetics be not confirmed and that pending reorganization all nominations or elections to the faculty be not approved.

Clergy and laymen see in this report grounds for a fight on the general assembly floor next Tuesday because elimination of one of the ruling Princeton bodies is expected to draw fire.

Evangelistic meetings were held today with various ministers participating.

Members of the Presbyterian Women continued their biennial national conference, with missionaries from all parts of the world taking part in the program. These sessions will be concluded tomorrow.

Will Stay in Council.

Eldorado, Ark., May 24 (By A. P.).—The Presbyterian Church in the United States voted, 135 to 118, in general assembly here today to remain in the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America after an hour's warm debate.

Keeps Powder on Nose, Even in Shooting Lions

New York, May 24 (By A. P.).—While shooting lions in the African jungles, Mrs. Osa Johnson, wife of Martin Johnson, big game hunter, always found time to powder her nose. "Who could love a woman with a shiny nose?" she asked, while relating experiences of the past four years in the jungle.

"At first I had difficulty in keeping the negro women from stealing my powder," she said, "but I put my foot down on that because I found powder was necessary for my husband's sake. Even in Africa, I could not forget that I had to be good looking for the same man."

No matter how far from civilization they were, said Mrs. Johnson, they enjoyed "decent meals" and were never without clean sheets for their cots.

DEFINITE PROPOSALS FOR MINE PAY TODAY

Meeting Delayed to Give Coal Conferees Added Time for Plans.

Philadelphia, May 24 (By A. P.).—Operators and union miners of the central Pennsylvania bituminous coal field, here for the working out of a new wage scale, after discussing today the general situation, decided to postpone until tomorrow any definite proposals for new contracts.

Following the arrival, late today, of Thomas Kennedy, international secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, the conferees voted to defer definite action in order to give both sides further opportunity to prepare their proposals. The meeting was to have started yesterday, but after organization had been completed, the miners' representatives decided to await the arrival of Mr. Kennedy.

Establishment of a new working scale to replace the Jacksonville agreement, which expired March 31, is the purpose of the conference.

The operators have intimated that they will ask for a reduction in wages to meet the competition from nonunion mines, while the miners are expected to oppose any cut below the Jacksonville rate.

Plane Crash Kills 2; Wings Break in Loop

Santa Monica, Calif., May 24 (By A. P.).—Lieut. Walter J. Ligon, reserve officer, and Ivan L. Hall, student aviator were dashed to death at Clover Field here today when the wings of their airplane collapsed at an altitude of 2,000 feet as the ship came out of a loop.

Witnesses said the plane had been up about an hour and had been put through numerous stunts. The fliers successfully looped the loop once, but the second time a sharp report was heard as the plane was being pulled out of the loop. The wings collapsed and the plane hurtled to the ground.

MRS. CHAPLIN FIGHTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

7 WOMEN MAY BE NAMED

Los Angeles, Calif., May 24 (By A. P.).—Superior Judge E. F. Hahn today overruled Charlie Chaplin's demurrer to the divorce suit of his wife, Lita Grey Chaplin, and denied a motion by the film comedian to strike out many of the most sensational charges of the complaint.

The action of Judge Hahn, which gives Chaplin ten days in which to file an answer to his wife's complaint or default the case, was but one phase of a stormy day for the Chaplin divorce case.

An ultimatum that the names of seven women, four of them "prominent film actresses," mentioned in the divorce complaint would be "spread on the public records" if the screen comedian's wife were forced to make a deposition was issued tonight by her attorneys.

The threat of Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys followed a skirmish earlier in the day in the offices of Loyd Wright, Chaplin's attorney, where Mrs. Chaplin had appeared under subpena to make the deposition demanded by her husband's counsel. The taking of the deposition was postponed one week and in the meantime the presiding judge of the superior court will be asked to settle the question of whether the presence of newspaper men would be permitted when Mrs. Chaplin makes her statement.

This was the issue upon which the rival legal forces squabbled today, the comedian's attorneys demanding a closed session and Mrs. Chaplin's counsel vigorously fighting for a public hearing.

At the close of the session and after a bitter exchange of statements by attorneys, Lyndol L. Young, Mrs. Chaplin's counsel, declared that if efforts to take her deposition, either privately or publicly, were persisted in, the entire "sordid story of Chaplin's conduct toward his young wife during their life together and the names of the women mentioned in the complaint will be spread on the public records in detail."

Young said that in case of a public taking of the deposition he would ask Mrs. Chaplin to give these names if the film actor's attorneys failed to do so. If the deposition is taken at a closed session, Young declared he immediately would demand that the deposition be made a matter of public record.

Gen. Wood Will Sail On Saturday for U. S.

Manila, May 24 (By A. P.).—Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood today returned from a twelve-day cruise on the yacht Apo to the southern part of the Philippine Archipelago and engaged passage from Manila May 28 on the President Madison for Seattle for a vacation in the United States.

Manila newspapers said the governor declined an offer to place at his disposal without cost the owners' suite on the Empress of Canada, sailing the same date.

FULLER DENIES SPECIAL SACCO-VANZETTI REVIEW

Governor Can Not Delegate Power to Commission, Defense Committee Told.

INTERVIEW TO BE GIVEN

Boston, May 24 (By A. P.).—Gov. Alvan T. Fuller in a letter to the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee made public today made his first definite statement that he would not grant the repeated requests for appointment of a special commission to review the cases of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, radicals, whose conviction of murder and sentence to death has raised protests throughout the world.

The governor indicated that since he could not delegate his authority, which now is the sole thing standing between the two men and death in the electric chair in July, he considered himself entirely free to choose his own method of investigation.

The defense committee had written him on April 11 and again on May 20, urging that he appoint a commission to investigate the whole history of the case since the murder of a paymaster and his guard in South Braintree seven years ago.

Gov. Fuller's note in reply read: "I assume that you know that the governor can not delegate his authority in this matter and that the law provides that the decision must be made by him. It therefore seems reasonable that he should choose the method of investigation.

"I will provide an opportunity for an interview for you at a later date."

The condemned men have no further recourse in the courts of this State. The governor, however, has the right of pardon or of commutation of sentence. Since the death sentence was pronounced every mail has brought him scores of petitions, letters, cables and telegrams, some asking investigation, some demanding full liberty for the men and some urging noninterference with the course of the courts. These communications have reached a total well up in the thousands.

While it has been commonly known that the governor, assisted by the lieutenant governor and his personal attorney, has been devoting long days to interviewing witnesses, attorneys and others who have been connected with investigations or trials of the case, the governor until today had given no direct intimation to substantiate the common belief that his decision would be based on his own investigation.

The good will value of a Speed Wagon

For every person that sees your place of business there are a hundred—perhaps a thousand—who see your trucks in the city streets. People are likely to judge your business by what they see and know of it.

That's why so many turn to the trim smartness of the Speed Wagon to handle their deliveries. Clean in line, brisk in traffic, fast on the highways, free from the clattering din and noisy motor of many trucks, people are attracted by the Speed Wagon, attracted to its owners.

And you get these quality features on a vehicle whose sturdiness, economy, and reliability have been demonstrated in millions of miles of use. The good looks and silent performance of the Speed Wagon are there because of mechanical excellence, not instead of it.

A Speed Wagon representative can show you the type best fitted to your needs. Call him up today.

Court Is Adjourned Until Today; Defendant Pales at 10-to-2 Stand.

AUTOPSY IS REVIEWED

Los Angeles, May 24 (By A. P.).—The jury in the case of Paul Kelly, young film actor, charged with murder in connection with an alleged fatal beating given Ray Raymond, musical comedy actor, reported at 8:30 o'clock tonight that it had not reached a verdict and court was adjourned until tomorrow morning.

The jury was divided 10 to 2 late today, a poll taken by the court revealed. The jury was not asked whether the majority stood for acquital or conviction.

Pallor spread over Kelly's face when he heard the foreman announce the jury's 10-to-2 stand. As the court was recessed he leaped to the side of his counsel, W. I. Gilbert, to whisper a question. Gilbert seemed to be perturbed.

In reply to a question the jury foreman told Superior Judge Charles Burnell "There might be" a possibility of a verdict at an early hour.

A second request for reading of the testimony of A. F. Wagner, county autopsy surgeon, indicated that the jurors were split on the question of the direct cause of Raymond's death.

The county autopsy surgeon testified in the trial that the "main cause" of the actor's death, which followed a beating administered by Kelly in a quarrel over Dorothy Mackaye, actress-wife of Raymond, was a brain hemorrhage. The witness said such a hemorrhage could have been caused by a blow on the head.

Medical experts for the defense explained the hemorrhage as due to diseased organs and expressed the opinion that Raymond had died from natural causes.

Judge Charles Burnell, in his charge to the jurors, instructed them that they should declare for a verdict of murder or manslaughter if they found the injuries inflicted by Kelly contributed to Raymond's death.

Flying to Australia To See His Fiancee

Croydon, England, May 24 (By A. P.). With a spare propeller strapped beneath the fuselage of his two-seater moth airplane, Dennis Rook, a comparatively unknown aviator, hopped off today on a lone flight to Australia. He intends to make the flight by easy stages, following the course taken by Sir Alan Cobham. Before starting, Rook said:

"My financee is in Australia now, so I must succeed in reaching her."

Women Urge Another Term for Coolidge

Philadelphia, May 24 (By A. P.).—A resolution urging President Coolidge to run for another term, was adopted today at a conference of Republican women from nine States. A delegation will call at the White House on a date yet to be decided to present the resolution to the President.

The conference was called by the Republican women of Pennsylvania to discuss the problems of women voters.

FIVE ARE CONVICTED OF KERRICK KILLING

presented, through a man friend on the witness stand, an alibi showing that she had kept an appointment at his apartment prior to the shooting and had remained there.

Mrs. Kerrick testified that the shooting was accidental; that the gun was discharged in a scuffle which followed attempts by several members of the party to obtain possession of it after Isabell and Kerrick had quarreled.

Isabell's story backed up that told by Miss Davis, while Hunt declared he was in a drunken stupor and knew nothing of the affair.

In his arguments to the jury, counsel for Mrs. Kerrick, trying to prove her story of accidental shooting, declared Kerrick was the victim of a "life of gin, jazz and parties in sinful Hollywood."

A fling at "Hollywood's wild parties and killings" was taken by a spokesman for a group of the jurors after they had been discharged.

"We simply couldn't do anything else but find the defendants guilty—all of them—under the law and instructions from the court," said the juror. "We felt that it is about time to call a halt on Hollywood's wild parties and killings. To have returned a verdict of not guilty in this case would have been to put a stamp of approval on such disgraceful carousing. Under the law, if one was guilty, all were guilty, even though only one person may have done the actual shooting."

The jury consisted of nine women and three men.

WORLD FAIR HONORS OUSTANDING WOMEN

Feminine Success in Political and Educational Life Is Recognized.

Chicago, May 24 (By A. P.).—Interest in the accomplishment of women was secondary as the Womans World's Fair today paid homage to illustrious authors of feminine accomplishments.

It was "famous women's day" and there were gathered representatives from twenty States, chosen by their governors as the most outstanding woman of those Commonwealths.

In the group was Mrs. Mart T. Norton, New Jersey, representative in Congress; Miss Florence E. Allen, Cleveland, Ohio, first woman to occupy a State Supreme Court bench; Mrs. Florence Knapp, New York, first woman secretary of State; Miss Dorothy Cunningham, Martinsville, Ind., first woman road contractor and a national Republican committee woman; Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, Des Moines, a vice president of the Womens Christian Temperance Union and a minister of the Church of Christ, and Mrs. Margaret Kelly Cable, Grand Forks, N. Dak., teacher in the School of Mines.

Tonight the "famous women" shared honors with Finnish groups which united in presenting a program of costume folk dances and music of their native Finland.

School Auditorium Wrecked by Winds

Terre Haute, Ind., May 24 (By A. P.). High winds wrecked the auditorium of the Sullivan (Ind.) High School south of here this afternoon when it blew over the school's large smokestack and caved in the roof. A company, rehearsing for an amateur stage production, was in the dressing rooms off the stage of the school auditorium at the time and escaped injury.

A large window in a school in Youngstown, near here, was broken and several children received slight cuts. Houses were unroofed and wires were torn down.

Dr. Walsh, Maryland Man, Bishop in China

Hongkong, China, May 22 (delayed) (By A. P.).—More than 600 persons, representing 13 nationalities, today (Sunday) made pilgrimage to Sanchian Island for the consecration of Mgr. James Edward Walsh, of Cumberland, Md., as first American Bishop of China.

The French Bishop of Canton officiated, assisted by the Portuguese Bishop of Macao, the Spanish Bishop of Amoy and the Italian Bishop of Hongkong.

MIDSHIPMAN SETS HIGH MARK IN CLASS HONORS

F. D. Overfelt, of New Mexico, to Be Awarded 5 Out of 12 Principal Prizes.

CAPITAL BOY A WINNER

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 25.—Not only will Midshipman Forol Davis Overfelt, of New Mexico, take first honors of the class to be graduated at the Naval Academy on June 2, but he will have broken all records for prize awards for excellence in the academic and professional branches.

Five out of twelve principal prizes will go to Overfelt. He also is one of six members of the class selected by Rear Admiral Louis M. Nulton, superintendent, to receive commendatory letters for their officer-like qualities and character.

Overfelt will be well equipped with timepieces, for he will receive three gold watches. In addition he will receive the class of 1871 sword for excellence in practical and theoretical ordnance and gunnery, and navigating sextant, offered by Col. Robert M. Thompson, for practical and theoretical navigation.

Overfelt led his fellows in order of merit throughout the four-year course, and this term he has been cadet commander of the regiment.

Second honors have been won by Philip Wollcott Snyder, son of Capt. and Mrs. Charles H. Snyder, of the Navy, appointed from New Hampshire.

A Washington boy, though not a member of the graduating class, has been declared winner of one of the annual prizes. He is John Bartholomew Webster, son of Mrs. A. H. Webster, Ontario Apartments, who will receive the Maury prize, a pair of binoculars, from the United Daughters of the Confederacy for excellence in physics.

The athletic awards will not be announced until after Saturday, as the annual competitions with the West Point Cadets in baseball, field, track and lacrosse may have some bearing on the positions. All of the prizes will be presented at dress parade Wednesday of next week, in connection with June week festivities.

Other awards and winners are: Class of 1897, sword and commendatory letter, Hubert Gordan Wall, son of William J. Wall, Stoughton, Mass.

General Society Sons of the Revolution cup, Kenneth Aylward Knowles, son of Francis Knowles, New York city.

Sword presented by National Society Daughters of the American Revolution, William Freeman Royall, son of John A. Royall, East Booth Bay, Maine.

Gold watch, presented by Dr. Henry Van Dyke, Robert Dexter Conrad, son of Mrs. O. F. Conrad, New York City.

National Association of Mutual Savings Banks prize $100 in cash, Randolph Monroe Smith, son of J. Monroe Smith, Hattiesburg, Miss.

Bronze plaque and $250 cash, award of the New York Times, Norman Tower Ball, son of Mrs. J. S. Ball, Toledo, Ohio.

Commendatory letters: Harry Roy Horney, son of Mrs. R. M. Horney, Portland, Oreg.; Eliot Olsen, son of Olaf Olsen, East Milton, Mass; Walter Henry Albach, son of Mrs. Pauline M. Albach, Omaha, Nebr.; Henry Howard Caldwell, son of Mrs. E. Caldwell, Roseville, Calif.

Germans Ask League Aid Against Lithuania

Geneva, May 24 (By A. P.).—Germany tonight appealed to the League of Nations in behalf of the German population of Memel, the former Germany city, whose international status has been fixed by a commission headed by Norman Davis, of the United States. The German appeal was based on a petition that the rights of Memelites were being infringed by Lithuania.

Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany requested that the question be placed on the agenda of the council meeting of June 13. The appeal is Germany's first to the league and is under a provision of the Davis convention which gives members of the council the right to call attention to any infraction of its provisions.

Football Is a Lure To Enlist in Army

Amarillo, Tex., May 24 (By A. P.).—"Join the Army and play football" may prove to be as apt a slogan for the land forces as "Join the Navy and See the World" has for the sea forces of the United States.

The sergeant of the recruiting office here is, with official sanction, dangling the elusive prize of "various special privileges" before the eyes of Texas toe artists.

The three fighting forces, Army, Navy and Marine Corps, meet on the gridiron each fall and it seems the Army's prospects need bolstering.

Wage Cut Accepted By Fascist Workers

Rome, May 24 (By A. P.).—An 18 per cent wage reduction, applicable in gradual stages between June 1 and May 31, 1928, has been accepted by the fascist federation of land, transportation and internal navigation workers in behalf of its membership.

During June, wages will be cut 4½ per cent, during July 1 per cent, and in each of the subsequent months, 1¼ per cent. Transportation rates will be cut by approximately, the same amounts. The wage reduction is for the benefit of improved national economy.

KILLED YOUNG WIFE IN PLAY, SAYS MAN, 80

Bride, 30, Used to Hurl Rocks at Him in Fun, He Declares.

Lynchburg, Va., May 24 (By A. P.).—Charles H. Hendricks, who is between 80 and 85 years old, was today indicted by the grand jury in Nelson County on a charge of shooting and killing his wife, Ora Fitzgerald Hendricks, 33, on April 29. The case was set for trial next Friday.

Tears flowed down the aged man's face as he denied he intended to hurt his young wife. "I had promised to take care of her," he said, "and I wouldn't have hurt her. It was just a kind of play, you see—a play we had a dozen times last summer just after we were married."

Ora was his second wife and he had been married to her slightly over a year, he said. "I loved Nora—I called her that instead of Ora," he said. "We used to play. Sometimes she would throw rocks at me, without meaning to hurt me, and I would threaten to shoot her. I knew the gun wasn't loaded. I never kept shells in it."

Then he told of the day of his wife's death; how she had quarreled with him about a hen's nest and had thrown rocks at him; how he had told her to behave, and because he was afraid she would get it, he had taken the shotgun in his hands. The weapon accidentally was discharged and he did not know that it had a shell in it, according to the man's story.

Dr. Dewing to Be Head Of College in Greece

Chicago, May 24 (By A. P.).—Dr. Henry B. Dewing, professor of Greek at Bowdoin College (Maine), has been chosen president of Athens College, a new American institution in Greece, the central division headquarters of the Near East College Association announced today. Dr. Dewing was for six years dean of Roberts College, Constantinople. He is an alumnus of the University of California and Yale.

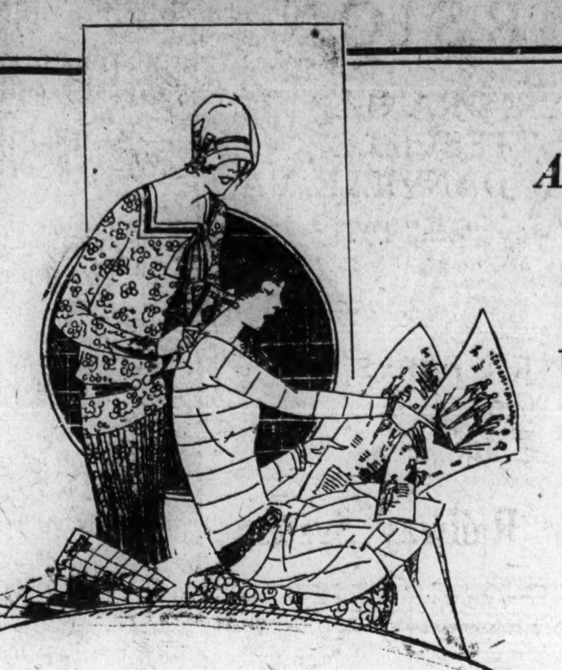

Ground was broken for Athens College March 20. More than $1,000,000 is to be invested in lands and buildings.

Sven Hedin on Way To Chinese Desert

Stockholm, May 24 (By A. P.).—Dr. Sven Hedin, noted Swedish explorer, who 30 years ago as a pioneer penetrated to the interior of Central Asia, has left Paotoe, a railway terminal west of Peking, setting out on an expedition to Chinese Turkestan. He has an escort of Chinese and Mongolian soldiers.

The expedition is to remain in the desert belt of Central Asia for about two years, carrying on meteorological research, as well as excavations among the ancient ruined cities buried in the sand.

Sect Lives in Cellars To Avoid "Evil Eye"

Perm, U. S. S. R., May 24 (By A. P.). Government Census agents discovered recently a hitherto unknown religious sect, whose members spend the greater part of their lives in the cellars of their houses to protect themselves against the "evil eye" of people of other religion.

With the beginning of colonization of the Narym region these recluses fled to the woods and have since refused to have intercourse with other people.

Lithuania Documents Held Sold to Soviets

Berlin, May 24 (By A. P.).—A dispatch from Kovno, Lithuania, to the Vossische Zeitung, says that the Lithuanian general, Kleszinski, was arrested at the moment he was handing over a secret military document to an official of the Soviet legation. It is alleged, the dispatch adds, that Gen. Kleszinski sold the Russians about twelve secret documents.

The affair has caused a sensation in Kovno and is regarded as likely to have serious political consequences. Already, the dispatch asserts, there is talk of breaking off relations with Moscow.

Oil Output Increases Steadily in Week

Tulsa, Okla., May 24 (By A. P.).—Despite the manifest concern of Government officials and leading producers of the Nation, the daily average crude oil output climbed 818 barrels higher in the week ended May 21, the Oil and Gas Journal said today. Average daily production for the Nation for the week was given as 2,486,361 barrels.

All the principal producing areas, with the exception of those in California, showed substantial daily average increases, the journal said. California reported a decline of 10,500 barrels.

Fundamentalist Gift Accepted by College

Liberty, Mo., May 24 (By A. P.).—William Jewell College, here, today accepted the $100,000 gift of Joseph B. Reynolds, president of the Kansas City Insurance Co., which had been the subject of controversy because of fundamentalist strings attached by the donor.

The board of trustees, voting 19 to 2 to accept the gift, with two not voting, recognized the provisions laid down by Mr. Reynolds that the fund be used for the education of students for the ministry who followed the fundamentalist doctrines of religion.

When the gift first was proffered, the Baptist Ministerial Alliance of Kansas City declined to indorse the terms.

Worker Electrocuted in Mill.

It's a curious thing—

HUMAN beings are very inconsistent sometimes.

In looking out for our own welfare, many of us are still superstitious about walking under a step-ladder. Others still stop to pick up a pin for good luck.

Yet, strangely enough, we neglect a certain very important duty that in the end may have a much more serious bearing upon self-preservation and length of life.

And that is the care of the teeth. Most folks, for instance, are careless, actually lazy, about tooth-brushing. In the morning we're in a hurry. At night we're tired.

So this most important job is often neglected.

Recognizing this human weakness we set about to create a dentifrice to meet it—a dentifrice for busy people, for tired people—even for lazy people.

Now greater speed

Our chemists created formula after formula. Three were selected. Each was tried by thousands. The result was noted. Then the most perfect of the three was chosen.

Minimum Brushing

Now we offer it to you under the name, Listerine Tooth Paste. It provides a maximum of cleansing* with a minimum of brushing The job's over in a minute. But that clean, fresh feeling in the mouth lasts a long time.

And only 25c

Compare this dentifrice with any paste at any price. Once you use it, we will wager you'll be delighted with its results—and its economy. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, U. S. A.

P. S.—By the way, the 25c tube of Listerine Tooth Paste is a large one.

BRITAIN BREAKS WITH RUSSIA.

Prime Minister Baldwin announced to the House of Commons yesterday that, subject to its approval, he would break diplomatic relations with the Russian Soviet government tomorrow and terminate the trade agreement with the soviet. The approval of the house is a foregone conclusion.

This break between Great Britain and Soviet Russia is one of the most gratifying developments of recent months. It points the way for similar action by France and other continental countries, and marks the turning point of communist propaganda in all countries. From this time forth this propaganda will be carried on under heavy handicaps instead of receiving the unwitting assistance of the very governments that have been attacked.

Soviet House, in London, was found to be a focus for communist propaganda in North and South America as well as within the British Empire. The addresses of persons in America, Canada, Mexico and other countries in this hemisphere were discovered. The governments concerned will doubtless be made aware of the identity of these secret agents and their round-up and punishment or expulsion may be expected. The evidence of military espionage in various countries reveals that the Soviet has been calculating the outcome of a test of the red army's strength at an opportune time. That an attack upon Poland or Roumania is contemplated by the Soviet is firmly believed in Europe. Documents deeply involving the Soviet in Chinese affairs were also discovered. The reticence of the British government in regard to its discoveries, followed by the break in relations, clearly indicates that the raid on Soviet House yielded up important secrets of the communist world conspiracy.

The British government has paid dearly for Ramsay MacDonald's and Lloyd George's flirtation with the reds. The direct cost to Britain of its blunder in giving hospitality to Russian communist agents is not easy to calculate, but it must run into hundreds of millions of dollars in the shape of labor troubles, disaffection and loss through strikes. British labor and capital have had their relations embittered to the verge of war. The government has paid out scores of millions which would not have been expended but for communist intrigue. If all the facts could be exposed it would be found without doubt that the general strike was caused by the communists, and the coal strike was unnecessarily prolonged by the same influence. These strikes paralyzed British manufacturing and shipping and threw hundreds of thousands of men out of work.

By maintaining an embassy in London the Soviet has found it easy to carry on subversive work throughout the British Empire. India, Egypt, Australia, Canada, New Zealand and Malaya have been fields of exploitation, besides anti-British agitations in China and elsewhere. After the exposure and expulsion of Martens, the Soviet "ambassador" to the United States, it was a marvel to Americans that the British government should enter into diplomatic relations with its enemy in Russia. But it was the theory of Lloyd George and MacDonald that the communists were deluded enthusiasts, rather than cunning criminals, and that Britain could gain important trade advantages by clasping hands with them. Finally, when overwhelming proof reveals the enemy character of the communist regime, the British government finds itself adopting the policy which the United States has pursued since the communist conspirators usurped power in Russia.

Mexico remains on cordial terms with the Moscow reds, but perhaps Mexico's experience in entering into partnership with Moscow for the break-up of Nicaragua may not encourage it to repeat the experiment. Bolshevism will not survive the Calles regime in Mexico, and Moscow can not save Calles if he is doomed to fall before his own people.

France, Italy and Germany would profit by breaking relations with Moscow. Probably they are not prepared to do this at once. France and Germany have not deemed it wise to antagonize the Soviet government, in view of the situation that would arise in case of war between the Soviet and Poland or Roumania. But both France and Germany are natural enemies of the communists and must break with them sooner or later.

THE AMERICAN BOY.

The public eagerly devours every word from Paris in regard to Charles Lindbergh, and is delighted as it reads. He is making good in the severe tests that come to a hero. In the midst of adulation and in spite of scheming promoters Lindbergh remains a modest and sensible lad. He is not dazzled by the offers of quick fortunes to be made by meretricious means and the deluge of compliments does not affect him.

Ambassador Herrick has been a good friend to Lindbergh at the critical moment. His counsel and tact are most valuable and Lindbergh manifests his good sense by relying upon the ambassador.

After a flight or two and a glimpse of famous cities Lindbergh will turn homeward. The fervor of his reception abroad will be eclipsed by the warmth of his welcome home. The reception should be well planned, so that it will be suitable to the man and the occasion. No doubt New York will be the place. The city will make a historic holiday when Lindbergh steps ashore and the swarming millions of the metropolis will furnish the mighty chorus of a memorable scene.

De Pinedo's unfortunate fall on the flight to the Azores emphasizes the marvelous character of Lindbergh's achievement. It was nothing short of miraculous. The more it is contemplated, the more vividly is one impressed by Lindbergh's lion-hearted courage and fortunate skill. He flew as an eagle might fly, by instinct, but with sublime confidence in his powers. The feat does not seem to him to be great, because he is great himself.

Happy the American who will be on hand to greet Lindbergh when he steps foot on American soil!

A FORMULA FOR MAKING GOLD.

Jollivet Castelot, of Douai, France, claims to have discovered the famed philosopher's stone with which it is possible to transmute base metals into gold. Furthermore, he says that the process is commercially practicable and profitable. All that he needs is six grams of silver, two of sulphur of antimony, one of orpiment and one of tin. All are melted together and heated to a temperature of 1,100 degrees Centigrade, and the complicated secret process which follows ends in the precipitation of gold.

There once was a time when this alchemist would have had no trouble finding backers willing to pour their funds into his get-rich-quick scheme. There may be places still where a credulous public will believe that there is something in it. As a general thing, however, the world has become cynical, and no longer purchases gold bricks.

The gentleman's formula would have seemed more plausible if he had not added that besides the precipitation of gold the process returns to the user almost all of the original quantity of silver. This is too much. All that the public wants is gold.

PICKING UP.

Echoes of the 1926 English coal strike still are heard in the British Isles. The international banking firm of J. Henry Schroder & Co., of London, has compiled a review of the industrial situation from which it draws the conclusion that reconstruction of industrial efficiency is the fundamental problem facing England at the present time, without which no ingenuity on the part of statesmen or financiers can enable the nation to make its living in the world's markets. Yet even from this point of view indications are held to be solidly hopeful.

The task of repairing the damage wrought by the coal strike has gone steadily forward under able and astute management. So far rapid strides have been made to regain markets affected by the tie-up. England, as the statement points out, is a nation that lives on production for foreign markets. It can not, therefore, afford to conduct production on obsolete lines or diversify it with chronic adjournments for a fight concerning the division of profits, which inevitably are lost during the course of the contest. Another nation is always hanging around the corner ready at all times to take advantage of any opportunity, no matter how small, waiting to pounce on trade possibilities. The condition is not of interest only to capital, but concerns vitally every individual, laborer and tradesman alike.

BEAUTIFYING THE CITY.

In 1910, seventeen years ago, condemnation proceedings were begun which led to the acquisition by the Federal Government of several squares between Pennsylvania avenue and the Mall, and bounded on the east by Fourteenth street and on the west by Fifteenth street. It was in that same year that the movement was started for creating an attractive setting for the northern front of the Capitol Grounds and the purchase of some of the properties that are to be included in the Plaza.

The following Congress contained in its personnel a number of statesmen from the backwoods, whose ideas of suitable surroundings for the Capitol were in line with the landscape gardening around the "little red schoolhouses," in which they acquired their knowledge of readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic. What was good enough for the old home town was good enough for Washington, in the estimation of these statesmen.

There came a change of heart eventually, but the world war intervened and more urgent matters engaged the attention of Congress, so that the old buildings still stand on the government property fronting the Ellipse, and the shacks are still seen on the Plaza site. However, the latter property has finally been transferred to the Government, the demolition of the eyesores has been started, and Mr. Lynn, Architect of the Capitol, with the aid and advice of Landscape Architect Parsons, is well started on the plans for the Plaza improvement. These plans must be approved by the Treasury Department and the Public Buildings Commission, which assembled last Monday for the purpose of considering the design for the Plaza Park, as well as the general subject of the acquisition of all the lands in the so-called triangle, which includes everything on the south side of Pennsylvania avenue, between the Capitol and Fifteenth street.

The commission is composed of some of the most eminent architects and landscape artists in the country, among them being E. H. Bennett, Arthur Brown, jr., Milton B. Medary, jr., Louis Ayers and Frederic A. Delano, together with Louis A. Simon, superintendent of the architectural division of the Office of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury. Naturally these gentlemen are not all of one mind as to the architectural features of the program they are to lay out. But they are unanimous in the belief that the time has come for the creation of the City Beautiful, and during their sessions a comprehensive plan will be outlined looking to the replacement of the obsolete and dilapidated old structures that have so long been a disgrace to the south side of the Avenue.

BRAVE DE PINEDO.

De Pinedo's failure to make the flight to the Azores is a matter of general regret. His four-continent flight has been watched with insatiable interest throughout the world, the public rejoicing with the completion of each difficult leg of the journey. Until he reached Roosevelt Dam, in Arizona, his undertaking was uniformly successful. At that point, however, a cigarette carelessly flung away by a youth ignited the Santa Maria I, destroying it completely. It was in a new ship, the Santa Maria II, that the flight from Newfoundland to the Azores was attempted.

Failure on this one leg of the long journey does not react against the accomplishment. Already the Italian has flown far enough and over bad enough territory to make his achievement comparable with that of Lindbergh. To a great aviator, De Pinedo, the public sends sympathy that a forced landing was necessary, tempered with relief that no harm came either to himself or his companion.

GRADING FOOD.

As announced in The Post a few weeks ago, the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture has undertaken the task of aiding the consumer to secure exactly what he calls for in the way of meats. While the inspectors are not authorized to grade all meats that pass before them for inspection, they do grade all that the slaughterer submits for grading. Furthermore, in the matter of beef carcasses all graded stock is marked in such manner that the buyer can readily see for himself whether the loin from which his steak is cut or the forequarter from which he may desire a roast is prime, choice or common.

The results of this new departure have been extremely satisfactory. More than 500,000 pounds were graded and stamped by representatives of the bureau in six establishments during the first two weeks of the service, which was inaugurated at the beginning of the month. Only the two highest grades, which are "prime" and "choice," are stamped on the graded meats, but consumers wishing to buy the best and willing to pay the price have only to demand an exhibit of the grade mark to be certain that poorer meats are not passed over to them.

The housewives of Washington, who buy only the best, when they can get the best, will be able to fill their needs from now on, as the first government-graded meats are just beginning to arrive from the packer's warehouses.

In the meantime the Department of Agriculture is about to extend the grading service to butter and eggs, which service has been requested by owners of chain stores and large dealers generally. Government-graded "strictly fresh" eggs in the near future will be available to buyers, and butter of "Grade A, score 93 or higher" will mean something more than those marks on the cartons have ever meant in the past.

The grading and inspection fad is extending. Before long the dealer in inferior stock will find difficulty in disposing of his holdings, as the housewife will demand the proof that Uncle Sam has examined and graded every article of food.

PRODUCE AGENCY LAW.

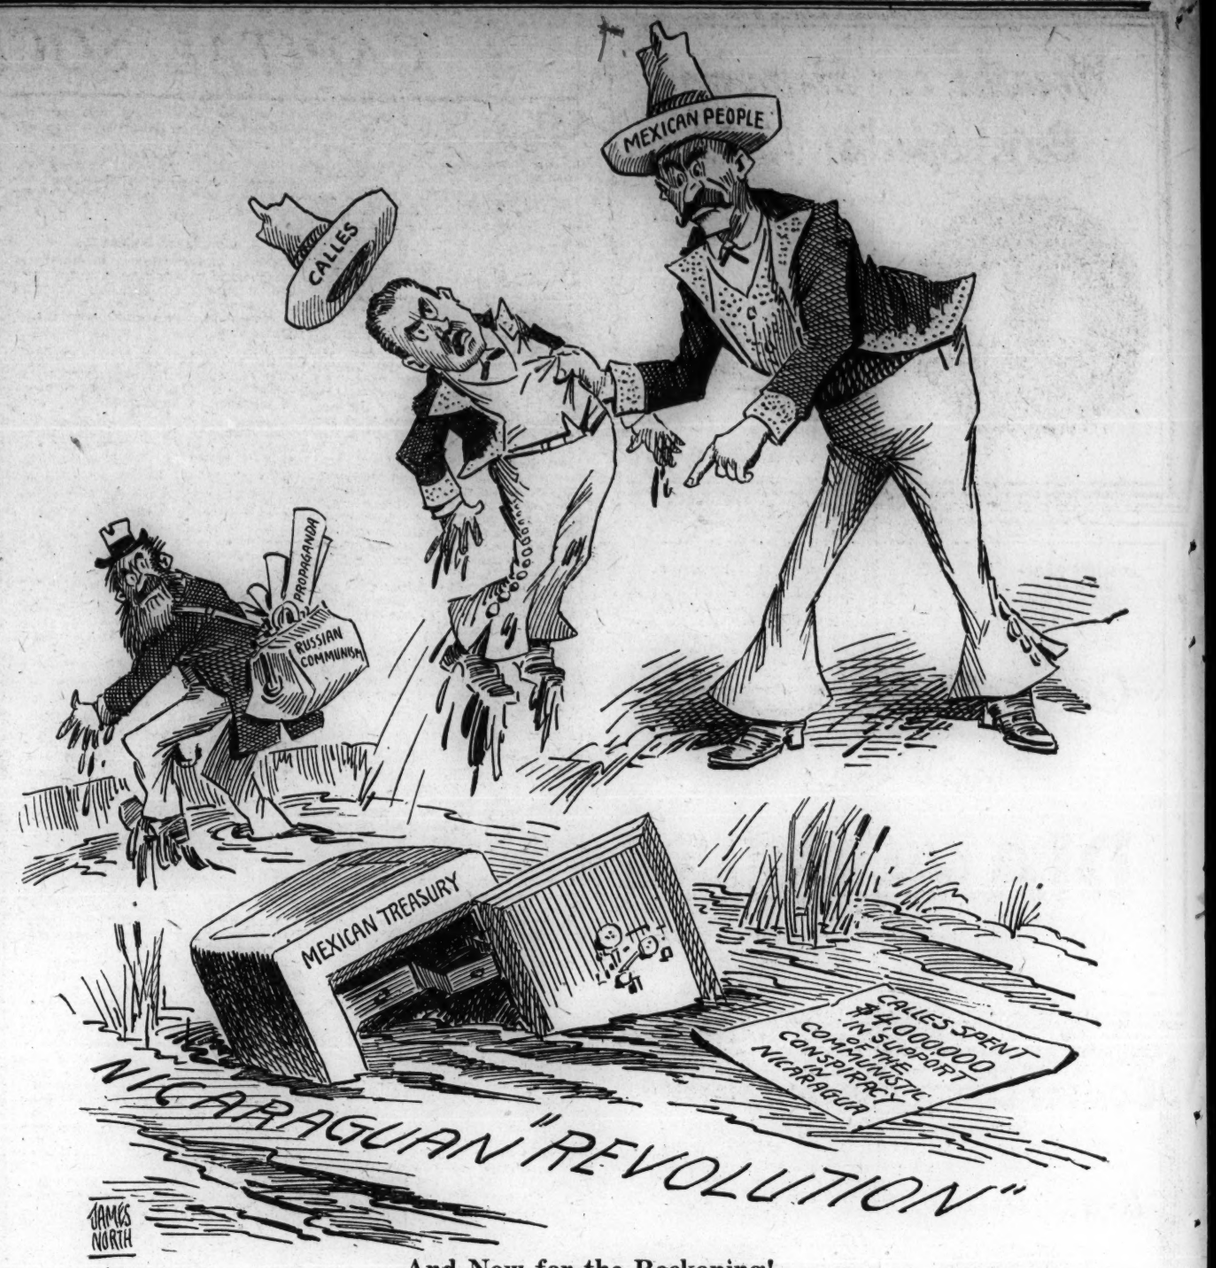

In response to a demand by growers and shippers of farm produce, the last Congress enacted a law making it a misdemeanor for any agent receiving perishable farm produce in interstate commerce to dump, abandon or destroy the products so received without good and sufficient cause; and making it a misdemeanor for any one receiving such products, to fail to account therefor, or to make any false statement concerning the handling or condition or quality, sale and disposition of the same.

It is well known that in nearly all city markets there is a surplus of many kinds of food products, especially of perishable farm products, that goes to waste or disappears mysteriously, or is intentionally dumped or destroyed for the purpose of increasing or holding up the price.

The main purpose of the act is to protect the grower or producer as well as the receiver, and it applies to commission merchants, distributors, brokers and others whenever they receive produce in interstate commerce, to be handled for or in behalf of another. These parties may protect themselves by obtaining a certificate whenever produce is without commercial value, and which must be dumped or abandoned.

The act is to be administered by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. It provides a method whereby the receiver may be relieved of any suspicion of intentional destruction or dumping of farm products, and whereby the shipper or producer may receive assurance that whatever destruction or dumping of farm produce takes place is necessary and justified.

How much the alleged practice of holding back or destroying farm produce may contribute to the high prices of food, especially in seasons when the demand is great, never will be known. Heretofore, growers and shippers have been obliged to take the word of the commission merchant or market agent. Under the new produce agency act, if the law operates successfully, there can be no dumping or destruction of farm products without a certificate officially proving the necessity of such disposal.

And Now for the Reckoning!

PRESS COMMENT.

Provided.

Atchison Globe: All the world loves a lover—particularly if he dean't bother it too much with the details.

Great Days.

Added Burden.

Philadelphia Bulletin: Every little tax exemption added to what we've got makes just a little bit more—tax rate.

Just the Same.

Knickerbocker Press: The Borah-Butler debate has passed into the record and the country is just as dry (or wet) as ever it was.

Hard to Understand.

Philadelphia Inquirer: Personally, we can't see why a man goes 8 miles up in the air just to reach a temperature of 60 degres below zero.

Advice.

Chicago News: When a man tells you that he intends to follow your advice it is unnecessary to call him a liar, but you may think what you please.

Like Framing the Mortgage.

Atchison Globe: One expense in every war is the cost of erecting war memorials. They're sort of like framing the mortgage when it is paid off.

Bigger and Better.

Louisville Times: America's progress is reflected in the necessity for arming with machine guns peace officers whose kind carried six-shooters 50 years ago.

The Vital Spot.

Philadelphia Inquirer: The British labor party has been "invited to consider" a six months' boycott on liquor and tobacco as a protest against the trades union bill. We don't see much chance for success in such a move. The average British workman might be induced to give up some of his other necessities, but when you hit him where his beer is concerned you touch a vital spot; his "right" o that is older than Magna Charta itself.

A Bright Spot.

Baltimore Sun: Again Louisiana turns to its convicts for aid against the Mississippi. Again? Ah, yes, the levees in the old days were built in large part with convict labor under conditions that society no longer tolerates. Miserable food, fearful labor and many deaths from illness went into the making of those mighty banks. And now the State's convicts are toiling at dangerous posts without guards—on honor not to escape. The great catastrophe has its brighter spots.

Soviet Subsidization.

Philadelphia Record: So the soviet has been subsidizing the Cantonese patrols and champions of a pure democracy, government of the people, by the people and for the people. There isn't any more of that sort of government in Russia now than there was under the czars, and we do not suppose the soviet cares what sort of government there is in China. But the Cantonese secession from Peking, which was not aggressive for several years, suggested to the soviet the possibility of getting Englishmen out of China and then putting 400,000,000 Chinese under Russian direction and dictating bolshevist terms. Stalin does not care nearly so much for the conversion of the world to bolshevism as Trotzky does, or Lenine did. But he does feel that he has not been treated generously by England, and he would be glad to get even with it. Besides, there are great trade possibilities, and Stalin wants his country to have a big foreign trade because that means a great revenue. If England could be driven out, and America, too, there would be more business for Russia. So Stalin put up $10,000,000, and the Cantonese started for Peking.

Tammany Stays Home.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: Tammany may stay at home, after all. Its leader, George W. Olvany, has returned to his desk with the announcement that the Tammany society will not extend its domain into other States and that there will be no setting up of "wigwams" in Chicago, St. Louis or other points West, South or Southwest. He waves aside the proud decree made some time ago in his absence; that Tammany Hall would expand itself into a national political organization. Judge Olvany thinks it would be a mistake and that this is not the time to talk of such matters. This may be no more than Judge Olvany's notion of showing his brother tribesmen who is boss. Or it may be that, having heard from the hinterlands, he feels that as a movement to expand and the boom of Gov. Smith it might prove a boomerang. There may be a few Democrats who do want to be Tammanyized. However, Judge Olvany is taking out of the campaign much possible gayety. After all, it would be a moving thing to hear the "Tiger" purring sweetly in Texas or Mississippi.

Good Government

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IF there is a man in a rural community who can do nothing well except argue and whittle, it is a safe assumption that he will at some time offer as a candidate for public office.

In more sophisticated districts it is a safe assumption that many of the candidates in any campaign will be men who have failed in their private affairs.

And while the most enlightened districts offer some able men for service, considerably more than half of their candidates fall within these three classes; men who have made their fortune and now desire public honor without great labor; men who have axes to grind at public expense, and men who find in politics a last resort for the unfit.

The voter never is permitted to choose between the two ablest men in his district; usually he must choose between two incompetents.

It is inevitable that many incompetent men should get into office, and when these are wasteful, tyrannical and foolish, as they commonly are, it is equally inevitable that complaint should be prompt and general.

Some of the complaint comes from men who could do no better and these have a right to complain; but much of it comes from shrewd and able men, and these are not impressive in the role of critic.

For if you should approach any one of a thousand of these and suggest that he offer for public service, he would answer with some heat: "I can't waste my time on such matters. Why should I sacrifice my business and my income to hold a two-by-four job that wouldn't pay my cigar bill? What's more, I wouldn't sacrifice my dignity to compete with the tadpoles who try for these offices."

That is the way most of the big fellows feel. Their private jobs seem more respectable than the smaller public jobs. And if men big enough to handle the public jobs will feel that the jobs aren't big enough for them, what can you expect in the way of competent government?

Critics and wags have hounded the officeholder until the office itself seems to have lost dignity.

Escape from the folly of small men in places of power must wait upon a more general respect for decent public service.

It is vanity that leads small men in; vanity that keeps big men out.

There can be no relief until big men learn that dignity is worth less than security, and voters learn not to fear a man who is big enough to make a success of his private affairs.

Young intellectuals are like those islanders who, according to Mark Twain, got a living by taking in one another's washing.

Still, the proud creature who doesn't like to take her husband's name doesn't mind taking everything else he's got.

The Southern college man has a hard time. Winters are too warm for woolly coats, and in the spring it's too hot to go bareheaded.

"THE RED CROSS CALLS."

By B. W. ADAMS.

The Red Cross calls! The Red Cross calls!
Where'er the sun doth shine;
From heart of man to hearts of men;
And every heart a living shrine.
It knows no sect; it knows no creed;
And seeks no favors from the few;
Its aim is one where'er it calls—
A heart to help—a will to do.

The Red Cross calls! The Red Cross calls!
When morning dawns, when night draws on;
In time of war; in time of peace—
For hope and life's sweet halcyon.
For men make strife, and men make wars,
And hurl their lance at freedom's birth;
And winds, and floods, and great earthquakes
Send desolation through the earth.

The Red Cross calls! The Red Cross calls!
For soldiers of mercy and of peace
To bind the wounds, the broken hearts,
And stay 'till hunger's cry shall cease.
To give! To give! The call comes loud!
And the echo resounds where'er it falls!
"What is your mind? What is your heart?
And what is your love when the Red Cross calls?"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"Antisaloon League Twaddle."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Antisaloon League announces that "all candidates favoring enforcement of the prohibition laws will be strongly supported"—by the league.

The Antisaloon League knows that all talk of the possibility of enforcing the prohibition laws is the merest childish twaddle, so long as most laws so perfectly prevent their own enforcement, as they do at present.

The Antisaloon League knows that according to the finding of the Supreme Court of April 30, 1923, every enforcement officer on duty in connection with ports of entry must, in enforcing the prohibition laws, as he has sworn to do, every day nullify and does every day nullify the Eighteenth amendment and violate the Volstead law.

The Antisaloon League knows that this silly legal paradox is the natural result and one of the lesser evils of the stupidly immoral and utterly futile present attempt at prohibition by law.

W. W. KIMBALL.

Farewell, Freedom!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: So far as I have noticed attention has not been called by the press to the fact that by a combination of the Supreme Court, the Legislature of California, and the Volstead act our so-called national anthem has been knocked into smithereens. The Star-Spangled Banner is still our flag, but it no longer floats over a land of the free. A man can no longer take a drink of whisky when he wants it, or even when he needs it, without first getting the consent of a doctor, for which he pays. He may raise grapes, but can not make wine of them; apples, but no toddy; peaches, but no brandy; corn or rye, but no whisky. Speech is free—that is, so long as you talk to suit the ideas of California legislators.

If Congress should make the Star-Spangled Banner our national anthem, it will have to change the wording a little and make it read "O'er the land of the ex-free, and home of the brave." Why, men can not combine their capital and build a railroad and then operate it themselves. The I. C. C. fixes rates; the labor unions the wages. Henry Ford has a railroad of his own, bought and paid for with his own money, but can not transport over it a barrel of potatoes or a ton of coal for his own use without paying a rate fixed by men who have not a dollar invested in it. Land of the free! Bosh! Free! Anything but free. We are slaves to Congress, abject slaves, without the courage to rebel. Under the present condition of things the Star-Spangled Banner should be hung on a willow tree, like the harps of the Israelites of old.

FOR FREEDOM.

FAMOUS SAYINGS OF GREAT MEN.

Our country! In her intercourse with foreign nations, may she always be right; but our country, right or wrong.—Toast of Commodore Decatur.

I hope to find my country in the right. However, I will stand by her, right or wrong.—John J. Crittenden.

Our country, whether bounded by the St. John and the Sabine, or however otherwise bounded and described, and be the measurements more or less, still our country, to be cherished in all our hearts, to be defended by all our hands.—Robert C. Winthrop.

Well meant ignorance is a grievous calamity in high places.—Jacques Bossuet.

And he adores his maker.—John Bright referring to Disraeli, who was spoken of as being self-made.

Miss Taylor Bride.

The wedding of Miss Virginia Taylor, daughter of Mrs. Boyd Taylor, to Mr. Thomas Minor Pelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Pelly, of Seattle, Wash., took place yesterday at 4 o'clock in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral. The Very Rev. G. C. F. Bratenahl performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Frank Taylor. The gown was of white chiffon, simply draped. She wore a close-fitting cap of rose point lace held with orange blossoms across the back of the neck. Her train of chantilly lace fell over a tulle veil, and she carried white larkspur, gypsophilia and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Thorwald F. Hammer, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her gown was of apple green georgette crepe and she wore a large hat of the same color. She carried a bouquet of white marguerites.

Mr. Bernard Berringer Pelly, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Edwin A. Strout, jr., of Seattle; Mr. Thomas Oakes, of Hartford, Conn.; Mr. Thorwald F. Hammer, of Branford, Conn., and Mr. John A. Selby, of Washington.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother. Mrs. Taylor wore a dress of black chiffon slightly draped, with a large black hat and a corsage of lavender sweet peas and gardenias. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Pelly departed for a wedding trip to Cuba, Panama, and the West Coast. Mrs. Pelly wore for traveling a navy blue crepe dress with a kasha coat and small felt hat also of navy blue. After July 1 they will live in Seattle.

Policeman Sued After Arrest.

Decatur Trotter, 5720 Grant street northeast, filed suit yesterday in Circuit Court against Policeman Clifford A. Garry, of the Ninth Precinct, to recover $10,000 damages for alleged false arrest. Through Attorney W. S. Porter the plaintiff says that on January 1 the policeman unjustly arrested him and charged him with disorderly conduct, but failed to make out a case against him.

TWO DEAD, 14 HURT IN TRAIN COLLISION

Engineer and Fireman Scalded to Death in Crash on Single-Track Line.

Bluefield, W. Va., May 24 (By A. P.).—The engineer and fireman were killed and fourteen passengers injured, a majority slightly, when a westbound Virginian Railroad passenger train collided with an eastbound freight near Ingleside, W. Va., today. The dead:

Engineer E. R. Aldrich, Roanoke, Va.
Fireman F. M. O'Neal, Pax, W. Va.

Both victims were scalded to death.

The smash-up occurred on a single track line. The passenger train No. 3, had just left the Ingleside station when it met the freight.

Odd Fellows in Big Hagerstown Parade

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., May 24.—Five hundred Odd Fellows from Maryland and adjoining States participated tonight in a street parade, preceding the conferring of degrees at an elaborate ceremonial in the State Armory. The Degree of Friendship was exemplified by a Martinsburg team and the Degree of Love by a Waynesboro team.

Many officials of the Grand Lodge of Maryland, headed by Grand Master Dr. Arthur C. Tiemyer, were present. Grand Marshal J. Frederick Wallace, Baltimore, had charge of the parade.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.
Washington, Tuesday, May 24, 8 p. m.

Forecast for the District of Columbia—Showers Wednesday; Thursday fair; not much change in temperature; moderate southeast, shifting to southwest and west winds.

For Maryland—Showers Wednesday; Thursday probably fair; not much change in temperature; moderate to fresh southeast, shifting to southwest and west winds.

For Virginia—Local thundershowers Wednesday; Thursday generally fair; not much change in temperature; moderate southeast, shifting to southwest and west winds.

Pressure is relatively high over New England and in the vicinity of Bermuda and of the North Pacific Coast, and it is now elsewhere, with centers of minimum pressure as follows: Winnipeg, Man., 29.36; Marquette, Mich., 29.50; Cape Race, N. F., 29.54, and Del Rio, Tex., 29.66 inches. This pressure distribution has been attended by showers within the last 24 hours in the North Atlantic States, the Lake region, the Ohio, the Missouri and the upper Mississippi Valleys, Arkansas, the Plains States, Montana, the Canadian Northwest, and at scattered points in the South Atlantic States. The temperature has fallen in Missouri and upper Mississippi Valleys, Oklahoma, northern Texas, southern New England, and the northern portion of the Middle Atlantic States, and it has risen in Tennessee, portions of the East Gulf States, and almost generally from the Rocky Mountain region westward to the Pacific Coast.

The indications are for showers and probably thundershowers in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, the Middle Atlantic States, and the southern Appalachian region Wednesday, and in the lower Lake region and the North Atlantic States Wednesday and Thursday. Local thundershowers are probable also on Thursday in the extreme South. The temperature will not change materially during the next two days, except that it will rise in New York, New England, and in the northern portion of the Middle Atlantic States.

FORMER AIMEE CROCKER GRANTED FIFTH DIVORCE

Decree Is Won on Ground of Husband's Relations With Other Women.

PRINCE DENIED "ALIMONY"

Paris, May 24 (By A. P.).—A decree of divorce was granted today to the Princess Galatzine, formerly Aimee Crocker, California heiress.

The court upheld completely her contention that Prince Mistislav Galatzine, whom she married here in September, 1925, had deceived her and maintained intimate relations with other women.

The prince, against whom the findings of the court ran throughout, must pay the entire costs of the suit, and will not receive the $125 a month "alimony" which he claimed.

Although this sum was stipulated in a letter from the princess which was admitted as a sort of marriage settlement and which was read during the hearing of the suit, the court held that he had deceived his wife and therefore had lost all right to what otherwise could not, under the terms of the contract, be denied him.

The five-times married Aimee Crocker petitioned for a divorce from the youthful Russian nobleman on grounds of infidelity and abandonment.

The prince opposed the suit, charging that the marriage was a purely commercial one, animated by the American woman's desire to become a princess. The prince said he married for a financial settlement and on condition that the union be one in name only. His counsel read a letter in court, purporting to have been written by the wife, asserting that she "hired the services" of Prince Galatzine as a commercial transaction.

"I consent to pay you," the letter continued, "during both our existences, $250, but if there is a divorce I will pay you only $125 monthly during your lifetime."

All of Aimee Crocker's five marriages now have ended in divorce. Her husbands have been Porter Ashe, Harry Gillic, Jackson Gouraud, Prince Mislinkoff and Prince Galatzine.

Loomis Jury Chosen In Trial for Murder

Detroit, Mich., May 24 (By A. P.).—Selection of a jury to try Dr. Frank R. Loomis on a first degree murder charge was completed in the court of Judge John V. Brennan late today, with an alternate juror chosen in the event one of the panel becomes ill.

The thirteenth juror will be eliminated by lot if all remain on duty when the case is given to the jury.

Dr. Loomis is charged with killing his wife, Grace Burns Loomis, who was clubbed to death in the sunroom of the Loomis home the night of last February 22. Robert M. Toms, Wayne county prosecutor, began his opening statements to the jury after the panel was completed.

LIQUOR RESTRICTION ASSAILED BY CLERGY

Protestant Episcopal Pastors Support Doctors; Dry Law Change Urged.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, May 24.—On the basis of partially completed returns from a questionnaire sent to 7,000 Protestant Episcopal churchmen, the church temperance society will publicly indorse the stand recently taken by the American Medical Association that doctors should be allowed to prescribe whisky unrestrictedly, it was learned today. The returns so far indicate that a large majority of the Episcopal clergy is in favor of modification of the law, according to the society.

A resolution adopted by the society last night supports the stand taken by the medical association and states that most Episcopal churchmen feel the prohibition law has done more harm than good, according to a member of the organization. This member, who refuses to be quoted, said that ministers generally felt prohibition had induced increased drinking among the younger generation. At present the resolution is in the hands of an executive committee headed by the Rev. Charles A. Livingston, of Setauket, L. I.

Bishop William T. Manning, of the New York diocese, declared in February, 1926, that the society had no authority to speak for the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Motion for Another Trial Denied Shields

A motion for a new trial for Daniel J. Shields, wealthy politician, of Johnstown, Pa., was overruled yesterday by Justice Adolph Hoehling in criminal court. Shields had been found guilty of bribing Mrs. Della M. Evans, former stenographer in the prohibition unit, to furnish him with confidential informaton concerning investigations of Pennsylvania breweries.

The two counts in the indictment on which Shields was found guilty cover $300 in bribery money. The penalty for bribery is a fine of not more than three times the amount of the bribe and imprisonment of not more than three years on each count. It is highly probable that counsel for Shields will appeal. Assistant District Attorney John Fihelly prosecuted Shields and opposed the motion for a new trial.

3 WASHINGTON WOMEN PRESENTED TO ROYALTY

THRONE ROOM BRILLIANT

London, May 24 (By A. P.).—The throne room in Buckingham Palace was a brilliant scene tonight when the king and queen held their first court of the season. This was mainly diplomatic and official.

Nearly 1,000 leading members of society, among them hundreds of bejeweled women, crowded the state apartments, where hothouse flowers and foliage provided an effective setting for the gorgeous dresses and uniforms. The string band of the famous Scotch Guards regiment played, while thrilled debutantes passed through lines of yeomen of the guard, in gay scarlet uniforms and Tudor hats, to the royal presence.

Queen Mary wore silver cloth with an overdress of tulle embroidered with pearls and silver; diamond diadem and diamond neck ornaments. Princess Mary and other princesses were in the royal party.

The court opened with the entry of Lady Chamberlain, wife of the foreign secretary, after which the presentations were made.

Mrs. Houghton, wife of the American Ambassador, presented the following American women:

In the diplomatic circle: Mrs. Arthur Atkins, Old Lyme, Conn.; Mrs. William Cooper, New York; Mrs. James Orville Gawne, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Hubert Harmon, Sheridan, Wyo.; Mrs. Robert Kirkpatrick, Dothan, Ala.; Mrs. Charles Lyn, Washington; the Misses Florence Lowden, Oregon, Ill. (daughter of Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois), and Catherine Wellington, of East Aurora, N. Y. Both the latter are friends of the Houghton family.

In the general circle: Mrs. Frederick Atherton, Washington; Mrs. Edwin Grosvenor, Washington, Conn.; Mrs. Franklin Pepper, Philadelphia, and the Misses Elsie Barber, New York; Helen Hardenbergh, Governors Island, N. Y.; Gladys Hopkins, Philadelphia; Suzanne Ilton, New York, and Evelyn Walker, of Washington.

Eight Americans will be presented at tomorrow's court by Mrs. Houghton, wife of the American Ambassador. They are the Misses Grace Cody, Pauline Day, Josephine Flood, of New York City; Miss Eleanor Wendell, Summit, N. J.; Mrs. Joseph S. Randolph, Vermont; Mrs. Lowell Pinkerton, Washington; Mrs. Myron Taylor, New York City, and Mrs. George Webb, of Indianapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Cloud, of Kansas City, also were hosts at luncheon at the Willard.

Miss Marie Elizabeth Brall and Mr. Meigs E. Newkirk were married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Calvary Baptist Church. Dr. William S. Abernethy officiated. The church was decorated with white gladiolus, white and pink peonies, palms and ferns. Mr. Frederick East sang "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Cleo Brall. Her gown was of white satin, tight fitting and sleeveless. Her tulle veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss Evelyn Lrall, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. Her costume was of yellow silk taffeta made with a tight basque waist and full skirt and no sleeves. She wore a leghorn picture hat and carried Ophelia roses.

Mr. A. Corwin Newkirk, the bridegrooms's brother, was the best man, and the ushers were Mr. Harold Majors and Dr. Harold Hertford.

Mr. and Mrs. Newkirk departed for a wedding trip to Toronto, Canada. They will be at home after August 1 at 6705 Forty-fourth street, Chevy Chase, Md.

Mrs. Newkirk is the daughter of Mrs. N. E. Brall, and Mr. Newkirk is the son of Mrs. Joseph Newkirk.

Mrs. Jay T. Bancroft will pass the summer at the home of Mrs. Lafayette Bliss, Virginia, Minn.

Col. Meade May Head New Nicaragua Police

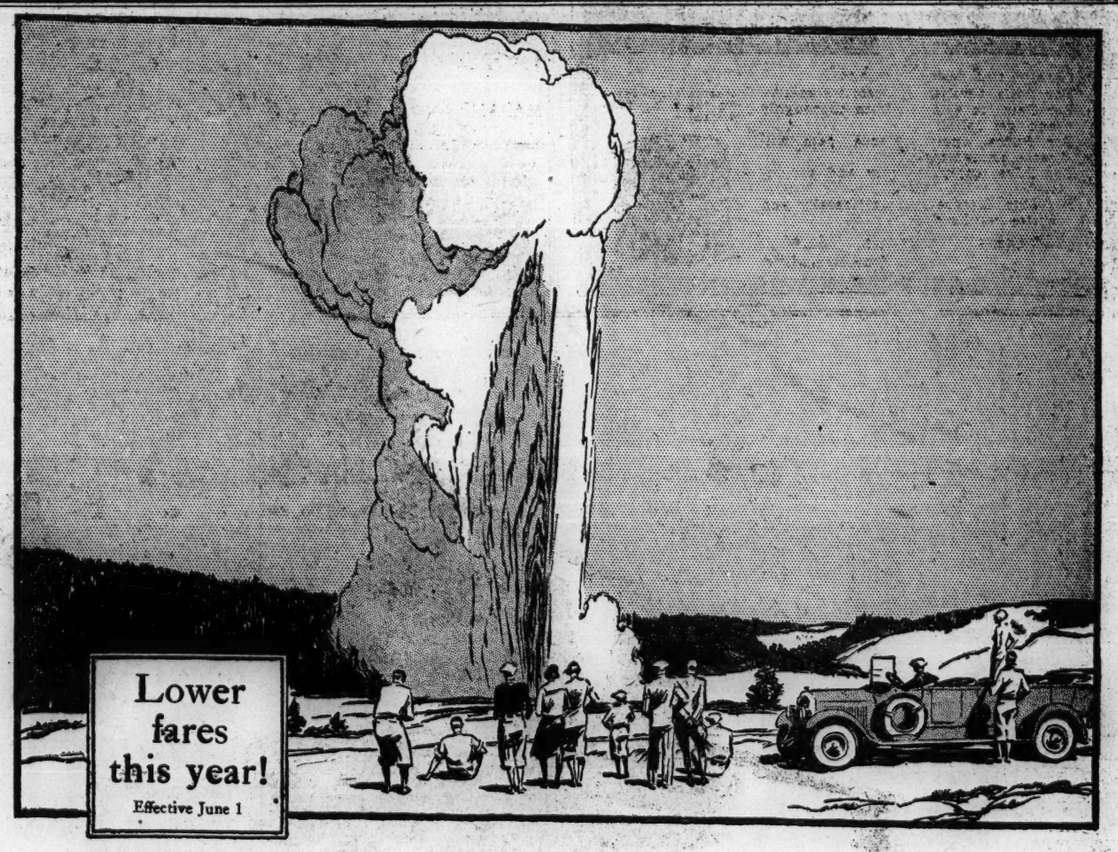

Lieut. Col. James J. Meade, of the Marine Corps, commander of the American legation guard at Managua, is understood to be under consideration as head of the new Nicaraguan constabulary, formation of which is called for under the Stimson liberal-conservative truce.

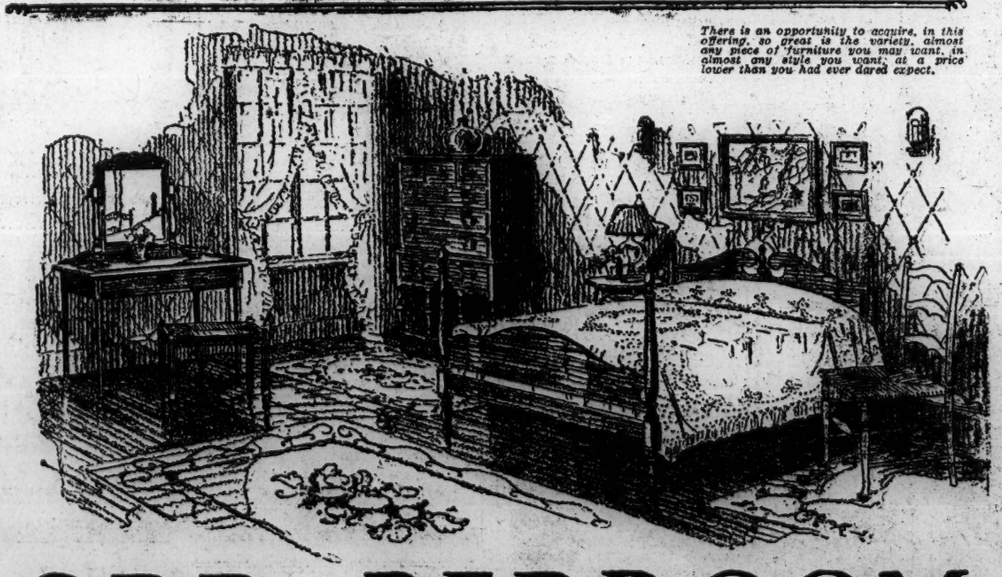

While some preliminaries remain to be worked out, it is believed the appointment, if suitable to Nicaragua, will be announced soon. Col. Meade, who is now in Washington, has a distinguished record in the marines, having been decorated by the President of Haiti for his work in suppressnig bandits while serving as commander of the Department of the North and as assistant chief of the Haitian constabulary. He holds five Haitian decorations in addition to the Philippine and Cuban campaign badges.

A Wonderful Vacation in YELLOWSTONE
COSTS LITTLE MORE THAN A VACATION NEAR HOME . . . 2 WEEKS IS TIME ENOUGH
THIS summer, take "America's famous vacation." Enjoy, at last, the visit you have long planned to the Land of Eternal Wonder—Yellowstone Park.
Be sure of one thing: Plan your trip one way via Gardiner or Bozeman (Gallatin Canyon Route) Gateway—the other way over the Cody Road. "If you don't see the Cody Road, you don't see Yellowstone."
You have time enough for a Yellowstone vacation. Two weeks is ample. And special summer rates on the Burlington make the cost surprisingly low—little more than an ordinary vacation near home.
Note this real vacation bargain. Your Burlington-Yellowstone ticket includes the Cody Road, a thrilling 90-mile motor ride through the Buffalo Bill country. It also takes you to scenic Colorado without extra cost.
You can visit both Yellowstone and Colorado leisurely in two weeks. If your have time you can go to Glacier Park for only $6.30 additional rail cost. Side trips may be made to the Black Hills of South Dakota and the Big Horn Mountains of Wyoming.
Only Burlington service makes possible this wonderful combination tour at this price. The Burlington operates the only through trains from Chicago to the Cody, Gardiner, and Bozeman (Gallatin Canyon) Gateways to Yellowstone; the only through Pullmans between the Cody Gateway of Yellowstone and Denver and between Yellowstone and Glacier.

"You are a dear to take us in."

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND THE CHARACTERS.

Christine Farr, pretty, popular, just 18, is invited to the commencement exercises of Reserve University by the inseparable friends of her childhood, both of whom are in love with her. They are:

Harvey proposes to her, and is accepted, so Lewis goes away without telling her he loves her, on the eve of the wedding of Christine and Harvey. A year later their son is born.

Lewis has returned to town, meanwhile, and is working for the firm which employs Harvey. He tells Havey he has discovered a chemical formula of great industrial value. Harvey undertakes to get his uncle, the president of the company, to put it across.

Soon after the birth of the second child, Harvey announces that he has been taken into the firm following his discovery of a formula for making rubber. Lewis, meanwhile, has lost his job, his project being a failure and he goes away.

With money from Harvey's product, the Blanton's build a beautiful home. Christine has every luxury, but she is happy only with her children. She finds that Harvey's friends are strangers to her.

A chance meeting with Lewis reveals to her that the old friendship between him and Harvey has been broken.

A friend who is disturbed by Christine's complete absorption in her children persuades her to broaden her interests. Christine's first venture is to publish a little book of fairy tales.

Then she learns that Harvey is going a fast pace. In his pocket she finds a love letter.

She goes to her parents, but they refuse to receive her.

She also discovers that Harvey's formula for making a rubber substitute was really Lew's, and that Harvey stole it. She confronts him with this, and tells him she is leaving him.

She goes to her parents, but they refuse to receive her.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Great Decision.

THE swaying of the train kept Christine awake. It was stuffy and crowded in the narrow berth. With the two babies sleeping beside her, she dared not switch on the light and read.

So she lay there, staring into the darkness. Her thoughts were in chaos; she still felt a horribly "gone" sensation when she forced herself to face the decision she had made, the irretrievable step that she had taken, without definite plan or assurance.

After her interview with her parents on the evening of her home-coming, when her father had told her decisively that he could not and would not undertake the support of herself and her children, and her mother had urged her to sacrifice her pride and return to her husband, Christine had gone to her room and paced the floor for hours.

It seemed as if, on every side, she faced a black wall. The blind faith with which she had returned to her parents, confident of a welcome, had betrayed her. The mere thought of ever returning to Harvey was dismissed with scorn and repugnance.

There was nothing to do but take upon herself the burden of maintaining her children, though, when she had announced to her family her decision to do so, it had been more of a gesture than a real decision.

It was not until she had gone to her room that a little, disturbing voice had raised itself and asked how she was going to accomplish this task. What qualifications had she that would enable her to support her children, to clothe them, to provide an adequate home?

She took stock of her accomplishments and discovered not one money-earning asset, except her modest ability to write. Her book of fairy stories proved a cheering thought. She had made a little money from its publication. Perhaps she might write other stories and make more.

In the meantime she had no funds of her own, except the proceeds of that little book and a small sum that had been left her by her godmother. That would be enough, for a while. After that was gone, then what?

She had forced down her panic that night and had gone to look at her babies. At the sight of them, resolution welled up in her heart. She would not submit them to the disgrace of living on money to which they had no right. She would not poison their lives by returning them to an atmosphere bereft of love and trust.

The dawn had found Christine unable to compose herself for slumber. Even after she had gone to bed her mind was busy with plans. She would go to New York. Cousin Anna had an apartment there. She would take her in. Cousin Anna always understood; there was enough money to last for a while, and meantime, she would make the rounds of the magazine offices and the publishing houses. She would be able to find work somehow.

"I'd rather be a waitress," she told herself, fiercely, "than live with Harvey."

So now she lay in a stuffy berth in a train that dashed through the night, reeling off the miles that lay between her and her former security. The future loomed ahead, vast, impenetrable, frightening. It took all her courage to face it.

Cousin Anna, in response to Christine's telegram, met the tired little trio in Penn Station. She knew nothing of her niece's reason for coming to New York.

Christine smiled a trifle wanly, but her head was raised defiantly and her pretty chin was very resolute.

"My decision to come was very sudden, Cousin Anna. You are a dear to take us in."

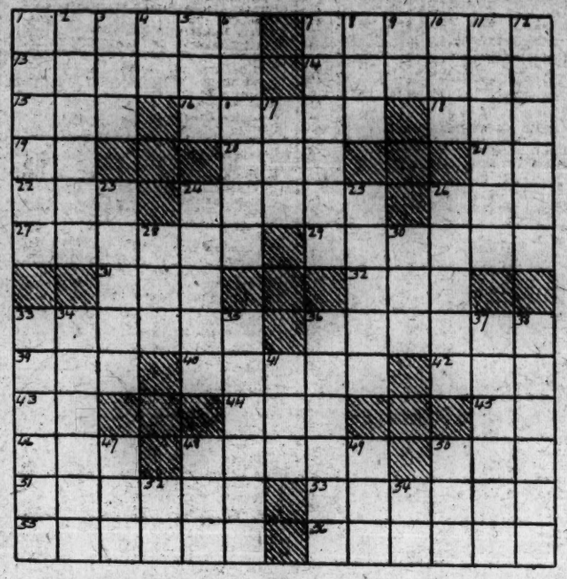

"Pouf, that's nothing," declared the lady who was looking very smart and youthful, despite her gray hair. "I've been awfully lonely here in New York, but I wouldn't admit it to a soul at home. It will be nice to have you around, even though my apartment is a mere box of a place."

As they drove away from the station, she remarked with a chuckle:

"Chris, did you know that Lewis Hayes is living in New York? I saw him the other day on Fifth avenue."

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

A Suspicious Wife.

DEAR Miss McDonald: Have been a constant reader of your column and think your advice is excellent. Now I come to you with my problem. Am a young married woman with one child who now goes to school. My problem is about my husband. He is a good provider and buys us everything we want in the way of clothes, amusements and all that, but he has such a terrible habit of lying to me, and it is getting on my nerves so terribly that I will soon be a nervous wreck, as I am of a worrying nature. I must keep up for my child. He works around women and comes in contact with salesmen. Often when they are in town he will not come home for supper and calls me at the last minute and says he will be home about 10 o'clock, which would be perfectly O. K., but instead it is usually 12 o'clock. Then I sit and worry and can't imagine where and why he stays so late, and if he is really busy with a salesman or what not. Now this happens so often that I think it is all bunk. It often happens he will call up about supper time and say, I will be busy awhile and will be home early—lots of times I called him up to see if he was there and he was not! So I know he lies to me galore, and I simply can't stand it much longer. I was tempted to leave several times but then considered my child first. How can I cure him? Is there any cure? Shall I step out and stay out late at a friend's house whenever he goes away? And come in late just as he does? Would that not tame him down? Or would it make him worse?

Then again I must sacrifice for my child and get her to bed early for school next day. I try to please him in every way and keep my house very attractive, which he admires and appreciates. I have my meals on time, and he is very jolly at home. He has been doing this for a number of years, lying to me. I always took it. Now I am at the end of the rope. Give me some advice and thank you. Pardon this long letter.

PERPLEXED.

P. S.—Please print this letter, as I am not giving my address as this is a small town.

Why on earth are you taking this sudden crazy attitude? I assume your husband has a store—since he comes in contact with salesmen—as well as women. Now your finding that he was not at the store when you phoned would by no means prove he was not "busy with a salesman"—as the aim of almost every salesman is to get a man away from his business before selling him. Most hotels have "sample rooms" for the assistance of these salesmen who feel they can display their products and sell their prospect under more favorable conditions when the harassed business man is free of the atmosphere and the demands of his own office or store. Now your business is being a wife. Thus far you have made a success of it. Don't go into bankruptcy now trying to be modern and miserable.

You haven't "caught" your husband lying—but you have lowered yourself to the point of spying upon him by phone. And spying is as low as lying ever tried to be. Your husband provides you with everything you wish; he praises and appreciates your success in making a home attractive; he is jolly, which proves that he loves his wife—and you set yourself to spy upon and suspect and publicly—even if anonymously—villify him. Now I want to ask you, if you are not thoroughly ashamed of yourself? If you ask me where he is until 12 o'clock, I can tell you. He's sitting "swapping" wise remarks and pointless jokes with a tired out salesman who is listening to the one about the Scotchman and the Jew and thinking that he could make the 6:05 to Pittsburgh in the morning if this bird would order and go home and let him figure up his expense report. If you have anything to worry about its that mean little streak in your own little soul that is going to jaundice your life if you don't promptly take something for it! You are the one that needs the "cure," my girl—and whether or not there is a cure, I can not say. What do you think?

NOW, I'LL ASK ONE!

Everybody's doing it! Get in the swim. Test your own knowledge, and that of your friends. It is a delightful game and is educational at the same time. Printed below are ten questions. If any of them stump you, you will find the answers on the last page.

QUESTIONS.

1. What South American mountain chain is a continuation of the Rocky mountains?
2. What college scholarship is offered to aid the relations between the United States and England?
3. What is the Smithsonian institution?
4. Who is said to have driven the snakes out of Ireland?
5. What is a Christian fundamentalist?
6. What did the Sesquicentennial held in Philadelphia in 1926 commemorate?
7. In mythology what device did the Greeks use to gain entry to the city of Troy?
8. What country first developed gunpowder?
9. Give the distance around the earth at the equator.
10. In Biblical history, what nation held the children of Israel in bondage?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. W. A. EVANS

LATEST U. S. BULLETIN ON MALNUTRITION.

THE children's bureau of the United States Department of Labor has revised their bulletin entitled, "What is Malnutrition?" bringing it up to 1927 knowledge. When Miss Roberts wrote this bulletin and the bureau issued it nearly eight years ago, the word nutrition referred to height and weight and not much else. In the intervening eight years the word has been broadened until it includes much besides eating of food, digesting it and converting it into flesh and bone.

In this present bulletin Miss Roberts begins by describing a healthy, well-nourished child as follows. "A healthy, well-nourished child measures up to racial and family standards for his age in height and weight. He has good color, bright eyes—without blue circles or dark hollows under them—and smooth, glossy hair. His posture is good, his step elastic, his flesh firm, and his muscles well developed. He is usually happy and good-natured and he is full of life and animal spirits. His sleep is sound, his appetite and digestion are good, and his bowels are regular. He is, in short, what nature meant him to be before anything else—a healthy, happy, young animal."

In contrast she describes an unhealthy, poorly nourished child as follows. A poorly nourished child lacks several of these characteristics of a well-nourished child—or all of them—depending on the degree of malnourishment. He is usually thin, but he may be fat and flabby. His skin may have a pale, delicate, waxlike look, or it may be sallow, muddy, even pasty or earthy. Usually blue circles or dark hollows are under his eyes, and the membrane inside his eyelid is pale and colorless. His hair may be rough like that of a poorly cared for farm animal, his tongue coated and his bowels constipated. His skin seems loose, his flesh is flabby and his muscles are undeveloped.

"Because of lack of muscular tone his shoulders are usually rounded, the shoulder blades sometimes standing out to such an extent as to produce the deformity known as "wings;" his chest is flat and narrow; his abdomen protrudes. His teeth may be decayed and he may have enlarged or diseased tonsils and adenoids.

"The animal spirits natural to all healthy young are likely to be lacking in the malnourished child; he may be listless at play and work, not caring to romp and play like other children; he is likely to tire easily, and he may be regarded as lazy. He is likely to lack mental vigor also, to have little power of concentration and attention, and to lack the natural inquisitiveness and mental alertness of a child. He may be nervous, restless and fidgety, and he will probably sleep lightly and be finicky about his food."

This picture includes much more than nutrition as we once thought of it, but then nutrition is far-reaching in registering in a child. As I read the description my mind went back to the old days on the farm—when we found a horse with those symptoms we gave him a certain powder. Tomorrow we will see what should be done with a child.

THE FACTS ON CIGARETTES.

2. No.
3. They are in the same class with other forms of tobacco; no better, no worse.

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

THE pointer for today is:

Yesterday's Hand.

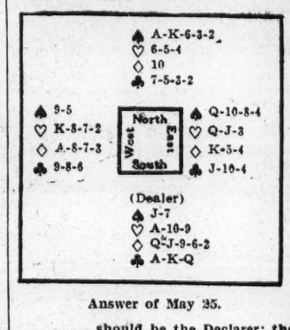

The bidding should be: South one No Trump, which would obtain the contract. The play to the first trick should be: West, Four of Spades; North (Dummy), Nine of Spades; East, Ace of Spades; South (Closed Hand), King of Spades.

The point to be noted is the play of the King of Spades on the adverse Ace. It is made because, when the Ace of Spades is played, Declarer can see that one Spade trick (no more) can be taken, two Club tricks and two Diamond tricks, making a total of five. To win the game, four Heart tricks are needed; and the only probable way to obtain them is to lead Hearts twice from Dummy. Dummy can get in once with the King of Diamonds, but can not get in a second time unless a Spade entry be made in the Dummy hand by the play of the King on the Ace. This does not affect the number of Spade tricks won by Declarer, but changes the winning of the only Spade trick that Declarer can take from Closed Hand to Dummy and makes possible a game otherwise unobtainable.

Today's Problem.

In the following deal, look at the hand of each player and determine what you think he should bid in his turn; in that way you will decide what the final contract should be. Then decide what four cards should be played on the first trick and fill in pencil on the answer slip given below.

Answer of May 25.

.....should be the Declarer; the contract..... The first trick should be:.....leads ..... Dummy plays ..... Third Hand plays ..... Closed Hand plays .....

Beauty and You

By VIOLA PARIS

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

DEAR Viola Paris: I am a young girl 21 years old. My legs are long and very thin above the ankles. Will you please tell me how to fatten them? I weigh 111 pounds; am I underweight? How can I overcome stiff actions, and what exercise will help me to be graceful and erect?

HENRIETTA.

Answer—It is too bad that you did not tell me your height, for, without knowing that, I am afraid that I can not judge whether or not your weight is right. If you are rather short—say about 5 feet 2 inches—than you are not underweight. If you need to gain more in general weight, then general methods for doing this would probably result in better proportions for your legs. Don't try to make your legs too plump—slender legs and slim ankles are decided points of beauty. To develop yourself to the correct proportions and also to gain in grace and good posture, exercise is invaluable. You ought to concentrate on floor exercises in which the legs are well brought into play, and on kicking movements. The bicycle exercise and the pendulum would both be excellent for you. Hopping on each foot alternately with a rocking motion is good. The squat and the one-leg squat, each done ten times a day, are other suggestions. And if you could take lessons in dancing—any form of it that appeals to you—that would teach you grace of action more quickly than anything else. Always in walking and standing and sitting, try to keep the head up and the abdomen and chin in.

Dear Viola Paris: Would you, please, tell me something that I can do to develop my legs from the knees down? What can I use on my hair to keep it light without bleaching it?. What will make my eyelashes longer?

LILLIAN.

Answer—For your first question, see my answer to "Henrietta." Perhaps you are too thin all over; in that case, you should eat more nourishing foods to increase your weight.

If nature intends your hair to grow dark, I see no good and sufficient reason for opposing her wisdom. You might use a blond tonic and shampoo, but unless you are naturally a true blonde, they might not satisfy you. Why isn't brown hair just as attractive in its way as light hair?

To encourage further growth and silkiness of the eyelashes, anoint the rims of the eyelids every night with petroleum vaseline.

Dear Viola Paris: Is it good to exercise the muscles of the mouth and eyes on arising and before eating? What may I do to obtain a round, fat face? I am 21, and I eat very well.

BARBARA JANE.

Answer—I can not see any especial advantage in exercising the face as you suggest. The muscles of the mouth usually get plenty of exercise from talking, eating and the various changing expressions of the face.

If you have a slender face, you should be thankful—and not want to change it to a round, fat face. I am sure that you are much prettier just as you are.

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON

KNICKERBOCKERS FOR GIRLS

I LOOKED out of my window this morning and saw a party of girls evidently going off for a day's walk. They had bundles and baskets for lunch with them and all the appearance of country-goers. There may have been eight in all. Two had on short skirts and sweater coats in some brown and earth-colored material, with small felt or straw hats. They looked neat, smart and ladylike. The five or six others had knickerbockers—or rather, boys' breeches on, for they were rather tightish—bright sweaters or boys' coats, and either no hats or tams. One did, I believe, have a small felt hat, now I come to think of it, but she had put it on the back of her head, and bunches of half-long, rough, untidy hair stuck out round her face.

There is nothing uglier and more unnecessary than the wearing of this kind of costume by most of the girls who do wear it. Few girls' figures show to advantage even in well-cut knickerbockers. If a girl rides astride, or is mountain climbing, or skiing, or following some sport that requires the wearing of breeches or knickerbockers, then, of course, she must wear them. But for ordinary walking the short skirt looks much better; and, in its present state of shortness, there's nothing in the ordinary cross-country hike that you can't do in a short skirt quite as well as in knickerbockers.

The girls I saw this morning, if they could have looked at themselves in a long glass, would (I hope) have gone home. They were fattish, exuberant girls, bulging through their clothes, and the boyish costume, untidily put on and ill-suited to them at best, was most unbecoming. I am not against a girl's looking as boyish as she pleases, or as she must, in suitable circumstances. It's always smart to be suitably dressed whether the clothes are flattering to the individual face or not, But no girl need think it smart to put on boy's clothes in the streets of a great city, even if she's going out of it for a country walk. If she does put them on, they and her figure should be as inconspicuous and neat as possible—and even then they won't be really smart for the occasion.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

ORDINARY LOVE.

Since love is a topic now plainly discussed,
To sing of that passion I feel that I must,
So here's to the fellow who lives out his life
In love with that glorious woman—his wife,
And here's to that love which he gives to another;
His patient, devoted and beautiful mother.

Let others who will write the praises and charms
Of blondes or brunettes with their well-rounded arms,
Let the triangle still furnish many a plot,
I sing of the love that is almost forgot,
A triangle free from all turbulent strife,

The gossips get little from this, I confess,
Though it's love that I'm singing of, nevertheless,
Love that has sacrifice, love that is strong,
Love with a thrill, though the years may be long;
Love with a plot—it is easily found—
The love of a man for his own plot of ground.
I sing of the thousands and not of the few,
The thousands of husbands devoted and true,
Who never get into the pages of books,
And are never upset by a young woman's looks,
But stand to their duty and live out their lives
In love with their mothers and children and wives.

Builders Will Put River Under Bridge

Chicago, May 24 (By A. P.).—Chicago is spending $1,700,000 to build a bridge beneath which no river runs.

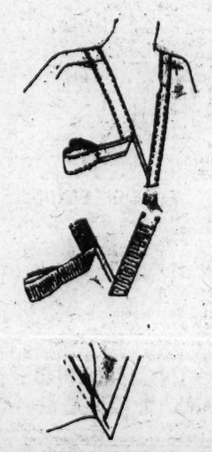

When it is finished a channel will be dug under it, and presently the Chicago river will flow where now are only railroad tracks.

Plunging into the $9,000,000 task of straightening a bend in the river to create more land for trackage and to open numerous streets of the business district, Chicago discovered that Roosevelt road would have to be closed to traffic for many months if the bridge were not built until the river was in its new bed. So it was decided to build the bridge first and move the river under it later.

For Mother at Commencement

DEAR Vogue: My daughter will graduate from college this June, and I want to make myself a dress to wear at her commencement—one that will be appropriate for class day exercises, for field day, and even for an informal tea. As I have a younger daughter in day school and am making her graduation dress, I have very little time to make myself presentable. I am 40 years old, not fat, but not so very slim! My hair is still brown and my coloring is bright. MRS. N. W.

Dear Mrs. N. W.: A dress of crepe de chine is one of the most practical things that you could take to commencement, and the one we have sketched is sufficiently a compromise between the sports and the formal mode to be approprate for almost any daytime occasion. As you see, the only trimming is grosgrain ribbon in the tone of the dress, a long band around the neck ending in loops, and bands at the hips.

We suggest that you make it in beige—the very pale, neutral beige, almost gray in tone—that is so smart this season. Buy a little felt hat to match; beige kid slippers; stockings of the same tone, and you will have the most practical sort of costume you could wish, for semisports clothes are by far the most appropriate choice for the daytime events of a college commencement. Furthermore, this will be an excellent dress to wear all summer, either in town or in the country, and the beige should be very becoming to your vivid coloring.

MODISH MITZI

Mitzi Likes Her Portraits Modern

By Jay V. Jay

"This is the Rubens gallery," says Polly to Mitzi as they travel through the Louvre. "Yes," replies Mitzi, "and that is an Agnes dress I think with the bandanna down the side." The one next to it is a pastel satin dress showing both sides of the satin. Well, Mitzi can find much of interest in this gallery besides the pictures. Now she begins counting the varieties of uneven brims on the hats she meets while she discovers that four out of the five of them are wearing off-the-face effects.

"Such an interesting back to this tailored suit," exclaims Mitzi. The seaming gives long lines to the jacket. Polly has been calling Mitzi's attention to the pictures which she says they have come to see. "But," as Mitzi explains, "they are almost all of nudes! As everybody knows she is interested primarily in clothes. The Louvre is a flop as far as Mitzi is concerned. Put it in modern dress and maybe she'd see the sense. As far as a stylish effect is concerned, her own and Polly's hats are probably—well, they are quite all right. Tomorrow—Coats.

Advise Women to Adopt

new hygienic method; new way offers true protection; discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

LARGELY on medical advice, women are abandoning the old-time "sanitary pad" for a new way that supplants uncertainty with positive protection.

Sheer frocks and ill-timed social engagements no longer remain as worries. Lost days are fewer, and health better.

It is called "Kotex." Ends the insecurity of old-time sanitary pads; 5 times as absorbent! And deodorizes—ends all fear of offending.

Buy without hesitancy, and be sure to get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

LONG LIST OF STOCKS AT NEW PEAK LEVELS

Many Favorites Soar Further; Some Profit Taking Develops.

BALDWIN RISES 8 POINTS

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, May 24.—Speculative operations for the rise in specialties and transportation shares was resumed in todays' active session on the New York Stock Exchange. There was a deal of accompanying profit taking and considerable irregularity in other parts of the list. However, a long list of stocks, many of them usually inactive, reached new peaks for the year as a number of favorites pursued their upward course. The final cast-up for the day showed there had been also quite extensive recessions. The turnover aggregated some 2,135,000 shares.

Gains, outnumbering losses by about 3 to 1, were scattered throughout the list, with conspicuously good buying power appearing under utility, rail, equipment and sugar stocks. It was apparent to experienced observers, though, that the forward movement had lost considerable of the momentum that had carried it forward so briskly of late, and buying did not show the disposition to follow through that has been apparent for some time. This lack was noticeable even in those stocks which recently have been most popular.

Possibly the somewhat firmer money situation made traders cautious. At least the prospect for the possible further stiffening of money rates as the end of the month approaches served to dampen enthusiasm. Another factor no doubt was the probability of an extended holiday at the week-end, and in view of the recent rapid rise in many stocks, it was only logical to expect that traders should be inclined to go slow for the moment.

In such circumstances, naturally, the market was taken by surprise in the afternoon and attention was attracted again to the high-priced specialties by another sudden and sharp advance in Baldwin Locomotive. This stock soared more than 8 points to a new high record for all time, while such issues as American Radiator, Liggett & Myers, General Outdoor Advertising, Pittsburgh Coal, Park & Tilford, Otis Elevator, Southern Railway, Pennsylvania Railroad, Western Maryland, Davison Chemical, Central Leather, Bush Terminal, Weber & Heilbroner, Westinghouse Air Brake, White Sewing Machine, Worthington Pump and others reached new highs. Texas Gulf Sulphur recovered after a setback, Phillips Petroleum advanced in the face of announcement of plans for new financing and Houston developed new strength after its recent recession. General Motors and United States Steel common were very quiet, both losing ground fractionally on the day.

Inauguration of dividends on U. S. Distributing new preferred shares in the forenoon brought a burst of buying in that issue. The stock was established on a $7 annual basis through the declaration of a semiannual disbursement of $3.50 a share. The stock reached new high ground on the news, which was in line with expectations.

Pierce-Arrow preferred stood out as an acute weak spot, declining 6 points as light volume of offerings found the market virtually bare of nearby demand but later recovering 2 points. Selling here was influenced by apprehension over the outlook for the present $8 dividend rate. First quarter earnings showed only 43 cents a share earned on the stock against the $2 requirements for the period and compared with $3.29 a share in the first quarter of 1926.

In the foreign exchange market, sterling was firm as Swiss and Dutch rates advanced moderately and Norwegian, Italian and Spanish exchange yielded somewhat. Offerings were mostly small, however. Japanese yen continued its recovery.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 24 (By A. P.).—In the biggest trading seen in many a day, wheat, rye, corn and oats all jumped today to new high price records for the season. Rushes to buy were simultaneous with British government announcement of a diplomatic break with Russia, but abnormal weather and crop conditions, as well as scantiness of Chicago supplies both of wheat and rye were in general accepted as the chief market influence.

Wheat closed nervous at 2⅜ to 5⅜ cents net advance, corn 2@2⅛ to 2⅜ cents up, oats ¼ cent off to an equal gain, and provisions varying from 20 cents decline to a rise of 10 cents.

Among the principal incentives to purchase wheat was a report from Winnipeg that with persistent rains in progress it is now too late for any further wheat seeding. Official advices were also at hand that it has become impossible for Kansas to realize a harvest as large as was forecast on May 1. Sensationally unfavorable crop reports from Texas and Oklahoma were likewise current, including word that the wheat yield in the Texas Panhandle would be so reduced that there would be none for export. On top of all this were unexpected steep advances at Liverpool and prospects of heavy curtailment of wheat and rye stocks here this week, rendering month-end adjustment of May contracts difficult.

Excited buying and topmost prices of the day were the rule near the finish in the wheat pit. Some of this buying was to close up recent heavy spreads between wheat and corn in which wheat had been sold and corn had been bought. Even in the general stampede today to own wheat, however, and notwithstanding the sharp upturn of Liverpool quotations, the fact did not escape notice that little or no export buying was in evidence.

Torrential rains in the corn belt and consequent serious further delays to planting were the principal stimulus to higher prices for corn and oats.

Provisions averaged lower as a result of packers' selling, but this was partly offset by relative cheapness of lard compared with other commodities.

BOND MARKET AWAITS NEW FINANCING BY U. S.

GOVERNMENT LIST DULL

New York, May 24 (By the Associated Press).—With the market for listed bonds decidedly quiet and prices showing few changes of consequence, interest of bond men today centered in the forthcoming financing of the United States Treasury Department. It is expected that trading will continue to be relatively quiet until the Government plans are outlined some time before June 15.

Most of the limited buying was confined to issues which appeared attractive for special reasons. Davison Chemical 6½s, which are to be retired shortly, again swung upward to a new high. Erie "D" 4s, on which conversion privileges expire October 1, advanced about a point on heavy demand. Barnsdall 6s, with warrants, and International Telephone 5½s also found favor with buyers.

Profit taking was again noticeable in Chesapeake Corporation 5s, and substantial losses were sustained by New York Central 3½s and Granby 7s.

Brisk demand for Polish 8s developed coincident with a revival of unofficial reports that New York bankers had completed arrangements for a $70,000,000 loan to that republic.

United States Government issues were quiet and irregular

New financing reported on the way includes an issue of $40,000,000 or so for Phillips Petroleum Co. and $10,000,000 Bell Telephone Co. of Canada, and the $20,000,000 loan to the City of Budapest. The Van Sweringen interests are understood to be contemplating an issue similar to the Chesapeake Corporation 5s, based upon their holdings of Pere Marquetté stock. Reports of the amount involved run as high as $40,000,000.

What's Behind Your Stock

Great Western Sugar Company

The Great Western Sugar Co. was incorporated in 1905 as a consolidation of several concerns engaged in the production of beet sugar. The company owns seventeen beet sugar factories in northern and eastern Colorado and in Nebraska, Montana and Wyoming. These factories have a total slicing capacity of approximately 27,000 tons of beets daily. The company owns all of the capital stock of the Great Western Railway, the Ingleside Limestone Co., and the Imperial Land Co. It is one of the largest beet sugar producers in the world.

The last few years have witnessed somewhat of a reduction in earning power. For instance, in 1923 per share earnings on the common stock amounted to $18.26, as compared with earnings of $8.96 reported in 1925. But despite this decrease in earnings, the company has been able to maintain thus far the $8 annual dividend which was inaugurated in April, 1924. The company began the payment of dividends in 1910 and made regular declarations thereafter until July, 1921, at rates ranging between 5 and 7 per cent. On the present $25 par shares the initial dividend was paid in 1923. In addition to the cash dividends there were extra payments from time to time in earlier years, the last one taking place in 1921.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, May 24 (By A. P.).—A further advance in the cotton market today met heavy realizing, and after selling up from 16.64 to 16.89, or into new high ground for the movement, October contracts broke to 16.58 in the late trading but closed at 16.65. The general market closed steady at net declines of 13 to 15 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 9 points. Active months showed net losses of 15 to 19 points in early trading under realizing by recent buyers who appeared to be influenced by rather a favorable view of the early weather reports and relatively easy Liverpool cables.

The market acted as if the sharp advance of the previous day had eased its technical position but offerings tapered off around 16.27 for July and 16.87 for December. These prices seemed to bring in a little more buying, and there was a renewal of trade and commission house demand, following the first private condition report of the season, which placed the condition at 69.3, compared with 71.0 at the same time last year, and pointed to a decrease of 13.2 per cent in acreage, with a falling off of 21 per cent in the sales of fertilizer.

Buying also was stimulated by the Government report pointing to a greater emergence of boll weevil than last year, and the forecast for showers more or less generally over the South, except for west Texas. For a time, the market showed considerable strength, all positions making new high ground for the movement. July sold up to 16.50, December to 17.13 and January to 17.20, net advances of 7 to 10 points. Some of the early sellers appeared to be covering on the advance. Offerings increased at the advance, however, and reports of rains in northwest Texas evidently brought in considerable selling during the afternoon, when prices declined to 16.23 for July and 16.84 for December, or about 18 to 25 points net lower on the general list. The close was several points up from the lowest on covering.

Exports today 18,988, making 10,224,000 so far this season. Port receipts 15,001; U. S. port stocks 1,705,621.

4 Teams Tied In Series As Tech Wins

Berger's Homer With Bases Full Beats Western, 9-6.

Play-Off May Be Held to Decide School Champion.

By ARTHUR A. HEYWOOD.

WESTERN HIGH SCHOOL was enjoying a three-run lead gained in the first inning when Louis Berger, Tech High School shortstop, stepped into the picture in the third frame with the bases loaded and changed the order of things with one mighty swing of his bat. Berger propelled the ball to distant center field for a home run to send Tech on its way to a 9-to-6 victory.

The defeat of Western virtually creates a quadruple tie for first place. The unofficial announcement that the protested Eastern-Western game will be replayed leaves Western, Tech, Central and Eastern with two victories and one defeat each in the series standing. Each team has one remaining game to play and a post-series play-off doubtless will be held to determine the champion.

That Tech defeated Western was due to the fact that it mauled Schneider and Bates, the two Western pitchers, for fourteen solid blows. Schneider, the starting pitcher, kept out of trouble until the third inning when Ensor and Forest singled and Demarest beat out a hit, filling the bases. Sorrel hit to Luney at third base and Ensor was cut off at ome.

An attempt to double Sorrel at first base failed and Forest scored on the play. Schneider then walked Gorman, filling the bases which provided the proper setting for Berger's home-run clout.

That uprising in the third inning excused Schneider for the day and Bates was nominated to take up the pitching duties. Tech jumped on him with equal vengeance in the fifth to score four more runs. Berger accounted for two more runs in this frame with a single—his third hit of the day.

He scored Demarest and Gorman. Fales followed with a fluke double and Drissell singled, scoring Berger and Fales.

Western scored one run in the fourth inning. With the bases full in the fifth, Young was rushed into the game to replace Ensor, and retired the side. Western, however, added two runs in the sixth. Luney hit and Buscher was safe on an error by Berger. Stevens singled over the fence, filling the bases after two were out, and Wilson's hit

ENGLISH GOLF VETERAN IS BEATEN

E. H. Haley, Lone U.S. Survivor, Meets Tolley Today.

HOYLAKE, England, May 24 (By A. P.).—A famous chapter in the history of British championship golf closed today when John Ball, aged 63, eight times winner of this country's classic amateur title, was beaten, 4 and 2, by the youthful J. R. Abercrombie, a fellow member of the Royal Liverpool Club.

Thus, like another veteran, Hilton, yesterday, Ball was robbed of his heart's desire of achieving one more victory before quitting championship golf for good. Ball, like Hilton, needed only one victory to complete 100 matches won in amateur championships.

Two Americans, Frank C. Newton and Joshua Crane, also bowed to youthful opponents, leaving only Edwin H. Haley, aged 23, as transatlantic challenger to the favorites, Tolley and Wethered.

Douglas Grant won his second round match, but the ex-Californian has lived in England so long the British count him as their own.

Young Haley's unexpected challenge for Sweetser's title will be met tomorrow morning by Tolley, and the American realizes the odds are greatly against victory. Nevertheless, golfing tragedies occur frequently to Tolley. Today, for instance, he was out of bounds at three different holes, exploring all the orchards and gardens bordering the Hoylake course.

Haley played like a veteran in the half gale which blew unceasingly.

One-Armed Outfielder Hits Homer, 2 on Base

Babe Ruth has a rival—a one-armed rival. Ned Sterling, outfielder of the Leonard Hall Prep School baseball team, of Leonardtown, Md., clutched a big bat in his left hand and clouted a home run with two on base yesterday at Garrett Park, in the seventh inning of the game against Georgetown Prep.

Ned Sterling, with his right arm amputated 2 inches below the shoulder, is a star slugger of the Leonard Hall team. He bats in third place in the line-up, and is not to be trifled with by opposing pitchers. He takes a mighty swing with his one arm and has many home runs to his credit. He batted out a single yesterday in addition to his home run.

Sterling plays center field and is a deadly fielder. On throws to the infield after making a catch, he quickly discards his glove and whips the ball on a line to any corner of the diamond. Georgetown Prep won yesterday's game, 12 to 7.

Seven Yearling Crews In Regatta June 29

New York, May 24 (By A. P.).—A record entry of seven crews for the freshman championship race at the Poughkeepsie regatta June 29 was disclosed today when positions were drawn at a meeting of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association. No more than five "yearling" eights ever have completed before in this 2-mile feature of the regatta.

The entry of the crack Naval Academy "Plebes" for the first time and also of Wisconsin's Freshman eight makes the record array possible, Maxwell Stevenson, chairman of the association, announced. California's Clubs are the other "guest" entry, along with the four members of the I. R. A., Columbia, Cornell, Pennsylvania and Syacuse.

The varsity 4-mile race also has closed with seven entries, one less than the recod array of last year, due to the recent withdawal of Wisconsin's first string combination. Five crews are entered in the 3-mile junior varsity event, making a total of nineteen crews that equals last year's record turnout.

California, Pennsylvania, Cornell and Columbia are the only colleges having contenders in each of the three races.

Harvard and Princeton Crews Race at Philly

Philadelphia, May 24 (By A. P.).—Fifty-five college and club crews are entered in the various events of the American Rowing Association, known as the American Henley Regatta, on the Schuylkill River next Saturday. Included in the events is the Childs' Cup race annually contested by Columbia, Pennsylvania and Princeton.

Although their athletic associations have broken relations so far as dual contests are concerned, Harvard and Princeton crews will find themselves side by side in two races.

G. U. BLANKED BY HARVARD NINE, 5-0

Barbee Holds G. U. to 4 Hits as Crimson Is Revenged.

Special to The Washington Post.

BOSTON, Mass., May 24.—Harvard tasted sweet revenge today at Soldiers Field in a 5-to-0 shut-out handed Georgetown in return for the beating Harvard received during its spring trip at Washington. Jack Barbee, pitching and playing better baseball than he has shown before this season, held the Washington Collegians to four hits.

Through seven innings the visitors went hitless, and with the exception of the first inning and the seventh, when they hit a pair of singles in each and also two walks, no Georgetown man reached first. Barbee hit the ball, also. He got three, and one of them was a three-bagger.

Burch started on the mound for Georgetown. Nine hits in four innings drove him to cover. Loughman replaced him. Loughman pitched cleverly, only three hits being made off his delivery.

In the seventh inning Ralph Duplin, of Stoneham, whose hitting beat Harvard at Georgetown last month, came up with two men on. This time Barbee got revenge. He struck the hitting right fielder out.

Harvard scored three times in the first inning with Burns, Chase and Capt. Zarakov hitting in succession. Later Chauncey singled. In the fourth the other two Crimson counters came over. Donaghy scored on Ellison's triple, and Barbee tripled Ellison home. Barbee tried to score on a high outfield fly, but McLean's brilliant throw and a smart relay caught the Harvard pitcher.

15-Mile Race to Miles; De Mar Fails to Place

Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, May 24. (By A. P.).—Johnny Miles, Sydney N. S., won a 15-mile race at the Black Diamond track here this afternoon, decisively defeating a field which included Clarence De Mar, of Melrose, Mass., winner of the 1927 Boston marathon; James Henigan, Dorchester(Mass.) Club, and Silas McLellan, Noel, Hants County, N. S.

Miles, who won the Boston marathon in a sensational upset in 1926, covered the 15 miles today in 1 hour 25 minutes 7½ seconds. Henigan was second and McLellan third.

Paulino Bout Is Refused Delaney

Commission Refuses to Recognize Chapman, Finnegan.

NEW YORK, May 24 (By A. P.).—Twin defeats were pinned on New York's leading boxing impresarios today by the State Athletic Commission.

Tex Rickard's hope of sending Jack Delaney into a heavyweight battle with Paulino Uzcudun in one of the summer outdoor cards stumbled against the commission ruling that the light heavyweight champion must first dispose of several worthy contenders in his own division. The board named Mike McTigue, Tommy Loughran and Jimmy Slattery as worthy of title matches.

Equally disappointing to Humbert J. Fugazy, Rickard's metropolitan rival, was the board's decision that the match between Honeyboy Finnegan and Red Chapman, crack Boston featherweights, could not be labeled a title affair when the pair square off at the Polo Grounds here June 8.

Fugazy hoped that the winner would receive official recognition as the successor of Louis (Kid) Kaplan, who gave up the 126-pound crown last year because of difficulty making the weight. The commission decided the bout could be advertised only as a "featherweight elimination contest."

Paulino notified the commission through Al Mayer, "chairman of his board of control," that he now was ready to fight Ed Keeley, Bridgeport, Conn., southpaw, in Boston.

While still asserting that he has no contract with Boston promoters naming Keeley as opponent for a match originally set for April 18, the Basque Woodchopper said he took this course to insure the lifting of suspensions meted out to him in Massachusetts and New York when he failed to appear in Boston.

Rickard posted a contract with the commission calling for a return match between Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, and Tiger Flowers, who lost his crown to Walker last year. The document was signed November 4, 1926. The board took no action.

Eastern and Business Nines Play Wednesday

The Eastern-Business Interhigh series baseball game is to be played next Wednesday, by mutual agreement of both teams, in the Eastern Stadium.

The game was scheduled for Friday, but a change of date has been contemplated for some time due to the fact that the interhigh school track meet also comes on Friday.

It was first thought the game would be played tomorrow at Central Stadium if the field was available, but the final decision was that this week was already overcrowded with events. It will be Eastern's last scheduled game. If Eastern wins only their play of the Eastern-Western game would stand before Coach Guyon's team and the title or a tie for the title.

Millwick, Never Headed, Wins Race by 6 Furlongs

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, May 24.—The horse that a thousand touts have touted, the horse that positively could not lose, came ambling home ahead in the fourth race at Belmont Park this afternoon, a winner without a shilling on his nose. Millwick, a 5-year-old steed, the lone, last survivor of a field of thirteen original entrants after twelve scratches, solemnly paraded to the post behind the lead pony, broke ahead of his field, dominated the race all the way down the 6 furlongs of the diagonal straightaway across the infield and won, pulled up. He never was headed.

Millwick's price was nothing to nothing, out and out, and as the pack broke at the snap of the webbing a few cautious speculators of the type of Mr. Chicago O'Brien, who always calculates to bet them "way up the arm," were still endeavoring to place a few brass bets on Millwick to show. That is the way gambling fever gets the boys. New York bookmakers are notoriously conservative. They laid no price on Millwick even to win.

One of the spectators was inclined to find fault with the way Pony McAtee, the boy who rode Whiskery home ahead in the Kentucky Derby, took chances on Millwick in this race, as the favorite seemed to be loafing, and the boy appeared to be merely out for a horseback ride.

The other spectators said it made no difference how a boy rode a horse that couldn't lose, and for a fact McAtee might have ridden side saddle or led his mount home by the tail without any risk of losing the race. It was a very cold and soggy day at Belmont Park.

Of course a one-horse race is something of a jest and there were wise cracks and jokes about the chart after the struggle was over, some claming that Millwick led by no more than a head at the fifth furlong and was never out of danger even alone.

But when Millwick came up to the judges' stand amid the cheers of the spectators he paid his owner just $595, which doubtless is a matter for airy badinage to the Whitneys and the Wideners, but no such thing to a trainer who has to keep a sickle in the barn and cut his own feed along the roadside. They say there are trainers as poor as that.

The horse that can't be beaten is a very rare animal, no question, but not hitherto unknown, for the great old Exterminator won the Saratoga cup alone in 1921, when the rest of the field was scratched, and Man o' War won from himself in New York in his big year.

But the strangest case of all recalled by the horse experts at Belmont today was that of a man named Hedrick, who entered a plater in a race at Saratoga in 1912 in order to be able to make a claim on another horse in the race, and finally saw his plug go it alone, when all the others, including the one he wanted to claim, were scratched.

Robins Rout Phillies, 6-5, by Bunching Hits

Philadelphia, May 24 (By A. P.).—The Brooklyn Robins found Carlson for fourteen hits today and nosed through to a 6 to 5 verdict over Philadelphia in the second game of a series, evening the count. Four of the Brooklyn runs were scored in the fifth when five hits were grouped, including a triple and two doubles. Ehrhardt was sent to the showers in the fifth and was succeeded by Cantrell and Doak, the latter holding the Phillies to one run in the last four innings.

Triple-Play by Reds Futile as Pirates Win

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 24 (By A. P.). Lee Meadows held the Cincinnati Reds to three hits today while his comrades belted Pete Donohue and Lucas for nineteen hits, to make it two straight games by winning, 11 to 1.

The Reds made the first triple play of the National League season today when Dressen took in L. Waner's liner with the bases full, forced Harris and caught Smith before he could get back to second with a throw to Critz.

Japanese Ambassador To See Quantico Game

Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese Ambassador, and fifteen members of his staff will attend the Waseda University-Quantico Marine baseball game at Quantico, Va., tomorrow.

The Japanese College Team, which is making a tour of the country playing games with leading universities, is represented this year by one of its strongest teams, and will probably give the Marine Nine plenty of trouble.

Tigers Solve Uhle, Beat Indians, 6 to 3

Cleveland, May 24 (By A. P.).—Detroit knocked George Uhle out of the box in the fourth inning of today's game and defeated Cleveland, 6 to 3. The game was halted by rain for 25 minutes in the last half of the ninth when Cleveland had two men on base and one out. Stoner was unusually effective until the eighth inning, when a triple and a fumble gave Cleveland two runs.

When Karr replaced Uhle in the fourth Manush greeted him with a home run that scored two men ahead of him.

Altrock Also Pitches; Goslin Hits Homer in Farcical Game.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, May 24.—Walter Johnson returned to the pitcher's mound for the Washington team today for the first time since his leg was broken during the Florida training season and removed doubt that he will be able to take his regular turn on the mound for the Nationals.

In a semifarcical game, in which Washington easily defeatd the Baltimore International League club, 9 to 2, Johnson pitched with his former speed and smoothness. He allowed five hits, one a home run, in five innings, but he struck out two and played the corners of the plate effectively.

Johnson did not appear troubled by his injured leg. He galloped over to first base on one play with all the sprynss that he ever boasted. The veteran did not favor his leg noticeably and Manager Harris was pleased with his performance.

Harris plans to send Johnson against the Yankees in the series which starts in New York Friday. Johnson himself declared that he did not feel handicapped in pitching the six innings today.

Harris used many players in the line-up this afternoon, sending many substitutes into the game after the fifth inning. Even Nick Altrock played first and then pitched to the last two batters. Bob Burke, who relieved Johnson on the mound, took Altrock's place at first base.

Burke, a youngster, who was drafted from the Little Rock Club, performed well on the mound. He has been used

GORDON PLAID, RIDDEN OUT, WINS BELMONT FEATURE

Bookie Saves Second in Bouquet

Sloppy Track Spoils Good Card; Millwick Runs Alone.

BELMONT RACE TRACK, N. Y., May 24 (by A. P.).—Mrs. Geo. Read's Gordon Plain, a 2-year-old brown son of Sporting Blood—Gilt Edge, splashed and floundered over four and one-half furlongs of the Widener course, this afternoon, to be returned a winner by a length and a half from W. R. Coe's Bookie, in the running of the Bouquet, a claiming affair for juveniles carrying $2,000 added.

Driving hard to save third portion of the spoils from the Aknusti Stable's Polls and but a nose in back of Bookie, came C. L. Carroll's Our Adele. The Bouquet netted the winner $4,125.

The Bouquet, originally programmed to serve as the secondary feature of the card, became the piece de resistance of the afternoon's offerings when the Hempstead Highweight handicap was reduced to a walk-over by the withdrawal of all but C. A. Mills' Willwick.

Gordon Plaid was restrained off the early pace by Laverne Fator, but when set down for the final drive through the last sixteenth, the Read color-bearer disposed of Bookie, the early pacemaker, but had to be ridden out.

Sickle Made Favorite As EnglishDerbyNears

London, May 24 (By A. P.).—Lord Derby's Sickle has emerged from the uncertainty of the last few days as the favorite for the derby. Sickle had a slight margin in London betting today over Call Boy, Frank Curzon's big colt, who had been favorite in the winter books. Sickle was backed at 9 to 2 against, whereas Call Boy was at 5 to 1, a shade longer odds. The great Epsom classic will be run on June 1, with about 24 horses at the barrier.

* Field.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—McComas, $7.60, $4.20, $3.60; Dark Angel, $6.00, $4.60; Nichelson, $7.20.

McComas, almost knocked down soon after the start, found his stride slowly, began moving up fast when reaching the stretch, finished with a big rush and was up in the last stride. Dark Angel moved into command soon after the break, displayed good speed to last furlong before tiring. Nichelson was raced very wide and finished fast under hard riding.

SECOND RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,400. For maiden 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 2:34. Off at 2:35. Winner, B. O. Hickman's b. f. (2), by Golden Maxim—Hasty Chick. Trained by D. Lehan. Value to winner, $900; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:23 4-5, 0:49, 1:02 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Myth, $4.00, $2.40, $2.40; Kitty Yansen, $2.80, $2.60; Mollie Dear, $2.80.

Myth, away well, closely attended the leader in first quarter and began drawing away when nearing stretch, but tired in final furlong and was lucky to win. Kitty Yansen, away fast and showing most speed around first turn, came with good speed in stretch, but swerved repeatedly and, but for this, probably would have won. Mollie Dear closed with a rush when hard ridden in stretch.

THIRD RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,400. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 3:05. Off at 3:06. Winner, Mrs. L. Burg's br. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—Stintson, $4.80, $2.80, $2.60; Sincerely, $4.20, $3.40; Ethel Galliger, $4.20.

Stintson, restrained off the pace for first half mile, suffered light interference from Sincerely when moving up in stretch, but recovered quickly and, finishing gamely, drew away slowly under vigorous riding in last seventy yards. Sincerely, in closest pursuit of early pace, swerved out when reaching stretch and held on gamely to end. Ethel Galliger, hustled into lead in first quarter, saved much ground to stretch, where she also bore out and began tiring in last furlong.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 3:36. Off at 3:37. Winner, Mrs. K. Ramsey's ch. g. (4), by Omar Khayyam—Tea Biscuit. Trained by L. A. Connor. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $230; third, $120. Time, 0:25, 0:50 1-5, 1:16, 1:43, 1:57.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Nabisco, $18.00, $4.20, $3.00; Fretwell, $2.60, $2.20; Hilary, $2.80.

Nabisco disposed of Watchful without effort in first five furlongs, drew into a short lead at stretch and, under strong handling, gamely outstayed Fretwell. Latter was taken back, leaving backstretch, but came through on inside at stretch turn, got to front inside last furlong, but began to falter in last few strides. Hilary came from far back with a rush, but could not get to leaders.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,400. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily. Place driving. Went to post at 4:07. Off at 4:11. Winner, Greenbriar Stable's b. f. (4), by Golden Broom—Summer Breeze. Trained by B. S. Mitchell. Value to winner, $1,100; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:23 4-5, 0:47 4-5, 1:13 1-5, 1:26 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Southwind, $7.40, $3.20, $2.60; Huntsman, $2.80, $2.20; Fire On, $2.60.

Southwind, easily best and given a well judged ride, was restrained in first five furlongs, but came around leader with a rush in stretch and drew away without need of pressure. Huntsman, hard hustled in first quarter, drew into a short lead in next furlong, but began tiring when entering the stretch and had no excuse. Fire On moved up menacingly when leaving backstretch, but could not get to leaders and was beginning to tire.

SIXTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,300. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily. Place driving. Went to post at 4:36. Off at 4:37. Winner, Hal Price Headley's b. c. (2), by Brown Prince II—Hello. Trained by W. W. Taylor. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:23 4-5, 0:48 1-5, 1:02.

Two-dollar mutuel paid—Beaumont, $24.40, $8.40, $4.80; Bun, $7.40, $4.20; Fire Proof, $5.40.

Beaumont displayed good speed from start, drew into lead on turns, but began tiring in stretch and was punished and lightly ridden out. Bun closed with a big rush on outside and was rapidly getting to the winner at finish. Fire Proof finished gamely after coming from far back with a belated rush.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,500. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won easily. Place driving. Went to post at 5:08. Off at 5:13. Winner, M. Lowenstein's b. h. COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT E. COLLYER

GATHER closer.

Over at Woodbine—Toronto—the weisenheimers have arranged a melon dish which should tickle the palate of the most fastidious—wotinell that is. I refer to the stellar attraction, fourth on the card, in which the Griffith pair—CANTER and SINGLE FOOT—are named and on which Fairbrother came on from New York to ride the nominee.

Then we have old boy "Doc's" three XXX special—DISPLAY—to cop the same race, while I might also add that a lot of wise kale made its overnight appearance on GAFFSMAN—from the wily Seagram stable.

Now these people are quite a bit better than green hands. The "dark horse" is HARRY BAKER. Now you have the answer to all this gab in your lily white mitt.

Personally I think PANDORA is the best outstanding choice of the day—over here. She goes in the sixth. The Nevada Stock Farm has a double-riveted cinch on the long end of the purse in the third. Also, for your further information, the books here are loaded to the guards. Ye-wekkum.

Down at Churchill Downs, where all hands are holding tight to the grandstands—for fear the hard boots will take that, too—the lads slip me MIDNIGHT ROSE as the real persimmon. Personally, I like the mare extra well, and, barring accidents, believe she should win. She has shown well-balanced work of late and the weight will not bother her. ERIC is another that received a heavy overnight play. This latter is liable to be a top-heavy favorite.

But it is of JOCK that I would a word with thee. This trick should have brought home the bacon in the derby—and probably would have with a more intelligent rider. If he don't win here—well, there are officials to do that, too. About ten "good things" go in the opening dash. You find the pea and I'll string along.

War Whites Triumph Over Reds at Polo, 9-3

Although winning by a 9-to-3 score, the War Whites experienced difficulty in defeating the War Reds yesterday on the Potomac Park polo oval. At the start of the seventh chukker the Whites were leading, 6 to 3, but at this juncture Col. Margetts and Maj. Woodward retired and the victors tallied three goals.

Capt. Wipprecht was up for the second time in a month and appeared to have regained his old-time form. Three goals came from the accurate mallet of the Whites' No. 3 man. Maj. Parker continued his sensational play.

Whites.	Position	Reds.
Maj. Walsh	1	Maj. Woodward
Maj. Parker	2	Gen. Parker
Capt. Wipprecht	3	Capt. Houghton
Col. Morris	Back	Col. Margetts

Score by chukkers—

Reds	0	2	0	0	0	1	0—3

Finals Listed Today In Belle Haven Golf

Alexandria, Va., May 24.—Miss Roberta Schneider and Mrs. Louis S. Scott, the finalists in the women's spring tournament at the Belle Haven Country Club, will play for the trophy put up in competition by Mrs. David J. Howell, tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock on the Belle Haven links.

CHOICES WIN IN FRENCH TENNIS

Tilden, Hunter Among Favorites to Score at St. Cloud.

ST. CLOUD, France, May 24 (By A. P.).—Every player recognized as a possible semifinalist in the international hard court championships today remained in play at the close of the first day's competition.

William T. Tilden and Francis Hunter, officially representing the United States; Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, standard bearers of the French tricolor, all advanced easily. Both Americans gained places in the third drawing with a victory and default each.

Tilden, the "Big Bill" of American courts, began his drive for the championship with an easy victory over Senor Andreu, of Spain, 6—2, 6—0. His teammate, Hunter, raced through three easy sets to down Alphonse Persin, ranked at No. 15 on the French list, 6—4, 6—3, 6—2.

Rene Lacoste and Jean Borotra did not play in the singles today. Tilden heads one-half of the draw and Lacoste the other, in which Hunter is seeded.

Sydney B. Wood, youthful American junior, provided the thrill of the day with victory over Pierre Barrelet Dericou after a bitter five-set match. Wood dropped the first two sets before outgaming the French youngster to win 0—6, 6—8, 6—2, 6—3, 6—4.

sent Luney and Buscher scooting over the plate. Western players popped up for easy outs the rest of the game.

In the fifth inning, with the bases again full and two out, Young got out of a tight place when Stevens, of Western, who had stolen third, made a break for home on an attempted squeeze play with Luney at bat, but was tagged out on a beautiful play by Sorrell, Tech catcher.

G. U. ENTERS TEN ATHLETES IN INTERCOLLEGIATES

Hope for Title At Hilltop Is Dim

Dowding, Swinburne Chief Dependables in Meet Friday.

TEN athletes will carry Georgetown's hopes Friday and Saturday in the annual intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track and field meet at Franklin Field, Philadelphia.

Although Coach John O'Reilly entertains no hope of his athletes winning first place in the meet, a number of good performances should be turned in by the Hilltop tracksters in an effort to stop the Pacific coast stampede, which threatens to make a rout of the meet.

Bill Dowding is the only defending champion on the squad of ten, by reason of his winning the broad jump last year. He is off form slightly, however, and is not expected to repeat. Capt. Jimmy Burgess, who ran second to Cooke, the great colored flier, at Cambridge last year, is expected to be well up among the leaders.

Swinburne, the half-miler, who runs no faster than he has to to win, but is capable of rising to stellar heights, is expected to give Waters, of Harvard, and McCloskey, of Boston College, a stiff competition.

The balance of the team will be composed of Ray Whelan, dashes; Joe Kaiser, mile; Creth Hines and Tip Maroney, javelin; Dave Adelman and Weldon Monson, shot, and Fred Wiesner, pole vault.

Hines and Adleman are accorded good chances by their performances in the dual meets with Army and Navy, which acted as seasoners for the squad. Hines' arm has been sore, however, and he is not at his best form.

Pauley Allows 2 Hits As Marines Beat Gobs

Pauley, pitching for the Marine Barracks, yesterday set the Naval Hospital nine down with two hits, the Marines winning, 4-0, in a brilliantly played game. Parsons turned in a creditable mound performance for the Sailors.

Griffin led the batters with a double, triple and single in four trips to the plate. Allen accounted for a triple and a single. Two Marine double plays were factors in the shutout.

Leonard Hall Beaten By Georgetown Prep

The game was marked by heavy hitting on both sides, McNamara, of Georgetown, and N. Sterling and Phillips, of Leonard Hall, each getting homers. Cafiero, Waterworth and McCann, all of Georgetown Prep, hit for three bases. Feeley and Dwyer also hit hard for the winners. Cafiero starred in left field with some good catches.

HYATTSVILLE SEEKS GAMES.

The Hyattsville baseball team would like to arrange games with strong unlimited nines for Sunday and Monday. Call Manager Lantham at Hyattsville 8-7 F8 between 6 and 7 o'clock.

The Sportswoman

ANOTHER schlagball champion was crowned yesterday in the elementary school series when Park View captured the trophy for the third consecutive year, gaining permanent possession of the shield.

The Park View Team is entered in the Columbia Heights division and, after winning all matches in its own section, defeated E. V. Brown, Section 2 victor, yesterday on the Happy Hollow Playground by the score of 9-7. The winners took the lead in the second inning, 4-2, and did not let their opponents equal them in points throughout the game. With the score 8-3 at the beginning of the final session, the E. V. Brown girls did some heavy batting and brough in four runs, but the Park View fielders displayed fine teamwork and kept them from tying the score.

WEBSTER MEET COMPLETED.

The Marjory Webster School has completed its track and field activities between the senior and junior classes, with the juniors capturing the running high jump, the standing broad jump and the javelin throw, and the seniors winning the baseball throw and dashes.

Proficiency in marching, Swedish gymnastics and folk dancing earned the senior class a victory over the juniors, 56 to 44, in the indoor meet at the school yesterday. The junior class garnered its points principally in heavy apparatus work.

Josephine Wisner, a junior, was high point winner, for which she was awarded a silver loving cup and her school letter. Helen Ackerman, of the senior class, was awarded a sweater for having totaled twelve stars in her two years of athletics.

The seniors defeated the juniors in two volleyball games, the first, 21 to 13, and the second, 21 to 16.

VAN NESS SCHOOL WINS.

Van Ness School won the first game yesterday in the triple tie play-off in the Garfield section of the schlagball series, by defeating Dent, 21 to 12. The winning team will compete against the girls from the Smallwood-Bowen on Thursday, for the division championship.

Van Ness has held the cup for the past two years and with several of the 1926 players in this season's line-up the school is favored to win. Smallwood-Bowen, however, has a sturdy team with some fast runners and heavy batters on it.

The Dent combination was weakened yesterday by the absence of four of its strongest fielders and it was through errors on the part of the teams center and backs that Van Ness was able to pile up so many points.

Maryland Girls Elect.

The Women's Athletic Association of the University of Maryland will have new officers to lead it next year. Miss Constance Church has been elected president to take the place of Miss Elizabeth Taylor; Elizabeth Corkins will be vice president; Catherine Barnaley, secretary, and Alma Essex, treasurer.

The coeds of this university are entering sports more each season and it is the hope of the association to build up a major year-round athletic program for all women students.

Two Scholastic Games On Today's Program

Only two scholastic baseball games will be played today.

Gonzaga is slated to meet Devitt on the Monument Lot and St. John's will play Catholic University Freshmen.

The Western-St. Alban's tennis match which was postponed some time ago may be played today.

JOHNSON SHOWS FORM IN EXHIBITION GAME

in several games as a relief pitcher and it is said that Bucky Harris may start him in one of the league games. Burke fanned four in two and two-thirds innings and allowed one hit.

Altrock did many funny stunts on the field and converted the game into a farce at some stages. Al Schacht, in the ninth, came out in a Baltimore uniform and batted for Everett Scott, at which time Altrock took up the pitching duties.

Goose Goslin hit a home run in the third inning off Cliff Jackson with two men on base. Jackson twirled the entire game for the Baltimoreans and was banged for 17 safeties.

The Nats left here on the 5:40 train for New York. Tomorrow at Jersey City they play Jersey City International League Club in an exhibition game with an off day on Thursday before meeting the Yankees on Friday.

LONE U. S. GOLFER IN BRITISH TOURNEY

Young and old trailed John Ball to see the old master's farewell appearance for it was only because the championship was played on his old home course that he entered.

Followed by his venerable caddie, a gnarled figure like the trees that bend and grow close to the ground in windswept Hoylake, Ball, trim and spare, recalled memories of another golfing generation—before the game was hardly heard of in America.

It was not distance that beat him, as might be expected, but inability to hole shortish putts. Five times during the first seven holes he ran chip shots to within a club-length of the hole, playing these with all the deadliness of Bobby Jones, only to miss putts which seemed easy even for a man of his years. Handling his famous cleek and other irons, Ball seemed as great as ever. He played only three loose shots the whole round.

SEEK GAMES TODAY.

The Moose Seniors have the use of the Fifth and L streets southeast field today and want a game for 5 o'clock. Phone Manager Nally at Lincoln 6924, if interested.

SUNDAY GAME SOUGHT.

The Mount Rainier team wants to arrange a game for Sunday afternoon. Telephone Hyattsville 379-M. The Mount Rainier team will practice tomorrow afternoon.

GRAY EAGLES SCORE.

The Gray Eagle Midgets defeated the Red Eagles yesterday, 8 to 0, in the third and deciding game of their three-game series.

SERIES NINES IN MEETING TONIGHT.

Insects and Midgets Called; 2 Other Gatherings.

THE final touches will be put on the organization of the various Capital City League series in meetings this week. Tonight the insects and midget clubs will gather at The Post sports department for their final meeting before their division gets under way.

The unlimiteds will hold the center of the stage tomorrow night, while Friday night will bring the juniors and seniors together. Meetings each of the three nights are scheduled for 8 o'clock.

Friday at 10 p. m is the deadline for posting the franchise fee of $20 for the unlimited championship series. It is important that every club which contemplates entering the race have its manager or representative present.

In the meetings of the younger classes contracts will be given out and final instructions for the titular series outlined.

Devitt Netmen Bow To G. U. Freshmen, 5-1

Summaries:

Singles—Mesmer (G.), defeated French (D.), 6—1, 6—0; Callan (G.), defeated Bakshian (D.), 6—4, 6—2; Degman (G.), defeated Maxwell (D.), 6—1, 6—1; De Veau (D.), defeated Mulvehill (G.), 6—2, 6—1.

894 GOLFERS IN NATIONAL OPEN

Sweetser Lone Ranking Player Missing; Trials Start Soon.

NEW YORK, May 24 (By A. P.).—A field of 894 starters, the largest that ever competed for golf honors anywhere, was announced today by the United States Golf Association for the sectional qualifying rounds of the national open championship at Oakmont, near Pittsburgh, June 14 to 16. This is an increase of 200 over the entries last year.

Pairings and allotment of representatives from the seventeen districts are to be announced later. The sectional qualifying rounds will be held June 6. The number of contestants from the various districts has not yet been tabulated.

Every ranking professional, as well as most of the amateur stars in the United States, with the exception of Jess Sweetser, has filed entry papers. The amateur contingent, headed by Bobby Jones, the defending open champion, and George Von Elm, the national titleholder, is the largest on record.

Al Watrous, runner-up to Jones in the British open championship last year, will be permitted to enter the sectional qualifying rounds at Detroit, it developed today, despite an irregularity in handling the score he made in last year's national open championship at Columbus. It was inadvertently announced yesterday that Watrous was ruled out on a technicality.

Johnny Golden Paterson, New Jersey star, was advised by the United States Golf Association he must qualify in the sectional trials although he has been picked for the American Ryder Cup team. Golden was under the impression that this selection freed him from the preliminary test. Members of the British Ryder Cup team are exempt from the qualifying tests.

Tech Team Favored to Win School Track Title Friday

By MIKE KELLEY,
Central High School Coach.

INTERSCHOLASTIC track activity in the local public high schools, will be brought to a close on Friday with the running of the annual interhigh meet and this marks the end of a season that has been devoid of seasoned performers and outstanding performances on the part of the two schools who usually shine in track circles, Tech and Central.

Squads at these two institutions were distinctly below par this season, especially since the outdoor campaign began and were forced to yield the spotlight to a newcomer, Eastern, whose work on the cinder paths of late might be said to be the redeeming feature of the year, bringing as it does, the promise of added competition to the ranks of Central and Tech, which competition is welcomed by scholastic track enthusiasts.

But despite the fact that Eastern has done fine work in the past meets, one can not consider the squad capable of upsetting Central or Tech on Friday. Lack of strength in the field events will prove to be too much of a handicap to Rath's men but the team should put forth the best performance of any Eastern squad in years.

Looking over the capabilities of the old rivals, Tech and Central, the writer is forced to the conclusion that this meet will be a bitterly contested one with the issue in doubt probably up to the last event of the day, the 1-mile relay in which Tech usually cops five points by always entering a team.

Central's chances of winning the meet handily were very rosy at the beginning of the season, but ill health has considerably lessened the team's prospects. Noyes, the leading hurdler, and Keller, the best sprinter, have been lost to the squad. Keller, however, may take part in the meet on Friday, but will have a task on his hands to beat Talbert, of Eastern, in the 100-yard dash in his present condition.

Tech has lost many point getters from last year's team, but remains strong enough to cop the title again, and seems helped by the fact that Eastern will cut in on events that Central must cop to stay out in front.

The fact that neither squad is up to the standard makes this meet all the more interesting, and with the performers going into the events with a chance to win, some stirring competition seems assured.

This will be the final opportunity for Central's veterans to stop Tech's three-year sway in track, but as the writer sees it, it's not going to be an easy task. The issue seems to be too much in doubt to pick one or the other, and past meets can not be brought into the figuring, for conditions will be vastly different in this coming meet, with but three entries in each event and plenty of room for real running.

Eliminations Start For Army Net Team

Competition among tennis players of the regular Army, to choose a team to represent the Washington district in the national Army tennis tournament, began yesterday at the Monument Grounds courts.

The national Army championships will be held in Washington, June 6 to 11, for the Sheridan trophy.

Lieut. Studler and Lieut. Young were victors in feature matches yesterday, both men displaying an excellent brand of tennis. The former defeated Capt. Holmes, 6—2, 6—1, while Lieut. Young defeated Maj. Armstrong, 6—3, 6—2.

Lieut. Young defeated Maj. Armstrong, 6—3, 6—2; Lieut. Studler defeated Capt. Holmes, 6—2, 6—1; Maj. Irvine defeated Capt. Haines, 6—2, 6—2; Maj. Park defeated Capt. Wagner, 6—1, 7—5; Maj. Sherrer won from Capt. Stafford, by default.

CHEVY CHASE TO MEET.

The Chevy Chase baseball team will hold a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at Wilson's barber shop. All players are requested to report.

C. U. and Gallaudet Stage Meet Today

Athletic activities for the school year at Gallaudet and Catholic University will be concluded today at Catholic University stadium, when the Kendall Green and Cardinal track teams clash in a dual meet.

Bill Supplee, former star athlete of Maryland, finishes his first year as coach of the Gallaudet trackmen with this meet, and though Gallaudet has tasted defeat in every contest, the season is regarded as a successful one. Green material was all Coach Supplee has had to work with, but he made a sound beginning for future successful seasons.

ELLIOTTS TO MEET.

The Elliott A. C. will hold an important meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the home of Manager Honey, 1235 Morse street northeast. The Elliotts are looking for a game for Sunday with some strong unlimited team. Phone Lincoln 5233

NEW SEMIPRO LOOP OPENS SUNDAY

WASHINGTON has drawn one of the three baseball games which will mark the debut on Sunday of the newly organized Intercity Semipro League, composed of leading teams from Baltimore, Annapolis and Washington.

The Georgetown Athletic Club, which won the District unlimited title last year as the Knickerbockers, will entertain the Hampsted Club, of Baltimore, on the Georgetown Hollow field at 3 o'clock.

The Shamrocks, another Washington entry and long champions or contenders hereabouts, are slated to open with the Bethlehem Steel nine, of Baltimore, on the latter's field at Sparrows Point.

The two Annapolis teams, Reina Mercedes and Eastport, will clash in the other game on the Eastport diamond.

The original schedule called for the playing of the Georgetown-Hampsted game on the Baltimoreans' field, which, it was later found, would not be available for this Sunday.

Other games in Washington, while the Nationals are on the road, will be played at American League Park. The Intercity League has taken over the contract for the park held by the Washington All-Stars, who have disbanded.

VIRGINIA NINE BLANKED BY GONZAGA

Alexandria Executes Triple Play; Farrell Gives 5 Hits.

THE Gonzaga nine defeated the Alexandria High School team, 6 to 0, yesterday in a return game on the Georgetown University diamond. Gonzaga won the first game by a decisive score.

Young Albert Farrell, on the mound for Gonzaga, pitched an impressive game, allowing only five scattered hits and issuing but one base on balls. Riley also turned in a creditable performance, but became unsteady in the latter innings.

A triple play, engineered by the visitors in the fifth inning, was the fielding feature of the game. With Bozek and Fitzgerald on first and second bases, Dennis speared Nolan's line drive, touched second and relayed the ball to first to retire the side.

They don't come any better

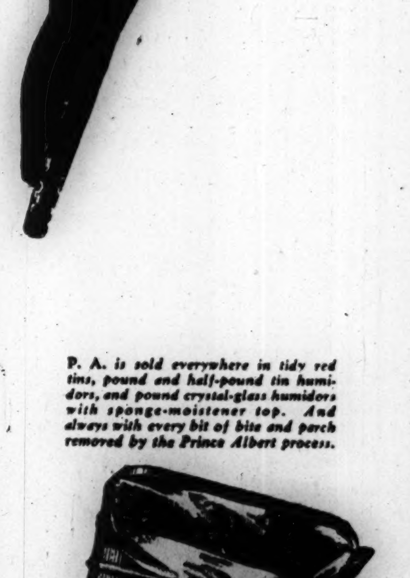

I DIDN'T know it, but Prince Albert was just the tobacco I had been looking for all the time. I hate to think of the time we lost getting together. But let that go. We're all set now—me and the pipe and P.A. We've been pals from the very first puff.

I had a hunch I was going to like P.A. the minute I got that breath of Nature's noblest gift to pipe-smokers. What a treat! It made me think of a hike through the woods, when the trees and the vines are in full leaf. I found the taste "as advertised" by the aroma.

Cool as a customs-inspector. Sweet as the thought you have nothing to hide. Mild as a milk-shake, yet with that full-bodied flavor that satisfies your smoke-taste right down to the ground. That's Prince Albert, Fellows. They don't come any better.

No matter how set you appear to be on a smoke-program, try P.A. I give you my word, no other tobacco that ever came down the pike ever brought so much downright satisfaction out of a pipe. "That fellow knew his groceries." you'll say, or words to that effect.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

PRINCE ALBERT

MEMORIAL TO HERBERT ON WRC RADIO TONIGHT

Sousa and Whiteman to Contribute to Program; Hawaiians to Play.

FISK SINGERS OVER WJZ

As a grand finale to the many Victor Herbert programs presented by broadcast stations all over the country during the last week a memorial concert will be held tonight at 9 o'clock through WRC and a hook-up of the red network from WEAF. The program is the second of its kind to go on the air and is the third annual tribute of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers on the anniversary of his death. Gene Buck, president of the society, will preside before the microphone. He and Augustus Thomas, the playwright, are scheduled to give brief addresses concerning the life and works of Victor Herbert.

The list of artists and musical organizations which will participate in the tribute comprise many of the most renowned of the present day. Among these are John Philip Sousa, "The March King," "Roxy," Paul Whiteman, maestro of jazz the Atwater Kent Orchestra, Orville Harrold, Jerome Kern, Silvio Hein and many others.

The last program of the Hilo Hawaiians at 6:30 o'clock will be made a gala occasion, bringing before the microphone an augmented Hawaiian ensemble, whose members will render many of the most popular selections of their former weekly programs.

The comic opera, "Ruddigore," by Gilbert and Sullivan, will be presented in tabloid form by the National Light Opera Company at 7 o'clock. The Troubadours will be on hand for another half-hour program at 8 o'clock.

There will be a special three-hour program from WEAF from 3 to 6 o'clock this afternoon which will include Laura Coombs, soprano, and Veronica Wiggins, contralto; children's songs by Dorothy Barker, manners and modes by Mrs. J. A. King and the Hofbrau and Waldorf-Astoria Orchestras.

Other features tonight will be the Perfect Diamond Entertainers, "What's in Center Market," by Anita Hawkins, an eight-minute talk by David Lawrence, George F. Ross, pianist; "Shopping with Bab," and a talk on "Museums," by Chauncey J. Hamlin, president of the American Association of Museums.

The Fisk Jubilee Singers will give their first concert since their return from Europe, where they appeared by command before the King and Queen of Italy, Premier Mussolini, the King and Queen of Spain, the Queen of Greece and other world figures, from WJZ, at 8 o'clock, during the Maxwell Hour.

The old negro spirituals, which the Fisk Singers have helped to make famous, will form a large part of the program. The wistful beauty of such songs as "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" and "Deep River" is given perfect interpretation by these artists. WBAL and KDKA are in the hookup, and the programs might be more easily picked up by Washington fans through these stations.

Maurice J. Gunsky, tenor, and a member of the studio staff of KPO, San Francisco, will be heard from WGY, Schenectady, tonight. Mr. Gunsky is well known to the radio audiences of the Pacific Coast, but his Eastern admirers are limited to those who have heard the records made for a well known phonograph company. Radio is given full credit for having won him recognition.

WABC is playing Joe Cook, the famous Broadway comedian, doubles or quits. For years Joe has been telling about his "Three Hawaiians," but at 8:30 o'clock tonight WABC will present "The Six Hawaiians," in all their mid-Pacific splendor. "The Clod," a Civil War play by Lewis Beach, will be presented at 8 o'clock from this station. This play has been played in big time vaudeville and has also been used as a curtain raiser by many dramatic companies with great success.

Those interested in the question of censorship which seems to be popping up from every quarter will be interested on a debate, "Resolved That the Welfare of the Community Demands the Effective Legal Regulation of Books, the Stage, and the Screen," between Cannon Chase and Arthur Garfield Hays. Canon Chase will uphold the affirmative side, and Mr. Hays the negative.

Ernest Ball, famous ballad composer, left the world on the wings of his own songs. At the moment when New York church bells were tolling a dirge for the passing of the well-loved song writer, KOA at Denver was broadcasting a special program of Ernest Ball's works, and thousands over the country were listening to the lyric freshness of "Mother Machree," "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," and "West of the Great Divide."

Station KFI at Los Angeles reports that it was in the hands of the law on its frolic last Saturday night. Many of the artists and guests were startled to see no less than 50 husky motorcycle officers swagger in en masse. The gentlemen of the law had been invited and had attended solely to entertain and to be entertained. The stunt was evidently highly satisfactory to all concerned as they have been invited again for a bigger and better frolic.

RUPTURE EXPERTS COMING

Demonstrate the Famous Rice Method Free to Callers at Hotel

If you are ruptured, your big opportunity has now arrived. If you want to be free from the slavery of gouging, chafing trusses that make life a burden and misery, then HERE and NOW is the time to act.

The Rice experts, trained under the personal direction of W. S. Rice, of Adams, N. Y., originator of the famous Rice (Non-Surgical) Rupture Method, will be at National Hotel, Washington, D. C., Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 25, 26, 27 and 28, to give free demonstration and trial of his safe and painless Method to every man, woman and child who is ruptured.

You have, no doubt, heard and read much about this famous Rice Rupture Method and the wonderful cures which thousands have reported from it. Now, you have the chance to find out all about it—to have it personally applied to your own rupture and learn just what it can and will do in YOUR OWN case. Just call at the hotel and these Experts will give you their personal attention, best advice and complete demonstration entirely free.

Are you tired of that binding, hampering, uncomfortable old truss? Would you like to be done with truss wearing forever? Then investigate the Rice Method and learn the wonderful opportunity for help and cure it offers. Remember it is different from everything else and is accomplishing wonderful results where all other treatments, and even operations have failed. It is modern, up-to-the-minute, abreast of the latest scientific developments. It is the one Rupture Method you are not asked to take on faith alone—the one Method that is positively demonstrated to you right on your own rupture, without any charge whatever.

Don't let this great opportunity get away from you. Your call on the Rice Experts is sure to prove one of the best things you ever did. They will be here only four days then your opportunity will be gone. Remember, you do not spend a penny unless, after having a complete demonstration, you decide this is the Method for you, and you—you alone—are the sole judge of that.

Call any time from 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5 p. m., or 7 to 9 evenings. Simply ask at the hotel for the Rice Experts and they will do the rest. Lady Expert attends all lady callers. Don't miss seeing these Rice Experts.

If for any reason you cannot call, write for FREE TRIAL to Wm. S. Rice, Inc., Bx. 127, Adams, N. Y.

BANK SHARES INCREASE 76 POINTS ON EXCHANGE

FREIGHT LOADINGS HIGH

By F. W. PATTERSON.

An improvement in volume of turnover marked yesterday's session of the Washington Stock Exchange, with prices either firm or fractionally better.

While the transaction involved but two shares, Bank of Commerce & Savings was the star performer of the day with a jump of 76 points to 326 on the turnover. Shares in this institution are very closely held and rarely come out for trading on the exchange, the last sale having been made many months ago at 250, while asked has hovered arounde 325. The only other financial institution whose shares were dealt in was Continental Trust Co., and a block of 50 shares changed hands at the prevailing level of 112.

Trading in the local utilities was limited to Capital Traction shares which sold in four lots at 104⅞; Washington Gas Light moving at 75, and Washington Railway & Electric preferred which sold to the extent of 50 shares a ¼ point up at 91¾. National Mortgage & Investment preferred was the only stock from the miscellaneous list in which sales were recorded and coming out at a fractional gain of 8¼, advanced to 8½ on closing transactions.

Bond trading was lighter than on Monday. Barber & Ross, Inc., 6½s were a half-point easier to sell at 97; Washington Railway 4s sold at 85½, while Potomac Electric consolidated 5s moved at 101½. Capital Traction 5s changed hands at 101½; Washington Gas Light 5s at 101½, the 6s of series "A," at 103½ and the series "B" at 104½, while Georgetown Gas Light 5s moved at 101½.

Train for Top Contest.

With the date for the annual convention of the District Bankers Association approximately three weeks off, many Washington bank officers are reported as having gone into serious training with a view to wresting from Howard Moran, vice president of the American Security & Trust Co., his proud title of champion top spinner of the District Bankers Association. This event has been won twice by Mr. Moran, whose name appears on the silver cup made available to the association by E. B. McLean, a director of the American Security & Trust Co., and known to bankers as the Edward Beale McLean Trophy.

With two legs already on the cup, it is the ambition of its present holder to win it again in June, which would give him permanent possession of the trophy. It was learned from reliable authority yesterday that the present top-spinning champion is in the "pink of condition" and confident of his ability to once again so control the "hummer" as to even surpass his previous records. That the champion is likely to run into some stiff competition seems certain from the enthusiastic predictions of many of this year's aspirants.

The top-spinning contest will be the first athletic event on the convention program and will be run off June 9 immediately after luncheon, according to announcement by C. H. Pope, vice president of the Munsey Trust Co., and chairman of the sports committee.

Freight Tops 1,000,000 Cars.

For the sixth week this year revenue freight loading again exceeded 1,000,000 cars for the week ended May 14, according to a report yesterday by the American Railway Association. Total loading of revenue freight for the week amounted to 1,029,126 cars, a decrease of 622 cars under the corresponding week last year, but an increase of 43,247 cars over the corresponding week two years ago.

All districts except the Eastern, Allegheny, Central Western and Southwestern reported increases in the total loading of all commodities compared with the corresponding week in 1926.

	1927.	1926.
Five weeks in January..	4,524,749	4,428,256
Four weeks in February.	3,823,931	3,677,332

Rail Plan Rumored Ready.

Local investment bankers were keenly interested yesterday in the persistent rumors from Baltimore that the plan of the new controlling interests of the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railroad is ready and will be announced shortly. When the plan is ready it will be submitted to the Public Utility Commission of Maryland for approval.

Details of the plan are carefully guarded, but it is the opinion of bankers that the property will be taken over by a holding company, all of the stock of which will be owned by the Consolidated Gas Electric Light & Power Co. Eventually, it is said, it is the intention of the Consolidated Gas to sell the railroad division to one of the several companies reported to be angling for it, and to retain the power division. How the funded debt of the electric railroad and its stock issues are to be handled is yet to be disclosed.

Bank Branch Authorized.

The establishment of a branch office of the American National Bank of Richmond, Va., in that city, has been authorized by J. W. McIntosh, Comptroller of Currency, under the provisions of the act of February 25, 1927.

Bond Redemption Called.

Dillon, Read & Co., as sinking fund agent for Siemen & Halske, A. G., and Siemens-Schuckertwercke, G. m. b. H., announces that $135,000 principal amount of the outstanding ten-year 7 per cent sinking fund gold bonds of the corporations, due January 1, 1935, have been called for redemption on July 1 at 102 and accrued interest. Interest on bonds called for redemption will cease July 1.

Intertype Issue Offered.

E. A. Pierce & Co. is offering a new issue of $1,000,000 Intertype Corporation fifteen-year 5½ debentures, dated June 1, 1927, and due June 1, 1942. The debentures are priced at 99½ and interest. The corporation's current assets as of December 31, 1926, were $6,793,204, and its current liabilities $786,065.89, which includes reserves for taxes and other expenses of $578,204.60, or a ratio of over 8 to 1. Net current assets of $6,007,138.11 are equivalent to over $6,000 per $1,000 debenture to be outstanding.

Security Dance Tonight.

The Security Club of the American Security & Trust Co. will give a spring dance and card party tonight at the Manor Country Club at 8:45 o'clock. The Manor Club is in Montgomery County, Maryland, just beyond Silver Spring.

Rail Purchases Gain.

Purchase of fuel, materials and supplies by the railroads of this country in 1926 amounted to $1,559,032,331, W. G. Besler, chairman of the board of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, yesterday told the annual convention of the purchases and stores division of the American Railway Association at Chicago.

"The total of $1,559,032,331 in the amount of fuel, materials and supplies purchased by the railroads last year was an increase of $166,989,000 compared with the total purchases of 1925, and an increase of $215,977,000 compared with 1924," said Mr. Besler. Among some of the expenditures mentioned were purchases of steel rails which amounted to 2,503,991 gross tons at a cost of $111,000,000. This is the greatest amount of steel rails that has been purchased by the railroads in any recent year. Another expenditure which greatly increased in 1926 was the purchase of crossties, the total reaching 93,759,913 at a cost of $101,000,000 and an increase of approximately 6,000,000 crossties compared with 1925.

Forum Luncheon Today.

The weekly forum luncheon of the District Bankers Association will be held today at the Willard Hotel. While the discussions at these meetings are informal, it is understood that Howard Moran, president of the association, will have several interesting announcements to make concerning the annual convention at Hot Springs, Va.

ORATORIO OF "HIAWATHA" PRESENTED BY NEGROES

150 SING AND 40 PLAY

To keep alive the memory of the English negro composer, S. Coleridge Taylor, the choral society of 150 voices which bears his name, and the Washington Civic Orchestra of 40 pieces last night at the Metropolitan African Methodist Episcopal Church gave the oratorio "Hiawatha," Indian legend by Longfellow, set to music in form of a trilogy. The society was greeted by an audience of 1,200 music lovers.

"Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," first section of the composition, was directed by Wesley I. Howard, who trained the civic orchstra. Precision of attack, a marked improvement over the work of the society two decades ago, was attributed to a "crisp" use of the baton which won the leader an ovation. The chorus first scored in its rendition of the dance of "Pau-Puk-Keewis," its full volume being heard to best advantage here and its rare choric beauty being displayed in the introduction of "Chibiabos" immediately following.

Roswell Brown, of Philadelphia, first heard in the solo for tenor, "Onaway, Awake, Beloved," displayed a voice of unusual sweetness and power, of a quality very similar to that of Sidney Woodward, who sang the part in 1907 when the choral society made its presentation of the London composer.

The second section of the trilogy, "The Death of Minnehaha," was reacted by A. H. Johnson, director of music in divisions 10 to 13, of public schools, who trained the chorus. It stood out in marked contrast to the swift movement and airiness of the first, displaying delicate shadings in expression of morbid emotions, the pathos and beauty of which were readily attributable to the author, composer, orchestra and singers alike.

The soprano soloist, Jessie A. Zackery, of New York, in voice whose lyric tonal quality expressed the depths of dramatic intensity in the death song of Minnehaha, left little to be desired in her brilliant rendition of the song, "Spring Had Come in All Its Splendor," in the final section. She was compelled to respond to prolonged applause.

Frank Harrison, barytone, of New York, who sang without the score, was most effective in the solo, "True Is All Iagoo Tells Us." The peak of the choral work was done in the rendition of "By the Shores of Gitchee Gumee."

The oratorio was presented under direction of the board of managers of the choral society: James T. Beason, Blennie Bruce, R. J. Daniels, Alice N. Williams, Judge J. A. Cobb, Dr. A. V. Gray-Hillyer, Dr. Emmett J. Scott, Garnet C. Wilkinson, James Cowan, George T. Beason, Dr. M. O. Dumas, Jesse Madden, Marie James, the Rev. A. A. Lott and Benjamin Washington.

ENGLAND READY TO BREAK RELATIONS WITH SOVIETS

Describing how the missing document from the British war office had been photographed and sent to Moscow, Mr. Baldwin told of the police invasion of a photostat office in Soviet House which answered exactly to descriptions previously given to the police and which was occupied by a senior clerk, Anton Miller, known to be connected with the activities of the secret agents. This room occupied by Miller adjoined the private office of M. Khinchuk, head of the trade delegation. When the office was entered, Miller was found burning secret documents.

Trade Employes Spies.

The premier gave details of how men employed by the trade delegation were also secret service agents engaged in communicating information and instructions from the Red International and Red Trade Unions to Communist organizations in England and America, all of most recent date. He quoted letters and documents showing, as he said, that Arcos, Ltd., and the trade delegation had been habitually used as a clearing house for subversive correspondence dealing with the "Hands Off China" movement, and the distribution of Communist propaganda in the United States.

The prime minister also disclosed arrangements for training Communist agitators on Arcos ships with a view to their subsequent employment on British ships. The evidence now in the hands of the British authorities, he said, proves that both military espionage and subversive activities throughout the British Empire and North and South America were directed and carried out from Soviet House, and that no effective differentiation of duty was observed as between the employes of Arcos and the trade delegation.

Borodin Soviet Agent.

He quoted from seized telegrams showing that despite Moscow's disavowals, Michael Borodin was temporarily acting as the Soviet agent in China, taking orders direct from Moscow, and was being recommended for appointment as the regular Soviet representative at Canton.

It was not always possible to gather from Premier Baldwin's remarks whether the documents quoted were obtained in the Arcos raid or otherwise, but one telegram, dated as late as April 13, was from the Soviet charge d'affaires in London to the foreign commissariat in Moscow, expressing disbelief that the London embassy would be raided, but advising as a precautionary measure the suspension of sending secret documents between Moscow and London.

There was no debate when the premier had concluded his important speech, but a few questions from Mr. Lloyd George, J. R. Clynes and others relating to printed information which the government promised should be given to the house as soon as possible. Mr. Baldwin added, however, that owing to their voluminous character these could not be ready by Thursday, when the house would debate Russian affairs.

Plied With Queries.

The prime minister was plied with questions by opposition members seeking further information, but he parried nearly all of them by asking that the members wait until Thursday's debate. In the parliamentary lobbies after the speech there was considerable reserve in commenting on the implications of the government's decision. Labor members and some of the liberals were far from convinced that the government was justified in going to the extreme length, and in some quarters there was even speculation as to whether the government contemplated appealing to the country on the Russian rupture.

The labor party has consistently denied the government any right to take such a momentous step without a mandate from the electors.

It was generally agreed in the various conversations that M. Briand's recent visit with President Doumergue to London had to deal with the change in British policy, since Sir Austen Chamberlain declared at the time of the last British protest to Moscow that rupture of relations might endanger the peace of Europe, perhaps the world.

No Worry Felt Here.

(By the Associated Press.)

Information obtained by the British Government in its raid on the soviet Russian headquarters in London, and found to be of interest to officials here, is understood to be in the possession of the Washington Government.

The State Department yesterday declined to comment on its nature but it was understood that it concerned activities in this country of secret agents of soviet Russia. The number and identity of the agents disclosed was not revealed, but it was believed that the department found no cause for alarm in the material it has received.

It was explained unofficially that Department of Justice agents have for some time completely identified and kept close watch on all representatives of Russia in this country, and it was believed that such documents as received from London added little information to that already held here.

Voice of Soviet Millions Demands Unyielding Stand

Moscow, May 24 (By A. P.).—In anticipation of a possible rupture of commercial relations with Great Britain, representative members of the Soviet press tonight insisted there would be no recession on the part of the Soviet government. The voice of millions of toilers, requiring their spokesmen to maintain an unyielding stand, it is declared, must be regarded as imperative.

It is maintained that the result of such a rupture would only mean the putting into operation of the Soviet commercial machinery in other countries, to Great Britain's detriment.

Pravda says: "The insolent violation of an international treaty must receive the answer it deserves. Let bourgeois politicians be informed that the union and its government, supported by millions of population, are strong enough not to brook insolence from any nation. Peasants and workers will rise like one to protect the government and give a mighty hand."

U. S. Approval Given To Bond for Huerta

Los Angeles, May 24 (By A. P.).—Bond of $5,000 for Adolfo de la Huerta, former Provisional President of Mexico, accused of violating the neutrality law of the United States, was approved today by David Head, Federal commissioner here.

The United States attorney's office said De la Huerta would not be taken into custody pending action at Tucson, Ariz., where complaint involving alleged attempts to send munitions of war into Mexico was filed against him and four others.

FIVE ANTISALOON LEAGUE FOUNDERS HOLD REUNION

FORMED 34 YEARS AGO

Oberlin, Ohio, May 24 (By A. P.).—A panorama of 34 years of warring against liquor was reviewed in memory today as five men, survivors of the original fourteen founders of the Antisaloon League of America met in reunion at "Old Speer library," at Oberlin College—the spot where they brought the league into being on May 24, 1893.

Their opposition to the saloon and all its attributes more firmly held with the increasing years, they came again late today to "Old Speer." There in the old family room they mused over the growth of their project from a mere handful of purposeful men to its present position of power in the political life of the nation.

For more than an hour they surrendered to memories among themselves alone and with all others excluded. And at the end of that time they retired to a dining room on the college campus where 25 invited guests awaited them around a memorial banquet table.

The five men are Dr. Howard Hyde Russell, of Westerville, Ohio, the man who first suggested the league and now its associate general superintendent; Prof. Asarhai S. Root, librarian of Oberlin College; Andrew G. Comings, an Oberlin bookseller; the Rev. Henry Tenney, of Webster Grove, Mo., and J. T. Henderson, president of Oberlin Business College.

Dr. Russell carried into the banquet room an old suitcase, termed the first "office" of the Antisaloon League. In it he kept the league's records in the days when, as a struggling infant, it had no home. The league's headquarters moved with Dr. Russell, and today the battered grip held an honored place as early history of the fight on the saloon was threshed over and over.

At the banquet the five founders issued a statement addressed to their "fellow countrymen," congratulating the Nation on the fact that Capt. Lindberg "won his big victory as an abstainer" and declaring "it is more and more clear in this era of high speed that booze is a back number."

"The whole booze traffic is stepping lively toward its doom," the message said. Felicitations were extended to economists, industrialists and social workers on their "agreement that the eighteenth amendment, where observed, has been very beneficial."

Party leaders were urged to see that the 1928 candidates of all parties "are well seasoned with platforms built of kiln-dried lumber."

WALL STREET NEWS BRIEFS

New York, May 24 (By A. P.).—Although stockholders of Seaboard Air Line have decreased to 2,767 from 3,100 in 1922, the report for last year gives no indication that actual control of the property is with any particular group. The twenty largest stockholders had 213,189 preferred and common shares, or 34.9 per cent of 609,505 voting shares. Both common and preferred have voting power. In 1922 the first twenty held 210,033 shares, or 34.4 per cent of the voting power. S. Davies Warfield, president, for years has been and is still the largest stockholder. The estate of Sidney Shepard is the second largest.

Canadian Bank Savings Deposits Break Record

March savings deposits in chartered banks of the Dominion of Canada showed an increase of $7,000,000 over February, a new high record for savings deposits in Canada, according to advices to the Department of Commerce yesterday from J. B. Richards, assistant trade commissioner at Toronto.

The increase, it was reported, was approximately $59,000,000 in advance of the deposits reported in March, 1926.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

New York, May 24 (By the Associated Press).—Trading in the curb market was on a broader scale today, and prices were irregular and higher, a few new lows for the year intermingling with a number of new maximums. The principal activity was in the industrial division, although public utility shares continued to give a good account of themselves.

Buying in various instances was based on special considerations, Vacuum Oil touching a new high on reports of a forthcoming stock dividend, and National Sugar Refining also reaching a new top on further reports of spreading flood damage in the "Sugar Bowl" region of Louisiana.

Numerous wide price fluctuations occurred among the industrials. Celanese of America jumped 7 points to a new high at 206, Deere & Co. touched 151, a new top, and closed at 146, a gain of nearly 5 points on the day. New peaks for the year also were established by Davega, Firestone Tire, International Cigar Machine and others, gains ranging from 1 to 2 points.

Pipe Line shares displayed strength, Buckeye touching a new 1927 top of 57 and Eureka selling up nearly 4 points. Oils generally, however, reflected doubt of the success of efforts to curtail production, which come to a climax in a meeting of oil executives here tomorrow.

Empire Power and New England Telephone & Telegraph were leaders in the public utility division, scoring gains of 2⅜ and 1¼ points, respectively.

Among the outstanding soft spots were Duz Co. certificates and Gorham, which sold down to new minimums at 5 and 37½, respectively. Johns Manville, Mead Johnson, Metropolitan Stores preferred and National Lead declined a point or so.

PHILADELPHIA MARKETS.

OATS—No. 2 white, 62¼@63¼.

POTATOES — White, 150-lb. sacks, 5.50; 120-lb. sacks, 4.40@4.75; South Carolina, bbl., No. 1, 7.75@8.00; No. 2, 4.50@5.00; Florida, bbl., No. 1, 8.00@8.50; No. 2, 5.00@5.50.

POULTRY—Dressed: Fresh killed, dry picked, in boxes, according to weight, 24@32.

Jack Wilhelm

clever young artist and cartoonist, has originated a rollicking new daily feature called

"Meet the Misses!"

It's all about girls—what they do, and say, and wear, and think. Modern girls. Real types. Mr. Wilhelm has captured them right from life. You'll recognize many of them—yourself, perhaps. This is unquestionably one of the most interesting and unique features of the season. FUNNY! Don't miss it.

Santa Fe Economy

Increases Capacity—Decreases Costs

Operating results on the Santa Fe for the year 1926 show, on the whole, substantial improvement over the year 1920 following Government control.

Revenue tons per train mile increased in 1926 to 709.70 tons from 569.21 in 1920.

Two Items of Economy in Operation Deserve Particular Attention:

FIRST is reduction of "loss and damage" freight.

In the year 1920 this totaled $2,817,596; in 1926, $1,350,429. If the rate of loss and damage in 1926 had been the same as in 1920 the total would have been $3,298,302, or 2.44 times as much as was the case. Loss and damage meetings devoted to careful study and instruction, the co-operation of all classes of employes handling freight, and better packing, marking and general co-operation by shippers have accomplished this saving.

SECOND is conservation of fuel.

In 1920 locomotive fuel cost the Santa Fe $28,372,475; in 1926 the cost was $22,604,116.

In 1920 the Santa Fe used 185 lbs. of fuel to move 1000 gross tons, excluding the locomotive, one mile in road service, and in 1926 it used 133 lbs., a saving of 52 lbs., or 28.11%.

In 1920 it used 16.4 lbs. to move a passenger car one mile, and in 1926 it used 13.6 lbs., the saving being 2.8 lbs., or 17.07%.

This conservation of fuel has been accomplished by a carefully worked out policy of

1. Lengthening locomotive runs, so less fuel is used in firing up and less time lost in cooling locomotives.
2. Reducing train delays.
3. Larger locomotives, bigger trains, and heavier carloads in which shippers have rendered very valuable aid.
4. Using the best fuel saving devices.
5. More scientific firing and handling of locomotives and trains by the men.

We Ask Your Continued Assistance in Meeting These Transportation Problems.

And we promise you our best efforts to render steadily improved service, although the Full Crew and Train Limit laws in some states limit greatly our possibilities for further economies.

W. B. STOREY, President

A BIGGER INCOME
We require several more salesmen and women, experienced or inexperienced, to work in Lee Heights, Washington's fastest growing subdivision. Beginners have free training and help in closing from experienced sales managers. In this way newcomers in the business often are able to make $200 to $300 a month even before they are qualified to take their own trips.
This may be your opportunity to enter a business in which the earnings are limited only by your own ability and energy. A high-class experienced, hard-working real estate salesman should average $500 to $1,000 a month. Investigate our proposition now at the beginning of the year's selling season. Call at 1405 New York avenue and ask for sales manager.

Nine Girls Graduated At Fairmont School

Graduation exercises for nine seniors of Fairmont School were held last night in the new home of the school, 1711 Massachusetts avenue northwest. Approximately 200 persons witnessed the exercises.

Dean William Allen Wilbur, of Columbian College, George Washington University, gave the graduation address. Edward L. Montgomery, principal, presented the diplomas. The graduates were: Mary Williams Perrin, president of the class; Maude Williams Perrin, Clara Louise Kessler, Marion Adler, Mildred Claster, Florence Siff, Merle Park, Hattie Hazel Wolff and Shirley Ollendorff. Mary Williams Perrin's name was engraved on a silver loving cup, a reward for being the best student. Mrs. Everett Randolph Wood, a member of the first graduating class in 1902, was presented to the assembly. Miss Judith Steele, first dean of the school, also was presented. The Rev. Edward B. Wilcox pronounced the benediction

DAYTIME BANDIT ROBS WITH CROWDS NEAR

The robber, meanwhile, had accomplished his purpose and disappeared in the crowd.

Downs told police the manager of the store and two other clerks had been gone only about five minutes when he heard a noise as if some one was tip-toeing in the rear of the store. Downs looked around but saw no one. The first intimation he had of the holdup, Downs told police, was when the man walked toward him in the front of the store. When about 10 feet away, the robber drew his pistol from under his coat.

Downs was locked in the store more than an hour. Police were first notified by Earl Smith, 26 years old, Downs' roommate, who lives above the store. Downs shouted to Smith and crashed a piece of plate glass on the floor to attract his attention. Downs was liberated by store officials, who were notified by police of the holdup.

CAPITAL PLANNERS ASK CONTROL OVER HIGHWAYS IN PARKS

Allied Groups Formally Request Military Road Be Turned Over.

PRIMARY STEP IS TAKEN IN FAR-REACHING MOVE

Transfer Needed if Scenic Drives Are to Be Realized, Is Claim.

Jurisdiction over those portions of Military road lying wholly within the limits of Rock Creek Park, is sought from the District Commissioners by the office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, the coordinating committee of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, recommending the turnover yesterday to the District Commissioners.

This is a step in a program whereby all thoroughfares in District parkways may be transferred from the jurisdiction of the District Commissioners to that of the office of Public Buildings and Public Parks. The thoroughfares involved in the proposed transfer are Broad Branch road, Tilden street and Klingle road.

Such a program will be necessitated eventually, it is believed, because numerous future parkways are now traversed by projected streets, and while these have not yet materialized their realization would mean intersection of parkways by regularly laid streets, preventing opportunity of establishing winding roads or artistic scenic driveways through future park areas.

Clear Path Seen.

No difficulties are anticipated by park and planning commission officials regarding such transfers now or in the future.

The coordinating committee is devoting considerable time to study of several changes in the highway plan with a view to recommending their adoption by the District Commissioners.

First among these is a proposal to eliminate Montello avenue northeast, north of Mount Olivet road, and effect certain slight changes in the alignment of Savannah street southeast, between Congress Heights and Pennsylvania avenue, in order to provide a through street paralleling Alabama avenue.

Idaho Avenue Changes.

Changes in Idaho avenue in the vicinity of the Bureau of Standards; in Fifteenth street and Montana avenue northeast, and in the vicinity of Fort Totten, northeast of the Soldiers' Home, are also under consideration.

Development of a section of Belmont road east of Connecticut avenue was approved by the committee, so that it may be thrown open to traffic. Committeemen expressed the opinion, however, that it should be a one-way street entering from Connecticut avenue.

It was explained that the District Highway Department will cooperate in development of this section by rounding the corners of Ashmead place and Belmont road.

Civitans to Observe Sixth Anniversary

The Civitan Club will celebrate its sixth anniversary tonight with a ladies' night at the Columbia Country Club.

The club was formed May 24, 1921, in the Shoreham Hotel and songs were sung in memory of the occasion yesterday at the luncheon held in the Lafayette Hotel. The past presidents of the club are Edward S. Brashears, Rudolph Jose, Clarence Harding, James M. Proctor, Luther C. Steward and Thomas M. Stearn. John N. Swartzell is the present president.

The club conducts the Civitan Juvenile Garden Club in Randle Highlands, which is worked by 50 boys each year. Prizes are awarded to the best gardener. The club also provides for three 4-year scholarships in George Washington University, and subscribes funds to the following each year: The Americanization school, the Dental Clinic in Children's Hospital, the Salvation Army Fresh Air Camp, and Gospel Mission.

Veterans of 1898 Will Honor Means

The United States Spanish war veterans of the District of Columbia will tender a banquet in honor of Senator Rice W. Means, commander in chief of the Spanish War Veterans, in the Willard Hotel ballroom tonight. Francis C. Huhn is chairman of the banquet.

Ambassador Oresta Ferrara and Consul Cayetano de Quesada, from Cuba; Maj. Gen. John Clem, Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, Brig. Gen. S. D. Rockenbach, Gen. John A. Lejeune, Col. Winfield Scott, Charles H. Rilley, George W. Phillips, Frank Hine, William S. Clime, Senator Smith W. Brookhart, Senator Walter E. Edge, Senator Frank L. Greene, Senator Robert B. Howell, Senator M. M. Neely, Senator Peter Norbeck, Senator Lawrence D. Tyson and James W. Wadsworth will be guests of honor. The Marine Band will furnish music.

Mount Alto Entertainment.

The American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold an entertainment program at Mount Alto Hospital tonight for the disabled veterans in the hospital. Charles Kohen has charge of the arrangements. A variety of songs and musical numbers have been arranged, including renditions by Miss Febe Gates, Joseph Di Meglio, Miss Aimee Steinmets and James A Barr, the Honolulans and the Griffith Variety Entertainers.

Wife Awarded Alimony and Child.

Mrs. Madeline Y. Mullen, wife of Andrew J. Mullen, was awarded a decree for a limited divorce yesterday by Justice Bailey in Equity Court on her charges of cruelty. The parties were married January 16, 1924. The decree grants Mrs. Mullen the custody of a minor child and $40 a month alimony. Attorney Godfrey L. Munter appeared for her.

Young Couple's Marriage Annulled.

Mrs. Rae Danehower Clark was awarded an interlocutory decree yesterday by Justice Siddons in Equity Court annulling her marriage of October 9, 1923, at Rockville, Md., to C. Abner Clark on her charges that they were both under age at that time. Attorney Henry M. Fowler appeared for Mrs. Clark.

Rockville Marriage Licenses.

Licenses have been issued in Rockville for the marriage of Richard W. Holmes, 22 years old, and Miss Marcella S. Ming, 28, both of Washington, and Joseph J. Crockett, 19, and Miss Edna Alberta Stewart, 18, both of Montgomery County.

Y. M. C. A. PLANS DRIVE FOR BIG MEMBERSHIP

Goal Will Be to Make It Wholly Self-Supporting, Leaders Assert.

2,800 ARE NOW AFFILIATED

The Washington Y. M. C. A. will seek to increase its membership greatly during the ensuing fiscal year, under plans adopted last night at the annual meeting of the association's membership committee in the Central Building, 1736 G street.

A drive for "summer memberships" will be launched at once and a concerted effort also will be made to interest more business and professional men in the "business membership" class, it was stated. It is the object of the committee to put the association on a self-supporting basis through its paid-up memberships. Total membership of the "Y" on May 1 was 2,800, according to C. E. Fleming, secretary of the committee.

New officers of the committee were elected as follows: Guy Lane, vice chairman; Fred Nettleship, treasurer, and Mr. Fleming, secretary. The chairman of the committee will be announced by the board of governors.

The business session followed a dinner in the assembly hall of the Y. M. C. A. Building.

The following were announced as members of the committee for the new association year: R. N. Ashman, Dr. A. B. Bennett, Z. D. Blackistone, S. Hazen Bond, R. L. Bradshaw, J. W. Burch, K. C. Buker, Dr. E. M. Ellison, Ray Ferguson, Leo A. Finn, Charlie S. Flynn, J. A. Foute, T. L. Frailey, Victor J. Garland, Harold Graves, S. D. Hanson, John W. Hardell, Charles V. Imlay, Glenn L. 10,000 IRIS BLOOMS SHOWN AT CARLTON

1,000 Visit Exhibition Given by Flower Societies; Prizes Are Awarded.

Approximately 10,000 Iris blooms are on display at the annual Iris show, which opened yesterday afternoon at the Carlton Hotel under joint auspices of the National Capital Dahlia and Iris Society and the American Iris Society. Before the doors closed at 10 o'clock last night about 1,000 persons visited the show. Twenty-five persons have exhibits.

E. W. Sheets was awaded first prize, H. H. Simpson, of Rosslyn, Va., second prize, and J. M. R. Adams, third. Walter Reed Hospital sent a large display which received honorable mention. The judges were Mrs. John Love, of Ardmore, Pa.; V. Y. Morrison and C. F. Gersdorff.

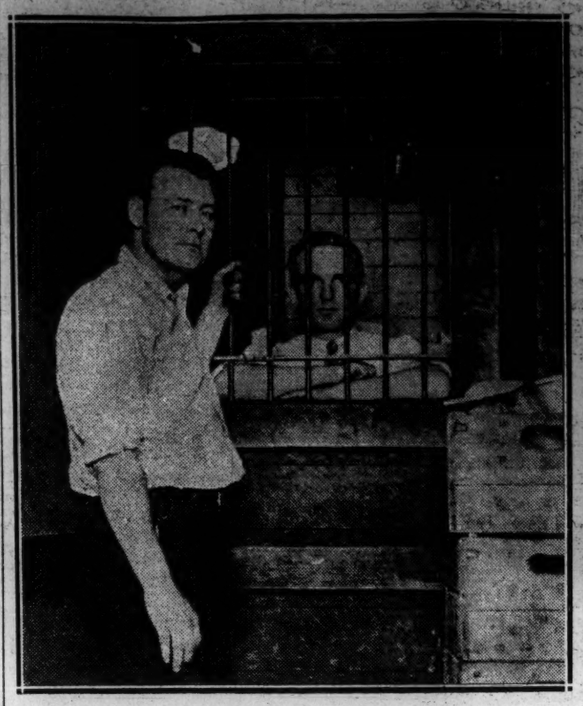

The committee in charge of the show includes E. W. Sheets, J. M. R. Adams, Mrs. George Rutley, L. W. Holland and Arthur H. Scott. Mrs. John Ihlder and Mrs. R. W. Dunlap are patonesses. The show will be open until 10 o'clock tonight.

Wider Benning Road Again Sought by City

The District Commissioners yesterday began second condemnation proceedings for the widening of Benning road northeast, from Fifteenth and H streets to Oklahoma avenue. The road is now 45 feet wide and it is planned to widen it to 110 feet. The land needed for the widening will be taken from the north side of the road. That includes part of the territory now occupied by the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railway Co. as a passenger and freight station.

About ten years ago the Commissioners brought condemnation proceedings to widen this road but were met with considerable opposition from the objecting property owners. The car tracks will have to be moved to the middle of the road.

WHITE HOUSE TIMBER DISPOSAL IS PROBLEM

Must Be Given to Government Branch, Semipublic Institution or Auctioned.

President Coolidge and Attorney General Sargent will be consulted on disposal of old White House timber left over from the roof and third story repair work, Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director, Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, announced yesterday.

Three ways of disposal of old unusable Government property are open, donation to a branch of the Government, a semi-public institution, or sale at public auction. Not a splinter of historic timber may be given to an individual, organization or commercial firm, in spite of numerous requests.

The wood is wanted for historical as well as business reasons. It is desired for gavels and, because it has withstood the test of time, is wanted for advertising purposes. If the timber is sold, it will probably go in small quantities to affect the wholesale souvenir salesmen's plans.

Lieutenant Sullivan Becomes Fire Captain

Lieut. Jeremiah Sullivan was promoted to a captaincy in the Fire Department yesterday by the commissioners on recommendation of George S. Watson, chief engineer of the Fire Department.

Sergt. G. C. Kletcher was made lieutenant to fill the vacancy, and Private N. S. Bradford was moved up to sergeant.

Divorce Bill Is Dismissed.

Railway Efficiency Called Highest Ever

Railroads have attained the greatest efficiency in transportation service ever realized in this country, R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railway Association, stated at the opening session of the joint annual convention of the Air Brake and the Air Brake Appliance associations in the Mayflower Hotel yesterday.

The high development of the air brake is greatly responsible for the speeding up of the service, he stated, adding that "practically every factor used to measure the efficiency of railroad operation shows an improvement so far this year as compared with preceding years."

Mrs. Louise Worrell Wins Divorce.

Mrs. Louise Worrell was awarded an interlocutory decree for absolute divorce yesterday by Justice Bailey in Equity Court against John T. Worrell. The parties were married April 18, 1918. Attorney Raymond Neudecker appeared for Mrs. Worrell.

CITIZENS ARE URGED TO MARK FLAG SESQUI

Commissioners Proclaim Duty of All to Honor Event on June 14.

The District Board of Commissioners yesterday issued a proclamation asserting the duty and privilege of all citizens to display the national colors at their homes and places of business June 14, the sesquicentennial of the adoption of the United States flag.

A contract was awarded to Skinker & Garrett for erection of a combined gymnasium and assembly hall at the Petworth school, to cost $38,945.

The following streets, all in the Northwest section, were ordered resurfaced—Third street between H and K streets, S street from Florida avenue to Phelps place, Thirtieth street from the canal to M street, and Randolph street between Fifth and Seventh streets.

Relatives Seek Man Missing for Week

Relatives are anxiously seeking Robert Granville Nelson, 25 years old, 604 Fifth street northeast, who left home Thursday and has not since been heard from, according to a communication received by The Post yesterday.

Mrs. Nelson declared her husband left home to go to work Thursday morning. He has not been seen since and relatives fear for his safety, it is said.

Pupils Asked to Give Flowers for Graves

The school children of Washington were asked to donate flowers with which to decorate the graves of soldiers, sailors and marines on Memorial Day, in a communication sent to school principals yesterday by Harry O. Hine, secretary of the Board of Education.

The children were asked to take the flowers to their schools Friday. The flowers then will be collected by eleven Army, Navy and Marine Corps trucks and taken to Arlington and other cemeteries. On Memorial Day, Monday, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will put the flowers on the graves. The veterans' committee is in charge of William F. Franklin and Charles Cherry.

WMAL TO GET NEW WAVE; POWER CUT IS ORDERED

AN APPEAL IS INDICATED

The outstanding casualty which Washington will suffer in the big shakeup in the reallocation of wave length and power to take place among the radio broadcasting stations of the country next June 1, will be borne by station WMAL, owned and operated by the M. A. Leese Co., which has been assigned a less desirable wave length in addition to having its power cut.

The official Washington reallocations will be as follows:

Station—	Wave lengths in meters. New.	Old.	Power in watts. New.	Old.
WRC.....	468.5	468.5	500	1,000
WMAL....	228.9	293.9	100	150
WRHF....	319.0	256.3	50	50

Although those in charge of WMAL declined to comment on the situation, it was learned that they very likely will ask the Federal Radio Commission to reconsider their case inasmuch as the station had requested that their power be increased to 500 watts and that they be given a wave length not lower than 275 meters.

Their argument was that station WRC frequently was tied up with New York programs and had not enough time available to take care of local features. It was said this was the case when WMAL broadcast the proceedings of the D. A. R. convention, the Knights of Columbus dinner and other occasions recently. Also WMAL broadcast the speech of President Coolidge before the American Medical Association when WRC was unable to handle it.

Station WRHF, operated by the Washington Radio Hospital fund, will be given a better wave length but only on condition that it broadcast in daylight hours only. This will work no hardship, inasmuch as that is the only time it has been in the habit of broadcasting.

While the power of WRC will be cut from 1,000 to 500 watts, the cut will be largely theoretical inasmuch as the station has never used more than 750 watts, if that. Of late it is understood to have been using only a trifle more than 500 watts. In limiting the power of WRC to 500 watts, the commission simply will be consistent with the new policy which will generally reduce the power of stations in all residential districts to 500 watts. The wave length of WRC remains the same.

New Cutter to Arrive In Capital Friday

The new Coast Guard cutter Northland will arrive here Friday for inspection by officers of the Coast Guard and Treasury officials, it was announced at Coast Guard headquarters yesterday.

The vessel will be inspected at 10 o'clock Saturday morning by a party composed of Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, Assistant Secretaries Andrews and Dewey, Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the Coast Guard, and Lieut. Comdr. Stephen S. Yeandle, aid to the commandant. After a stay here of about eight days the new cutter will sail for the Pacific Coast, and some time in June will sail for the Arctic to replace the famous cutter Bear in the Bering Sea patrol.

Marriage Annulled, Fraud Charged.

Mrs. Elizabeth T. Baxter, 807 Mount Vernon place northwest, was awarded an interlocutory decree yesterday by Chief Justice McCoy in Equity Court annulling her marriage of June 7, 1924, to Frank H Baxter on the ground of fraud. A child born of the marriage is declared legitimate by the decree, and Mrs. Baxter is allowed to continue to use the name of Baxter. Attorney Lowry N. Coe appeared for her.

D. H. Foster Granted Divorce.

David H. Foster, 1913 M street northwest, was awarded an interlocutory decree for absolute divorce yesterday by Justice Bailey in Equity Court against Mrs. Marie Foster, whom he married June 8, 1918. Attorneys Hawken & Havell appeared for him.

P. B. Turpin Estate, $19,500.

Perry B. Turpin, who died April 10, left personal property valued at $19,500, according to the petition for letters testamentary filed yesterday in probate court by his widow, Mrs. Sallie W. Turpin, who is named executrix in the will.

PARK BOARD FIGHT ON PRESENT FALLS POWER PLAN SEEN

May Agree to Compromise Eliminating Proposed Plant Above Chain Bridge.

MEMBERS TO CONSIDER PROJECT NEXT MONTH

Reaction Expected Over Bell's Fear of Jeopardizing the Boulevard Program.

Opposition to private development of a hydroelectric power project on the Potomac River or a compromise involving elimination of its projected dam and power plant above Chain Bridge was predicted yesterday as the reaction of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission to the warning of District Engineer Comissioner Bell, who fears that the power plans will jeopardize possible developemnt of the valley for parks and scenic driveways.

Saying the project had become known since the last meeting of the commission, May 9, and would not be considered until its meetings next month, officials of the commission explained yesterday that the question to be decided was whether the advantage of greater water power would offset the value of scenic development plans.

They predicted that the commission would preserve the plan of scenic development to the point of Great Falls at least, and might effect a compromise permitting retention of the projected power plant at Great Falls but elimination of one above Chain Bridge. The power project involves three plants, one to be located above Great Falls, which, it was explained, would not affect the scenic beauty of the falls, one above Chain Bridge, which would interfere to a certain extent with development plans in that locality, and a third at Harpers Ferry.

In view of the fact that the gorge of the Potomac River between here and Great Falls is a portion of the valley which possesses the greatest scenic value in immediate park and boulevard developemnt plans of the commission, relocation of the Chain Bridge plant may assist the compromise plan, but opposition to the entire project is not improbable.

Sees Scenery Jeopardized.

Lieut. Col. J. Franklin Bell, Engineer Commissioner, in a letter to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission yesterday, expressed the fear that granting of the recent request of the Potomac River Corporation for a permit for a hydroelectric plant near Great Falls might jeopardize plans for a boulevard along the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal from Washington to Cumberland.

He asked the commission to assume responsibility and press the next Congress for authority to have a legal and engineering survey made. Col. Bell's letter said, in part:

"I am not interested whether the power resources of the Potomac River and its tributaries be developed by the Government or private capital, but we are vitally interested in preserving the possibilities of parks, parkways and boulevards all the way from the District of Columbia to the mountains.

"I am afraid that acquisition of certain rights in that valley by a power company would jeopardize the possibility of developing the valley in the proper way for our purposes.

"We also need to protect the water rights for the people of the future. Nothing should be done at this time that would jeopardize the national interests, and the proposition to acquire the rights of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal and make a comprehensive engineering and legal examination of the whole valley should be pressed at the next session of Congress.

"As I am leaving here shortly, I have left the information I have gathered in the hands of Maj. W. E. R. Covell, but it is up to the Park and Planning Commission to assume the responsibility in this regard."

Majority of Citizens Fight One-Man Cars

The verdict of the citizens' associations thus far has been overwhelmingly against extension of the use of one-man street cars, it was announced yesterday at the office of the Public Utilities Commission.

Several weeks ago the commission issued a circular letter to citizens' associations asking whether they preferred more one-man cars or an increase of carfare. The communication was sent to more than 150 organizations. Yesterday only seventeen had responded. Three of these favored one-man cars. Fourteen were against more one-man cars.

Apartment Buildnig Is Sold for $325,000

Sale of the West View apartment building, 2123 H street northwest, was announced yesterday by the office of McKeever & Goss, Inc. The building was sold for a local investor to Roger J. Whiteford, attorney. Price for the property was said to be $325,000.

An eight-story structure, of steel and brick construction, the West View was built less than three years ago, and contains 87 apartments of one, two and three rooms, kitchen and bath, and is modernly appointed throughout. Mr. Whiteford, it was said will hold the property as an investment.
